Caution: This Handbook provides a guide to courses available within the Faculty of Arts at the University in 2004. The Handbook cannot hope to cover all of the various options adequately, although it attempts to be as accurate as possible, and students should always check with the relevant faculty or school officers in planning their courses. The Handbook also includes descriptions of courses that may be altered later or that may not in fact be offered due to insufficient enrolments or changes in teaching personnel. The fact that details of a course are included in the Handbook can in no way be taken as creating an obligation on the part of the University, faculty or school to teach it in any given year, or to teach it in the manner described. The University reserves the right to discontinue or vary courses at any time without notice.

How to use this book

Welcome to the Faculty of Arts Handbook 2004. The Handbook is designed to provide students with detailed information on course structure, subject content, on-campus facilities and University regulations and procedures required for the successful completion of study.

The General Information section answers some frequently asked questions about how an Arts degree actually works, including how to plan your major areas of study, and what kind of jobs an Arts degree can lead to.

The Undergraduate Studies section outlines the structure and requirements of all the undergraduate courses offered by the Faculty of Arts. These courses are grouped together under Generalist Degree programs, Specialist Degree programs; Combined Degree programs and Honours programs. The course outlines are followed by a description of all undergraduate majors offered within each of these courses. Subject details are then listed in alpha-numeric order.

The Postgraduate Studies section provides some general information about studying a higher degree by research. This is followed by an outline of each of the coursework postgraduate programs offered by the Faculty of Arts. Postgraduate programs are listed in alphabetical order according to their area of study. Subject details are then listed in alpha-numeric order.

The back section of the Handbook includes useful information about articulation and credit transfer, recognition of prior learning, admission and enrolment procedures and services available to students.

Handbook on the web

A database containing all course information in this handbook is on the University's website at: www.vu.edu.au.

Credit Points

Victoria University of Technology has a credit points system in which each subject is given a value according to its academic weighting. To complete each year of a course, students must complete subjects to the value of 120 points. For more information on credit points, see the Admissions, Enrolment and Academic Procedure and Regulations section in the back of this handbook.

Please Note

Students’ and prospective students’ attention is drawn to the possibility that due to circumstances that cannot be foreseen, the details of the programs, courses and subjects set out in this handbook might change after the date of publication. Accordingly, before final decisions are made or enrolments occur based on information contained in the Handbook, each student or prospective student should contact the Faculty Executive Officer on (03) 9385 2369 to ensure that the pertinent information is still accurate.
Faculty of Arts

An Arts degree is central to the development of civil society. The Arts degree remains one of the more popular degrees in Australian universities, with 27 per cent of undergraduates enrolled in degrees in the Arts, Social Sciences and Humanities at every one of the nation’s 39 universities. The Arts degree at Victoria University is distinctive amid this offering.

At Victoria University, we put an emphasis on good teaching, backed by up-to-date research and a passion about the communities we serve. We teach a broad sweep of the humanities (history, literary studies, cultural studies, foreign languages, multimedia, gender studies) and also the social sciences (psychology, social work, sociology, political science, community development).

Our students excel at what they do: they are adaptive, resilient, good team players, skilled communicators, culturally aware, and ready to take a leadership role in addressing the very real issues and problems that face the world.

The School of Communication, Culture and Languages focuses on the development of new communication technologies and how these call into question how we understand cultural identity, gender relations, and the construction of community. Major areas offered by the Department include Advanced English for Speakers of Other Languages, Chinese, Communication Studies, Computer Mediated Art, Cultural Studies, Gender Studies, Japanese, Literary Studies, Media Studies, Multimedia, Professional Writing, Public Relations, Spanish and Vietnamese.

The School of Psychology focuses on psychological theory and practice and how they offer valuable insights into how we help people in distress, grief, or simply in search of a more fulfilling life. Contemporary psychology is a flexible and adaptive discipline which is open to cultural difference and the personal politics of social change. Major areas offered by the Department include Organisational Studies, Psychosocial Studies, Psychology, Counselling and Social Research Methods.

The School of Social Sciences focuses on human settlements as both geographical expressions and social entities and examines how they are held together by rules and conventions, partly enforceable by the rule of law and partly understood as the force of custom. It focuses on the tasks that we undertake together, such as child protection, building design and physical infrastructure provision, which require us to learn important professional skills, notably in community development and social work. It looks at the bringing of physical and social planning together to improve the overall quality of community life. The Asia Pacific societies are undergoing dramatic change as they deal with the highly globalising conditions of the 21st century. The civilisations and traditions of the region are challenged in this globalising context. Major areas offered by the School include Asian Studies, Community Development, Globalisation Studies, History, Histories of the Present, Human Services, Policy Studies, Political Science, Social Work, Sociology, Sociology of the Asia-Pacific.

Planning an Arts Degree: How does it work?

Which Arts degree should I choose?
The Faculty of Arts offers a wide variety of Arts degrees ranging from our generalist programs to our more specialist programs in Advocacy and Mediation, Asian Studies, Community Development, Computer Mediated Art, Multimedia, Legal Studies, Public Relations, Human Services, Globalisation Studies, Social Work and the Bachelor of Psychology and Bachelor of Science (Psychology). The Faculty also offers joint-degree courses which offer combined studies in Arts and Business, and Arts and Law, and which are designed to provide graduates for emerging opportunities in Australia's changing economy. Students can combine their studies in Asian Studies with either International Trade or Tourism Management and studies in Communication Studies, Professional Writing, and Psychology with studies in Information Systems. A combined degree in Psychology and Human Resource Management is also on offer.

So which course is the right one for you? For some the choice will be relatively easy. For instance if you are interested in a career in Public Relations, then you would choose the Bachelor of Communication (Public Relations) degree.

For others, however, the decision will not seem so clear. When choosing your course you need to think about what subjects you think you may enjoy and your own personal career goals and ambitions. Experience shows that students with a genuine interest in a particular area will always perform well, so be sure to choose a course that most interests you.

Some professions, such as psychology, will also require you to complete specific subjects in order to be professionally recognised, so you need to be aware of these types of requirements if you have a certain career path in mind. Many postgraduate courses will also have specific entry requirements, so you need to be aware of these types of requirements if you have a certain career path in mind. Many postgraduate courses will also have specific entry requirements, so you may well need to think ahead when choosing your undergraduate course.

We advise you to read closely the information contained in this handbook so you can familiarise yourself with our courses and subjects, so you can then make an informed decision about your future.

What subjects can I study?
If you are undertaking one of the specialist programs, then you will normally be required to complete a major study in a particular area. For example, if you are enrolled in the Bachelor of Arts in Multimedia you will be required to undertake a major in Multimedia. The joint degrees, together with the Bachelor of Social Work, Bachelor of Science (Psychology), Bachelor of Communication (Public Relations) and the Bachelor of Arts (Computer Mediated Art) are also relatively structured. In the first year of most courses students will also normally be required to complete a foundation type subject which is designed to equip students with research skills and techniques.

Most of the courses that we offer however are extremely flexible and students will have a wide range of interdisciplinary subjects to choose from within the humanities and social sciences. Students are also able to undertake subjects from other Faculties, with the permission of the relevant Course Co-ordinator. Students have a choice of the following undergraduate majors within the Faculty of Arts (see subject descriptions for subject syllabus):

What is a major?
All of the BA courses require students to complete at least two majors. A major refers to six sequential subjects within the one discipline. This means for example that if you want to obtain a major in Professional Writing you would be required to complete a specified Professional Writing subject each semester for three years.

What is an elective?
An elective normally refers to a subject of your choice that is outside your chosen majors.

Can I study Arts subjects from another campus of the University?
Students may study Arts subjects that are taught at another campus of the University, with the permission of their Course Co-ordinator. You should refer to the requirements of your particular course, to find out how many subjects you may undertake outside your own campus. When choosing inter-campus subjects, you need to take into consideration travel time between campuses and must ensure that your timetable does not clash. You should contact the Faculty of Arts office for enrolment procedures.

Can I study subjects from another Faculty within the University?
Students may study subjects that are offered in another Faculty of the University, with the permission of their Study Advisor and the other Faculty. Many students for example, undertake Economics, Tourism, Information Technology, Drama and Recreation as part of their courses. If you are undertaking outside subjects you will need to ensure that your timetable does not clash. You should contact the Faculty of Arts office for enrolment procedures. Please note that you are only permitted to enrol in a maximum of six subjects outside the Faculty of Arts.

Can I study subjects from another University?
Students may apply to undertake subjects at another University, if that subject is not offered at Victoria University. This is referred to as complementary enrolment. You must obtain written permission from the Faculty of Arts before you can apply to the other Institution. If you intend undertaking a complementary enrolment you are required to submit a copy of your results to the appropriate Faculty office at the end of each semester, in order to receive credit.
for your studies. If you are wishing to apply for complementary enrolment at another University you will need to contact the other institution for enrolment procedures. Please note that most Universities have specific closing dates for complementary enrolments, so you should contact the relevant institution well in advance. When choosing complementary subjects, you need to take into consideration travel time between the two institutions and ensure your timetable does not clash. Under a new agreement signed by all Victorian Universities all languages are available to students from across the State.

How many class contact hours will I have?
At first year level most students undertaking a BA degree on a full-time basis will normally have approximately 12-16 hours a week of class contact hours. Depending on the subjects you enrol in, these classes will normally take the form of lectures, tutorials, seminars and perhaps laboratories and practical classes. You are expected to dedicate at least 15-20 hours per week to personal study in addition to your class contact hours.

How long can I take to complete my degree?
The normal duration of a BA degree is three years full-time, whilst the normal duration for a joint degree is four years full-time. You may however undertake some or all of your course part-time. You may also take leave of absence from your course, for a specified period. You must however normally complete your degree within ten years from the commencement of your initial enrolment.

Can I study part-time?
Students may enrol on a part-time basis. In order to be enrolled part-time, you must be enrolled in subjects with equivalent of less than 44 credit points per semester. At first year level that means undertaking one or two subjects compared to the four subjects taken by full-time students. Part-time students should note that only a select number of subjects will offer evening classes, and you should be aware that the majority of subjects are taught during the day.

Can I receive credit for previous study?
Students who have previously obtained passes in subjects at tertiary level may be eligible for exemptions from some subjects within their chosen degree. You cannot be granted exemptions for VCE or community education subjects. All applications for exemption must be accompanied by appropriate evidence of results (e.g. official academic transcript) and course details (e.g. subject details from a University handbook). You may receive either matched exemption (i.e. exemptions for which there are equivalent subjects in the relevant degree) or unmatched exemptions (i.e. exemptions for which there are no equivalent subjects in the relevant degree.) Each case will be examined on its own merit.

Can I change my subjects?
Students have the option to change their subjects until the end of the second week in a semester. Enrolment amendment forms must be lodged at the relevant Faculty of Arts office before March 31 for Semester 1 and August 31 for Semester 2.

Can I defer from my course?
Students may be granted a 12-month deferment prior to the commencement of their course. You should check with the relevant faculty office to determine whether deferment is permitted for your particular course. This means that your place in the course will be kept for a maximum of twelve months. Deferment is only granted for 12 months. If you wish to extend your deferment you will need to re-apply for admission to your course. If you are wishing to defer you should contact the relevant Faculty of Arts office for application details after receiving an offer of a place. Deferment will not be granted on the grounds that you wish to undertake another course.

Can I take leave of absence from my course?
Continuing students may be granted a period of 12 months leave of absence from their course with the permission of their Course Co-ordinator. Application forms are available from each of the Faculty of Arts offices and should be lodged before March 31 for Semester 1 and August 31 for Semester 2.

What if I have difficulty with my course?
The University understands the transition to University life for some students is often difficult and has therefore established several support mechanisms. If you are having difficulties with the academic content of your course, or are experiencing personal problems that are affecting your studies, then you should contact either your Study Advisor or a member of the Faculty office. Students are encouraged to lodge an application for Special Consideration, if they have experienced severe medical or personal problems throughout the semester.

If you are having difficulties with your studies you may contact any of the following units for additional support:
- Student Learning Unit;
- Student Representative Council (SRC);
- Student Union;
- Student Services.

Academic Progress
If the Faculty believes that you are at risk of failing to meet the academic requirements of your course, then you may be invited to informally discuss your progress at any time during a semester.

At the end of each semester the Faculty will check the academic progress of each enrolled student. The following will constitute grounds upon which you may be deemed to be making Unsatisfactory Progress:
- if you fail 50% or more of the assessed enrolment load in any one semester;
- if you have failed a subject for the third time;
- if you have transgressed a conditional enrolment agreement.

If you do not meet the academic progression requirements of your course then the Faculty may ask you to lodge a submission in which you have to ‘show cause’ as to why you should not be excluded from the course and to appear before the Faculty Progress Committee. This committee will then reach a decision which permits you to either:
- continue in the course without conditions;
- continue in the course under special conditions;
- withdraw from the course;
- take leave of absence for up to one year.

Alternatively the Faculty Progress Committee may recommend to Academic Board that you be excluded from the course or suspended from the course for a specified period of time.

Careers for Arts Graduates
One of the most common questions asked by students is What job can I get if I do an Arts degree? Unlike some of the more specific undergraduate degree courses, such as Business or Engineering, where the career path seems more clear cut, prospective students cannot always see where an Arts degree is going to lead them.

Of course many students embarking on Arts degrees do have specific career goals in mind such as psychology, social work, town planning, teaching, public administration, the media, librarianship and other professions. However, regardless of whether or not you have a preferred career path, an Arts degree can provide you with a very broad range of skills which will enable you to embark on a wide range of careers.

Employers are not necessarily concerned about the subjects you have chosen, but rather the skills you have developed. In a recent survey of graduate employers, the top five skills and attributes mentioned as important were communication skills, ability to work effectively as part of a team, analysis and research, writing skills and flexibility in approach – all skills which can be developed effectively in the process of completing an Arts degree. Many of the types of jobs now existing will be changed by technology over your working life. The skills you develop as an Arts student will be the foundation for you to move through quite different careers. Australia is increasingly a services economy, a nation whose highly trained professionals have skills in demand worldwide.

To give you some idea of the wide range of positions an Arts degree can lead to, we have listed some of the areas in which some of our past graduates have worked in:

• Red Cross field officer in Cambodia;
• Diplomatic Service;
• Manager of a regional office of a State Government agency;
• VCE Co-ordinator at a secondary school;
• Lecturer in a university;
• Public Relations officer in a local council;
• Vocational counsellor in a prison;
• Crisis counsellor for an ethnic community association;
• Management consultant in human services;
• Disability support officer in a State government department;

Bachelor of Arts
(Footscray Park)

Course Code: ABHC
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description and Objectives
Graduates of this Bachelor of Arts course will have:

• a grounding in one or more academic disciplines, which in addition to their interdisciplinary training, provides a basis for further studies towards professional qualifications in such fields as teaching, librarianship, community or social work, or further academic studies towards a higher degree;
• a critical understanding of the concept of culture and the insights it provides into the similarities and differences amongst human beings, their behaviour and communication with each other, and the meanings they attach to their collective lives;
• knowledge and understanding of Australian society and culture, both historical and contemporary; an appreciation of the structure of Australian society, the differences amongst the various groups of which it is constituted, and the issues of equity which it presents;
• experience with first hand research, a familiarity with research resources and methods, and a range of adaptable analytic and research skills, particularly as can be applied to issues of culture and communication in Australia.

Course Duration
Three years full-time or part-time equivalent.

Course Requirements
To be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts students must have successfully completed a total of 360 credit points. All first year undergraduate Arts subjects are worth 15 credit points. All second and third year undergraduate Arts subject are worth 20 credit points (including any first year subjects taken at second and third year). Subjects chosen from other Faculties will be deemed equivalent to these values. Full-time students will normally complete an average of 60 credit points each semester.

In addition students must satisfy the following requirements:
• complete twenty semester-length subjects;
• complete two approved majors (at least one must be an Arts major);
• complete two first year foundation subjects;

No more than 10 first year subjects can be counted towards the 20 subjects required for the degree. Students must complete two majors. At least one major must be an Arts major. Students must complete at least 14 Arts subjects. Students can normally only undertake a maximum of six subjects outside the Faculty of Arts.

Subjects Offered
Students undertaking the Bachelor of Arts at the Footscray Park campus have a wide choice of subjects. Subjects include History, Histories of the Present, Literary Studies, Cultural Studies, Communication Studies, Advanced English for Speakers of other Languages, Sociology, Social Research Methods, Asian Studies, Chinese, Japanese, Vietnamese and Political Science.

Students may also undertake subjects offered at the St Albans campus including Communication Studies, Professional Writing, Psychology, Spanish, Gender Studies, Sociology (of the Global South or Policy Studies), Literary Studies, Social Research Methods, Organisational Studies, Media Studies, Psychosocial Studies.

Students may also undertake subjects at other Universities with the permission of their Study Advisor.

Career Prospects
The Bachelor of Arts degree offered on the Footscray Park campus is of particular value to intending students seeking careers in teaching, the public service, librarianship, social work and community affairs and positions which bring them into contact with people from a range of cultural groups.

In combination with History or Literary Studies, it is a suitable preparation for teaching English as well as social sciences. In combination with Sociology, it provides a suitable preparation for students intending to work in community organisations or with migrant groups and workers. A LOTE, which may be taken up to a major level within the degree, will further enhance its usefulness in these areas of employment.

Graduates of an advanced language stream will be eligible, after completing a Diploma of Education, to enter secondary teaching as a teacher of the language they have studied. In addition, Cultural Studies will enable them to teach social studies while a carefully selected third study area in the Bachelor of Arts will give them a third teaching subject. Graduates will also be qualified to enter the public service. Some graduates may wish to proceed to postgraduate studies in translating and interpreting, librarianship, or public relations, where language skills will be invaluable.

Graduates with a major or sub-major in beginners’ language units will be eligible, after completing a Diploma of Education, to enter secondary teaching as teachers of social studies and the third subject... area which they studied in their degree. They will not be sufficiently fluent to become teachers of the language, but they have skills that will be of general use in schools with a multicultural population. These graduates will also be qualified to enter careers in the public service or community affairs.

Admission Requirements
Satisfactory completion of Year 12 or equivalent with a grade average of D in English. Applicants may also apply on an Alternative Category Entry basis. Please refer to the Admissions, Enrolment and Academic Procedures and Regulations section in the back of this handbook, and the VTAC Guide for details.

Bachelor of Arts (St Albans)
Course Code: ABXM
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
The Bachelor of Arts is a three-year degree which provides a general education in the humanities and social sciences. Students choose to specialise in two or more major areas of study and also choose from a range of electives or options and construct a course which meets their individual interests and career aspirations.

Course Objectives
The course will enable students to experience a range of educational processes and curricula which will best equip them for entry into a workforce in which there are likely to be significant career changes over their work life, in terms of which they will need effective intellectual, analytical and social skills.

The course will provide students with the opportunity to:

• develop critical awareness and understanding of theory and research in chosen areas of study;
• gain insights into their own lives and the patterns of social, cultural and political experience of society in general;
• develop the capacity to generate, organise and undertake some research into the life of their community;
• develop critical analytical skills;
• develop academic skills in reading, note taking and collection and organisation of resource materials;
• develop their presentation of oral and written material;
• develop skill and confidence in group discussion and activity;
• develop interpersonal skills consistent with professional practice;
• develop intellectual skills;
• develop a range of skills and techniques adaptable to a rapidly-changing labour market.

Course Duration

Specialist Degree Programs

Bachelor of Arts
(Advocacy & Mediation)

Course Code: ABSM
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description
The Bachelor of Arts (Advocacy & Mediation) prepares students for entry into a range of community based, government or non-government positions involving advocacy, mediation, organisational and liaison skills on behalf of disadvantaged groups and individuals involved in conflict situations.

Students will complete both an advocacy/mediation major and a sociology/social policy major. The course also includes social research, human services subjects and a work integrated fieldwork project in an appropriate agency. Students have the opportunity to tailor their degree through an elective major in which psychology, gender studies, language studies, community development, or further units in human services may be taken.

Course Objectives
The objectives of the course are to provide:

• a grounding in the social policy discipline, particularly as it relates to issues of social equity and justice;
• a critical understanding of the social, political and social contexts of human services and justice programs in Australia;
• specialist knowledge and skills in community based legal and justice systems;
• acquisition of skills in alternative dispute settlement, including mediation, advocacy and conflict resolution;
• knowledge and understanding of justice and mediation issues in the wider context of human services policies and strategies;
• familiarity with social research methods as they apply to human services and justice contexts;
• work-integrated learning opportunities to enable students to develop their theory and practice skills in community based agencies.

Course Duration
Three years full-time or part-time equivalent.

Course Requirements
Students undertake a major in advocacy/mediation and a major in sociology/social policy and an elective stream (which could also be a third major). The elective stream allows students to choose between a number of elective majors including psychology/counselling, gender studies, communication/cultural studies, community development or a language. A total of 360 credit points is required for award of the degree.

Career Prospects
The course equips students with the skills and understandings for a range of strategies, including mediation, conflict resolution and advocacy. As such the course is also relevant to a wide range of government and non-government positions which involve conflict or dispute settlement as a key responsibility. Graduates go into such positions as: community legal centre workers and co-ordinators, police community liaison officers, welfare counselling and advocacy agencies, community outreach workers, aboriginal outreach workers, consumer advocates, workers in community based ‘early intervention’ programs targeted at young offenders, disability worker advocate positions, equal opportunity, affirmative action, or equity officers in large organisations.

Admission Requirements
Satisfactory completion of Year 12 or equivalent with a grade average of D in English. TAFE Diploma graduates entering the course may be granted up to eighteen months credit depending on the particular Diploma held and the units undertaken. Applicants may also apply on an Alternative Category Entry basis. Please refer to the Admissions, Enrolment and Academic Procedures and Regulations section in the back of this handbook, and the VTAC Guide for details.

Bachelor of Arts
(Community Development)

Asia Pacific Stream

Course Code: ABSA (Asia-Pacific stream)
Campus: St Albans

Course Description and Objectives
The Bachelor of Arts in Community Development (Asia Pacific Stream) is a degree course which provides studies and training in a wide range of community development roles. This course equips students to work in a variety of contexts, particularly in international development, including urban and rural communities and with groups and communities sharing common ties and interests. The course is designed for both overseas students and Australian students with experience in or intending to work in an Asia Pacific context.
Course Duration
The course is three years full-time or six years part-time. Credit transfer may be arranged for previous studies. Recognition of prior learning is also offered for students who have relevant work or life experience that relates and equates to the skills and knowledge required in specific subjects.

Course Outline
Students in the Community Development Asia Pacific Stream undertake a core of community development theory and practice subjects. These include contextual subjects in Asia Pacific development studies, Pacific and Asian societies, cultures and politics, regional relations and policy issues.

Fieldwork
Three fieldwork placements are completed in appropriate community development and development organisations. Placements are supported and co-ordinated by fieldwork supervisors. Students are also encouraged, where possible to undertake fieldwork overseas.

Exchange Programs
Victoria University has an active exchange program with the University of the South Pacific and community development students have been regular participants in this program. Other university exchanges and programs such as the University Mobility Asia Pacific program and study tours are available to students seeking overseas experience.

Course Requirements
Students must complete 360 credit points to be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts (Community Development) Asia Pacific Stream.

Course Structure
The duration for each subject is one semester unless specified otherwise.

*These electives may not be offered every year.

Note: Other electives may be chosen, however, you must check with your Course Coordinator first. One of these two electives may be taken in Year 2 instead of taking both electives in Year 3.

Career Prospects
Graduates from the course have been employed in such positions and organisations as:
- Aid and Development organizations;
- Community Policy and research officers;
- Community Development workers in health programs and projects;
- Australian Volunteers International;
- Project workers in non-government organisations (Australia and the Asia Pacific Region);
- Community Development workers and policy officers in government positions;
- Community education and information workers.

Admission Requirements
All applicants are required to provide evidence of interest and experience in community or human service work on either a paid or voluntary basis, and to complete a selection interview and short written selection exercise.

Applicants are required to apply through VTAC. Overseas applicants under the age of 21 are required to demonstrate satisfactory completion of a secondary qualification equivalent to the Victorian VCE qualification.
Bachelor of Arts (Community Development) Australian Stream

Course Code: ABSC (Australian stream)
Campus: St Albans

Course Description and Objectives
The Bachelor of Arts (Community Development) - Australian Stream course aims at providing professional education and training in a wide range of community development roles and skills, including local, urban and rural community work, and work with communities and groups sharing common ties or interests, including migrant groups, environmental groups, advocacy organisations, and community-based programs for youth, the aged, and people with disabilities. Students undertake core community development theory and practice subjects, communication subjects, research subjects, and contextual subjects in sociology and policy studies. The course also involves applied work-integrated learning in the form of fieldwork projects undertaken with community-based agencies and organizations.

Course Requirements
Students must successfully complete the TAFE diploma course in Community Development (also offered at Victoria University) and 120 credit points in third year to be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts (Community Development) Australia Stream.

Course Structure
Note: Students enter at third year level. The duration for each subject is one semester unless specified otherwise.

Career Prospects
The Australian stream is designed for students who intend working in Australian community work contexts.

Course Duration
Students undertaking the Australian stream normally enter at third year level.

Admission Requirements
All applicants are required to provide evidence of interest and experience in community or human service work on either a paid or voluntary basis, and to complete a selection interview and short written selection exercise.

Students seeking to undertake the Australian stream BA Community Development should enrol first in the TAFE diploma course in community development (also offered at Victoria University). This is a two year course that currently provides credit for the first two years of the BA Community Development degree.

Bachelor of Arts (Computer Mediated Art)

Course Code: ABX C
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
The aims of this three year course are to:
- Develop in students appropriate theoretical frameworks and studio skills as they relate to computer mediated and analogue art;
- Develop understanding in students about the relationship between computer mediated art and analogue art;
- Have students critically analyse and interpret computer mediated art and analogue art;
- Relate computer mediated art and analogue art within historical and contemporary frameworks;
- Have students conceive, implement and evaluate art works to exhibition standard;
- Discern the relationship between art and gender;
- Locate indigenous and multicultural arts in mainstream art; and
- Provide career options for students in both computer aided art and analogue art.

Course Duration
Three years full-time or part-time equivalent.

Course Requirements
The Bachelor of Arts (Computer Mediated Art) requires students to complete a major in Computer Mediated Art (6 subjects) and a major in Analogue Arts (6 subjects). In addition to these two majors, students will also be required to complete a minor sequence in Digital and Analogue Art Theory (4 subjects) at first and second year levels.

Students will also be required to complete a Cyberculture Studies sequence consisting of Introduction to Cyberculture and Cyberculture Studies at first year level and The Professional Artist and Graduating Exhibition at third year level.

Students will be required to complete two elective subjects in year two of the program.

The University's RPL provisions and Alternate Entry Category will also be applied to applicants other than VCE students.

Bachelor of Arts (Criminal Justice Studies)
Course Code: ABSJ
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description and Objectives
Criminal justice has become increasingly complex, with systemic interactions with social welfare organisations, law and judicial administration, penal and correctional institutions, family and community, and policing. Key parts of the industry and profession, including Victoria Police, have recognised the need for a more highly educated workforce with a developed understanding of the philosophies and objectives of modern criminal justice and the role of various agencies within it. This course responds to recent needs of the profession, as well as the development of new knowledge and understandings in the social sciences and law, including criminology, sociology and social philosophy.

This course signals a generalist liberal studies/social sciences undergraduate degree. This orientation is reflected in the number of electives that will complement core units, including, where available, subjects in cross-cultural communication, indigenous studies, human services, community development, advocacy and mediation, languages, gender studies and psychology.

