

2012 Specialisation - Vietnamese

WHY VIETNAMESE?

Vietnam has a rich history and culture, and is also an emerging economy with strong ties to Australia. Vietnamese language skills are in demand in many areas such as teaching, tourism, international trade, community-related work and international projects.

The Vietnamese specialisation, which consists of different levels and focuses, is designed for both beginners and native speakers, and also for students who are only interested in studying Vietnamese culture and society without the language component.

Guidelines for students who commence their course from 2010 onwards

To complete this specialisation, students are required to complete SIX (6) units of study from the list below, including the two compulsory units ACV3001 and ACV3002 (listed in bold).

Guidelines for students who commenced their course prior to 2010

To complete this specialisation (formerly known as major), students are required to complete EIGHT (8) units of study from the list below, including the two compulsory units ACV3001 and ACV3002 (listed in bold).

All students should consult their course structure to determine if specific units from the 'Other Specialisation' list should be undertaken to satisfy the requirements of their degree.
