

Clinical and Community Health Faculty Research Unit

Recent Publications

Carolan, M. (2011). The good midwife: Commencing students' views. Midwifery, 27, 503-508.

Carolan, M., Davey, M.A., Biro, M.A., & Kealy, M. (2011): Older maternal age and intervention in Labor: A population-based study comparing older and younger first-time mothers in Victoria, Australia. Birth, 38, 24-29.

Carolan, M., & Kruger, G. (2011). Undertaking midwifery studies: Commencing students' views. Midwifery, 27, 642-647.

Farrell, M.J., Baldwin, I., & Fealy, N. (2011). Postgraduate nurses' use of personal digital assistants in critical care. Electronic Journal of Health Informatics, 6(3), 1-8.

Frankowska, D., & Wiechula, R. (2011). Women's experience of becoming caregivers to their ill partners: Gadamerian hermeneutics. Australian Journal of Primary Health, 17(1), 48-53.

Heslop, L. (2011). E-Health Strategies including knowledge acquisition and management of professional nursing practice in acute health services Electronic Journal of Health Informatics 6(3), e20.

Heslop, L., & Raikundalia, G. (2011). Enhancing clinical nurse workflow through redesign of networked wireless laptop computers. Electronic Journal of Health Informatics, 6(3), e25.

Kerr, D., Lu, S., McKinlay, L., & Fuller C. (2011). Examination of current handover practice: evidence to support changing the ritual. International Journal of Nursing Practice, 17, 342-350.

McCann, T. V., Lubman, D., & Clark, E., (2011) First-time primary caregivers' experience of caring for young adults with first-episode psychosis. Schizophrenia Bulletin, 37(2), 381-388.

McCann, T. V., Lubman, D., & Clark, E., (2011) Responding to stigma: First-time primary caregivers of young people with first-episode psychosis. Psychiatric Services, 62, 548-550.

McCann, T. V., Lubman, D., & Clark, E., (2011) First-time primary caregivers' experience accessing first-episode psychosis services. Early Intervention in Psychiatry. 5, 156-162.