Course Duration
Three years full-time or part-time equivalent

Course Requirements
To be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Social Sciences (Criminal Justice Studies) students must successfully complete a total of 360 credit points.

Students will be selected on the understanding that the course, although not providing entry to an Australian police force, will improve a student's preparedness to work in a range of criminal justice professions. The University does not determine entry requirements to Australian police organisations.

Bachelor of Arts (Human Services)
Course Code: ABSB
Campus: St Albans

Course Description and Objectives
This three year Bachelor of Arts course aims to provide students with a knowledge and skills base in the human services field so they may graduate with an entry level qualification for a range of human services occupations. The course also aims to provide existing workers in the industry with the opportunity to gain accreditation in their sector and enhance their career prospects.

The course gives students an understanding of the policy context and policy options within human services work and provides them with a sequence of study in one of the key areas of human service practice, such as: social work, community development, gender studies, psychology, or social research.

Course Duration
Three years full-time or part-time equivalent.

Course Requirements
To qualify for the award of Bachelor of Arts (Human Services) students must complete a total of 360 credit points. Students must complete a major sequence in Policy Studies; a major sequence in Social Science; three core subjects in Human Services; two first year foundation subjects; four elective subjects and two fieldwork subjects.

Bachelor of Arts (Legal Studies)
Course Code ABSL
Campus Footscray Park

Course Description and Objectives
The three year Bachelor of Arts (Legal Studies) degree aims to provide a broad education in aspects of the law and a variety of legal issues which complement studies in arts and social sciences. The course also provides opportunity for students to pursue related studies as electives. The degree equips graduates to more effectively compete in the employment market for those positions in the private and public sectors which Arts graduates have traditionally pursued – that is, in the broad field of administration, research, and personnel work. It also equips graduates to compete for positions in the recently emerged and rapidly growing ‘paralegal’ field in the commercial setting of law firms and in the relevant public sector agencies, providing legal assistance to law professionals. The degree is not aimed at, nor does it qualify students for, admission to practise as a solicitor: barrister of the Supreme Court of Victoria.

Course Duration
Three years full-time or part-time equivalent.

Course Requirements
To be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts (Legal Studies) students must have successfully completed a total of 360 credit points. All first year subjects are worth 15 credit points. All second and third year subjects are worth 20 credit points (including any first year subjects taken at second and third year). Subjects chosen from other Faculties will be deemed equivalent to these values. Full-time students will normally complete an average of 60 points each semester.

In addition students must satisfy the following requirements:

- successful completion of 20 semester subjects, 10 in the Faculty of Business and 10 in the Faculty of Arts, with no more than 10 of these subjects taken at first year level;
- an Arts major (i.e. six sequential semester subjects) in Asian Studies, or Cultural Studies, or History, or Histories of the Present, or Political Science, or Sociology, plus 4 additional Arts subjects;
- a minimum of 8 Law subjects.

Course Structure
Students may complete the structural requirements of the degree in a variety of ways. The following is an example:

This course is a three year Bachelor of Arts, with a special emphasis on multimedia and other new media (e.g. Internet). The course combines a newly developed major in multimedia with a major in either Professional Writing or Communication Studies and or Media Studies, together with a number of elective subjects.

Course Objectives
The course is aimed to equip students with a theoretical understanding of multimedia and other new media, practical skills in the production of multimedia materials and studies to an advanced level in either communication and/ or professional writing which will complement their multimedia specialisation. The course is designed to equip students for a range of possible employment opportunities, especially in media services, promotions, education and training, business and marketing. Students will also develop transferable skills in areas such as research and evaluation techniques and oral and written communication.

Course Duration
Three years full-time or equivalent.

Course Requirements
To be awarded the Bachelor of Arts (Multimedia), students must have successfully completed a total of 360 credit points. All first year undergraduate Arts subjects are worth 15 credit points. All second and third year undergraduate Arts subject are worth 20 credit points (including any first year subjects taken at second and third year). Subjects chosen from other Faculties will be deemed equivalent to these values. Full-time students will normally complete an average of 60 credit points each semester.

In addition students must satisfy the following requirements:

- complete twenty semester-length subjects;
- complete a major in Multimedia;
- complete a major in either Communication Studies, and/or Professional Writing or Media Studies;
- complete Design for Multimedia and Animation for Multimedia.

Note: No more than 10 first year subjects can be counted towards the 20 subjects required for the degree. Students are encouraged to complete majors in both Professional Writing and Communication Studies.

Bachelor of Arts (Performance & Multimedia)
Course Code: HBPC
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description and Objectives
The Bachelor of Arts (Performance and Multimedia) combines the studies of performance and multimedia in an interdisciplinary form. The emphasis in both performance and multimedia is on composition, the development of new and innovative work, and the articulation and communication of theoretical issues informing and surrounding contemporary culture. This course will enable students to gain knowledge and skills in the practice and theory of performance and multimedia, and increase their ability to critically analyse contemporary culture.

The course aims to:
- provide a balanced exposure to all academic and professional areas of contemporary multimedia and performance making and their relationships;
- increase students’ critical awareness and understanding of new media, contemporary performance, and their inter-relationships;
- develop, consolidate and refine students’ compositional and technical skills in performance and multimedia production, including improvisation, voice, movement, web-design and authoring, animation, digital sound design, graphics, file formatting, compression and cross-platform production;
- produce multi-skilled performance and multimedia makers who can adapt to the changing needs of industry, commerce and community, taking the lead in addressing the social and artistic issues that are arising in the post-modern, electronic world.

Course Duration
Three years full-time or part-time equivalent.

Bachelor of Psychology (Interpersonal & Organisational)
Course Code: ABPI
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
This is an APS accredited course. It provides an opportunity for students to combine an education in the discipline of psychology (via the accredited undergraduate psychology major) with a major that directly links important psychological interpersonal and organisational concepts with workplace settings.

Course Objectives
The course will:
- Develop generic interpersonal and organisational skills, e.g. listening, communicating, leading, interviewing, observing and decision-making, in students;
- Enable students to acquire the basis for skilled interactions in a class setting and practice these through a field work component;
- Encourage reflection on such interactions with individuals and groups from a theoretical and psychological point of view.

Course Requirements
To be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Psychology (Interpersonal and Organisational) students must successfully complete a total of 360 points including the two majors of Psychology and Interpersonal/Organisational.

- APP3028 Field Work 20
- APP3029 Skills in Context 20

Career Prospectives
The Bachelor of Psychology (Interpersonal & Organisational) provides an enhancement of ‘people skills’ for graduates of psychology. These skills will be of immediate use in employment and in further development of a psychology or other related career. The course complements the existing APS accredited psychology major with an applied emphasis to equip graduates with additional skills for working with people in a variety of settings. Graduates will be very attractive to a wide range of employers in psychology, human services and social science areas.

Admission Requirements
Satisfactory completion of Year 12 or equivalent with a grade average of D in English. Applicants may also apply on an Alternative Category Entry basis. Please refer to the Admissions, Enrolment and Academic Procedures and Regulations section in the back of this Handbook, and the VTAC Guide for details.

Bachelor of Social Work
Course Code: ABUW
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
Social Work is a key profession in the promotion of social justice and social welfare in Australian society. Social workers are involved with people at an individual, family, and community level to bring about change. Social workers require good analytical skills and a high level of knowledge in order to understand and address the causes and dynamics of social disadvantage. At the same time, they require a large repertoire of skills, which are used to strengthen the problem-solving capacity of individuals, groups and communities, and to assist them in gaining greater control over resources and decision-making.

The degree course is designed to provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary for contemporary social work practice. Upon completion of the course, students will have a strong grounding in the following areas: interpersonal and group work, community development and social planning, program development, policy analysis, and social research.

Field-based education is an integral part of the teaching program and over the duration of the course, students will normally complete two fieldwork placements in different human services agency settings.

The Bachelor of Social Work is a total of four years full-time study (or equivalent). Usually, the first year is undertaken as the first year of a Bachelor of Arts degree. The Faculty of Arts also offers a Bachelor of Social Work (Preliminary Year), which fulfills this first year requirement.

The Bachelor of Social Work course is accredited by the Australian Association of Social Workers.

Course Objectives
The Bachelor of Social Work course aims to prepare students for effective professional practice as social workers in the Social and Community Services industry.

(a) General Objectives

The general objectives of our curriculum are associated with the liberal arts component of the BSW Course, which in time sequence, precedes the professional component of the BSW Course. There is variation among students in terms of the number of years of tertiary education completed. It ranges from a minimum of one year to completed degrees. We advise those students who are about to enter university and are inquiring about which subjects they ought to pursue to prepare them for social work, to take a broad range of subjects from different disciplines rather than concentrating in only one or two disciplines. The objectives of the liberal arts component of the BSW course at VU are:

1. to obtain knowledge from the humanities and social sciences that informs social work;
2. to gain an understanding of the socio-economic, political, psychological, and cultural forces that impinge upon people's lives;
3. to become aware of how society has developed and is organised; and
4. to obtain knowledge that enables students to broaden the understanding of themselves and the world.

(b) Professional Objectives

The professional objectives of the BSW course are, of course, associated with the professional component of the BSW program, which follows the liberal arts component in time sequence. The professional objectives are:

1. to help meet the social welfare labour force needs of Australia generally, and the Western region of Melbourne in particular;
2. to help students acquire knowledge and understanding of the welfare state as a social institution in the Australian context, emphasising its origins, ideological bases, development, functions, contradictions, administrative forms, and methods of evaluating its impact on society - particularly its impact on traditionally oppressed groups such as poor people, women, aboriginals, and people of colour;
3. to help students acquire knowledge and understanding of the historical development of social work and of social work practice consistent with the generalist perspective, including its scope and limitations, its internal debates, and its interrelationship with other bodies of knowledge;
4. to help students acquire knowledge and understanding of the origins, manifestations, dynamics, causes, and consequences of social inequality and oppression;
5. to help students develop appropriate and purposeful use of skills within a wide range of social work roles and methods of intervention necessary for the elimination of social inequality and obstacles to social functioning;
6. to help students develop intellectual inquisitiveness, creative problem-solving skills, a reflective practice, and proper use of a range of research methods; a facility for critical questioning, and a goal of life-long learning; and
7. to help students develop an understanding of, and commitment to, social work purposes, values, ideas, beliefs, and identity.

Course Duration
To become a qualified social worker, a total of four years full-time study or part-time equivalent must be completed. Students will normally complete a preliminary year of tertiary study prior to entering the social work course.
The structure of the BSW qualification is:

Preliminary Year: One year minimum of tertiary study including completion of at least two semesters of relevant social science subjects, e.g. sociology and psychology, politics and economics. The preliminary year can be undertaken as part of either a Bachelor of Arts or the Bachelor of Social Work (Preliminary Year) offered at Victoria University or equivalent degree courses at other universities. Applications for the Preliminary Year are through VTAC, with a university supplementary form being filled out.

Bachelor of Social Work course: Three years full-time or six years equivalent part-time study.

Course Structure

To be awarded the Bachelor of Social Work degree students must complete a total of 360 credit points after the Preliminary Year. Students undertaking Social Work with Honours must complete in addition to their final year the subject Social Work Honours.

Students who commence the course at first year must undertake the following course structure:

Career Prospects

The course is aimed at preparing graduates for employment across a range of settings including: local government human services, federal and state government welfare agencies, hospitals and community health centres, and non-Government and community-managed human services organisations.

Admission Requirements

The structure of the BSW degree allows for three entry points into the degree, depending on the amount of tertiary study completed and previous experience in social and community services. Prospective students are able to apply for entry through either:

1. BSW (Preliminary Year) through the VTAC process;
2. Direct entry to Second year of BSW:
   - one full year of a degree with two semesters of either sociology or psychology
   - TAFE Diploma in Disability Services, Youth Studies, Justice, Further Education or Liberal Arts
   - Special Entry – applicants without full academic prerequisites, but with substantial social and community services with at least three years in paid employment in a relevant sector and demonstrated capacity to undertake studies at higher education level.
3. Third Year entry (Advanced standing):
   - two or more years of a degree that includes at least four semesters in a relevant social sciences discipline. Entry to the Advanced level is not automatic. In considering applications from prospective students with two or more years of a relevant degree, preference for entry into third year is given to students who have a history of paid work experience in the social and community services sector.
   - Applicants with a full Diploma in Community Services (Welfare Studies or Community Development) also gain entry to a two year program for the BSW.

Regardless of entry point, all applicants are required to:

- provide a written application to the Social Work Unit, indicating previous study and work experience. (Forms are available from Victoria University Student Admissions);
- participate in a group interview and discussion in which they demonstrate basic awareness of the social and community services and interpersonal skills;
- provide written work of at least a 'fair' grading.
Bachelor of Science
(Psychology)
Course Code: ABPY
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
The Bachelor of Science (Psychology) is an undergraduate course for those who want to study psychology and social research methods in combination with the study of science subjects.

Course Objectives
The Psychology degree is designed to prepare entry to a fourth year of studies which will enable graduates to meet the academic requirements for professional accreditation with the Victorian Psychologist’s Registration Board.

The course provides a strong grounding in psychology, social research methods and a science discipline.

Course Duration
Three years equivalent full-time study.

Course Requirements
To be awarded the Bachelor of Science (Psychology) students must have successfully completed a total of 360 credit points.

The structure of the course is as follows:

First Year
Semester 1
APP1012 Psychology 1A 15
SBF1310 Biology 1 15
Science major 30

APP3015 to APP3024 (Psychology 3 Electives) 20
Total 120

In the BSc (Psychology) degree you must complete either:
• a three year science major, or
• a two year science sequence and a Social Research Methods major in addition to the Psychology major.

Science Major
The Science Major comprises a recognised three-year sequence of elective subjects within the Faculty of Engineering and Science. By selecting appropriate combinations of elective subjects, students may obtain a major in psychology together with a second science major including, but not limited to, the following discipline areas:

• Human Bioscience
• Human Bioscience/Wellness
• Human Bioscience/Nutrition
• Social Research Methods
• Chemistry/Biochemistry/Nutrition
• Variations to majors, or alternative majors will be considered, subject to approval from the Course Coordinator and subject availability.

Social Research Methods Major
Students wishing to complete this major must do APS3010 Social Research Methods 3 and APS3040 Independent Research Project as well as a two year sequence of subjects selected from those available for the science major (as listed above).

Career Prospects
The Bachelor of Science (Psychology) is designed to provide preparation for a fourth year of study in psychology for graduates wishing to achieve professional accreditation.

Graduates of the Bachelor’s degree may find employment in areas such as welfare and community services, or may undertake further study to qualify as teachers or social workers. Social research methods subjects prepare graduates for work in social research and data analysis positions.

Professional Recognition
Australian Psychological Society (APS) accredited. Successful completion of a fourth year of study will enable graduates of the Psychology degree to receive Associate Membership with the APS, and will meet the academic requirements for professional accreditation with the Victorian Psychologists’ Registration Board.

Admission Requirements
Normal entry: VCE (or equivalent). Prerequisite subjects: Year 12 English, one Year 12 Science subject.

VCE Biology is not a formal prerequisite but students will find a background in biology is very helpful.

Bachelor of Arts (Asian Studies)/ Bachelor of Business (International Trade)

Course Code: ABBB
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description
This combined degree program, which is managed by the School of Social Sciences in the Faculty of Arts, derives from the recognition that Australia is strategically located in the Asian region and our economic future is to a large extent dependent on how well we utilise the trade opportunities which exist. The importance of trade to Australia's economic future and the need to improve our level of Asian consciousness is reflected in this multi disciplinary study of the history, development, political systems and cultural context of the countries of the south east Asian region with an opportunity to study one of four Asian languages; Mandarin (Chinese), Japanese or Vietnamese.

Graduates seeking positions in companies or government agencies which are involved in trade, economic or cultural relations with countries in the Asian region, will have both a good knowledge of the technical aspects of trade and a strong understanding of the cultural, political and historical development of the countries of the Asian region. This combined degree will give students a good grounding in both these aspects and considerably improve their attractiveness to potential employers in either the private or public sectors.
Course Objectives
The aims of the course are to provide graduates with:
- a comprehensive overview of the theories, principles and practice of international trade and the relevant techniques and research skills;
- a strong understanding of the history, economic development, cultural traditions, political systems and social traditions in a number of countries in the Asian region;
- a solid grasp of an Asian language; and
- a broad education not normally associated with a single undergraduate degree.

Course Duration
Four years full-time or part-time equivalent.

Course Requirements
The course is offered over four years on a full-time basis or part-time equivalent. All undergraduate degree subjects carry a value of 15 credit points in this course. Students must complete 480 credit points to graduate.

Total 60

Arts electives include studies in Sociology, Communications & Professional Writing, Gender Studies, Asia-Pacific Studies and a number of languages.

*Arts electives must include APS2030 Quantitative Social Research Methods and APS2040 Qualitative Social Research Methods in either of second or third years.

Other biomedical science subjects may be chosen after consultation with and approval of the course co-ordinator.

Psychology Electives for fourth year:
APP3015 Counselling theory and practice
APP3016 Group Behaviour
APP3017 Introduction to neuropsychology
APP3018 Organisations and work
APP3019 Psychobiology
APP3020 Psychoanalysis
APP3021 Psychology of adjustment
APP3022 Stress, crisis and trauma
APP3023 Psychological issues in the workplace
APP3024 Aboriginal people and psychology

Arts General Electives:
First Year (These are all at St Albans Campus)
ACC1047 Culture and Communication
ACC1048 Media, culture and society
ACL1001 Reading contemporary fiction
ACL1002 Studying poetry and poetics

International Degree Programs

Bachelor of Multimedia Systems

Course Code: ABCS
Campuses: Kuala Lumpur (1st & 2nd year) and Footscray/St Albans (3rd year)

This course is only available to international students who will complete the 1st two years of the Bachelor of Multimedia Systems at Sunway College, Malaysia followed by the 3rd year onshore in Melbourne at Footscray Park / St Albans campuses of Victoria University.

Course Objectives

The aim of the Bachelor of Multimedia Systems is to provide students with a sound understanding of the principles and practice of developing multimedia products in the context of a good understanding of information technology software and systems.

The course includes subjects at each year level that specifically focus on developing students' competence in written, oral and electronic communication. All Multimedia subjects deal with message and information design to ensure effective communication in electronic formats (e.g., webpages, CD-Roms). Genres covered across the course will include: reports, reviews, business forms (e.g., letters, memos), oral presentations using Powerpoint, instructional writing and technical English.

Course Duration

Three years full-time or part-time equivalent.

Course Requirements

To be awarded the Bachelor of Multimedia Systems, students must have successfully completed a total of 360 points.

Course Structure

For a normal full-time load:

Year 1 at Sunway College
Semester 1
ACM1001 Multimedia 1A
ACM1004 Design of Multimedia
ACD1010 Computer Applications
ACD1020 Technical English
ACD1007 Multimedia Systems Elective 1
Semester 2
ACM1002 Multimedia 1B
ACM1003 Animation for Multimedia
ACD1040 Programming in Visual Basic ACD1006 Web Publishing using Java
ACD1008 Multimedia Systems Elective 2

Year 2 at Sunway College
Semester 1
ACM2001 Multimedia 2A
ACC2045 Audio Production
ACD2001 Network Environment
ACD2003 Project Management
ACD2007 Multimedia Systems Elective 3
Semester 2
ACM2002 Multimedia 2B
ACC3045 Video Production
ACD2004 Business Management
ACD2006 Sun Java Programming
ACD2008 Multimedia Systems Elective 4

Year 3 at Victoria University
Semester 1
ACM3001 Multimedia 3A
ACE3143 English Language and Communications 3
SCM3314 Object Oriented Analysis and Design
Elective
Semester 2
ACM3002 Multimedia 3B (includes placement)
ACE3144 English Language and Communications 4
ACP2069 Writing for the Web
Elective

Admission Requirements

Students must complete the Year 12 equivalent in Malaysia and produce evidence of proficiency in English at a level, which is required for an FFPOS in Australia, normally IELTS 6.0 or TOEFL of 550 and Test of Written English score or 5 or Malaysian Year 11 equivalent and successful completion of the Sunway College preparatory program. Students completing this course are already judged by Victoria University to have English at a level adequate to undertake university level studies.
Honours Programs

Bachelor of Arts (Honours)

Course Code: AHFF
Campus: Footscray Park
Course Code: AHSS
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
The Honours year provides the opportunity to extend undergraduate degree work and attain a higher qualification. It will develop further your capacities for informed, conceptual thinking and your research skills. Its primary functions are: to provide the first stage towards a higher degree (i.e. a Masters or a Doctorate) by research; to give greater depth to your undergraduate studies; to gain a greater understanding of the contemporary theories and debates in the humanities and social sciences; to develop research skills; and to learn to analyse and write at a more abstract and theoretical level. There are many reasons why you might consider an honours year. One is to secure the academic platform from which you can then pursue a higher degree by research, either at Victoria University or elsewhere.

Course Duration
One year full-time or part-time equivalent.

Course Structure
Honours units other than the thesis may be provided through coursework or through directed studies. Students must complete a total of 120 credit points. The following units are specific to the Honours year. They are offered subject to demand at Footscray Park and/or St Albans.

AXH1012 Key Debates in the Humanities and Social Sciences (30 points)
AXH1003 Honours Thesis (60 points) (full-time)-1 semester or AXH1004 Honours Thesis (60 points) (part-time)-2 semesters
(AXH1004 requires 30 points per semester) plus one of:
AAX4001 Asian Studies Honours 4 (30 points)
AAX4003 History Honours 4 (30 points)
ACX4001 Humanities Honours 4 (30 points)
ASH4011 Sociology Honours (30 points)

Course Requirements
To qualify for the degree with honours, students must complete honours standard units to the value of 120 credit points, including coursework units to the value of 60 credit points and a thesis to the value of 60 credit points. Each student’s honours year program must be approved by the Faculty of Arts Honours Co-ordinator to ensure an appropriate balance of theoretical, methodological and disciplinary studies.

Admission Requirements
Normally, to be considered for entry into the Honours year, you must have:

• completed a three year undergraduate course with results at the level of Distinction or above (or equivalent grades) in at least the last two units of your two majors (or equivalent studies); and

• obtained results at the level of credit or above (or equivalent grades) in at least 60% of the total number of undergraduate subjects attempted.

To apply for the Honours Year you must complete and submit a direct application form to Student Administration – Admissions (St Albans Campus) by October 31. This form is available from either a Faculty of Arts office or from Student Administration Admissions (St Albans Campus). You should contact your School Honours Co-ordinator prior to application in order to discuss your research proposal and availability of supervision.

Bachelor of Arts (Honours) Computer Mediated Art and Multimedia

Course Code: AHCM
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
The Bachelor of Arts (Honours) Computer Mediated Art and Multimedia will introduce students to recent theoretical debates relevant to their area of study; will instruct in appropriate research methodologies; and will allow students to complete a product-based, supervised, creative individual research project. The program will also provide an appropriate prerequisite for postgraduate study.

Course Duration
One year full-time or part-time equivalent.

Course Structure
Semester 1 Credit Points
AXH1012 Key Debates in the Humanities & Social Sciences 30
HFC4001 Individual Creative Project A 30
Semester 2
AFC4001 Special Study Research Project 30
HFC4002 Individual Creative Project B 30
Total 120

Admission Requirements
Students who have completed either the Bachelor of Arts (Computer Mediated Art), the Bachelor of Arts (Multimedia) or an equivalent degree must normally have obtained an average of Distinction or equivalent at second and third year level.

All external applicants will be assessed on presentation of a folio and formal interview. All applicants are required to write a research proposal of approximately 500 words in which they briefly describe their intended studio/lab project including ideas informing the project, materials and technology required and any particular facilities needed for successful completion of the project.

Bachelor of Arts (Honours) Psychology

Course Code: AHPH
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description
The Honours program provides a course of advanced study in Psychology at fourth year level which builds on knowledge developed in undergraduate Arts or Science courses.

Course Objectives
The Honours program aims to develop skills in critical analysis and independent research in Psychology and to prepare students for postgraduate research or professional careers. The course is designed to meet the Australian Psychological Society’s requirements for a fourth year course in Psychology.

Course Duration
The duration of the course will be one year of full-time study or two years of part-time study.
Course Structure
Students must complete a total of 120 credit points. The course will consist of the following components:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Semester 1</th>
<th>Credit Points</th>

Semester 2
APH1070 Professional Orientation (Casework) plus APH1065 Reading Seminar & Theoretical Essay plus 6
APH1015 Extended Research Thesis 40
Total 60

Note: If a student would prefer to do an elective in Semester 2 then APH1015 Extended Research Thesis and APH1010 Research Thesis could swap semesters. Other electives may be possible with the consent of the course co-ordinator.

 Admission Requirements
The minimum requirement for entry to Honours in Psychology will normally be:
• the completion of all requirements for an ordinary degree, conferred by the Victoria University of Technology or Western Institute;
• the completion of an APS accredited major in psychology;
• a minimum of distinction level (70%) performance in psychology at third year level.

Students who have completed their degree at a University or similar institution apart from the Victoria University of Technology or Western Institute may apply for entry to the Bachelor of Arts Honours course. This course is identical to the Honours in Psychology course and equivalent entry requirements apply.

Bachelor of Multimedia Systems (Honours)
Course Code: AHMS
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description
The honours program teaches students advanced level theory, research and program production techniques for Multimedia

Course Objectives
The honours year provides a means for Bachelor of Multimedia System students to spend a fourth year at VU Footscray Park extending their knowledge of Multimedia content and system development and theory and research methods relevant to the Multimedia field. The culmination of the year, is a major research project relevant to the field. This may involve submission of creative work and exegesis or a more traditional presentation in thesis format, depending on each student's selected topic.

Course Duration
2 semesters (1 year) full time.

Course Structure
Students must complete a total of 120 credit points.

Admission Requirements
To qualify for admission to the course an applicant must have successfully completed the Bachelor of Multimedia Systems degree (or equivalent qualification) with a credit level average and distinction average in ACM3001 and ACM3002.
Bachelor of Psychology (Honours)
Course Code: AHPP
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description
The course is the same Honours program as the Bachelor of Arts (Honours) Psychology. Students who have completed the Bachelor of Psychology in their first three years of study enrol for the Bachelor of Psychology (Honours) when they enter the Honours program.

See the Bachelor of Arts (Honours) Psychology entry for details of the program.

Bachelor of Science (Honours) Psychology
Course Code: AHPY
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description
The course is the same Honours program as the Bachelor of Arts (Honours) Psychology. Students who have completed the Bachelor of Science (Psychology) in their first three years of study enrol for the Bachelor of Science (Honours) Psychology when they enter the Honours program.

See the Bachelor of Arts (Honours) Psychology entry for details of the program.
Undergraduate Majors

Advanced English for Speakers of Other Languages

The major combines proficiency enhancement in English language and learning methods (first year), with applied and contextual studies in media and writing (second year), with advanced studies in theories of language and culture in third year.

The major will prepare students from a non-English-speaking background to take their place as professional graduates in the English-speaking world, or to deal from their home country with the English-speaking world in areas such as trade, education, and communications.

Entry Requirements

The major is offered to students whose first language is not English and who have not had the major part of their formal schooling conducted in the English language.

The subjects in the Advanced English for Speakers of Other Languages major are:

First Year
ACA1003 Advanced English for Speakers of Other Languages
ACA1004 Advanced English for Speakers of Other Languages

Second Year
ACA2003 Advanced English for Speakers of Other Languages
ACA2004 Advanced English for Speakers of Other Languages

Third Year
ACA3004 Aspects of Language: Structure and Use
ACA3005 Australian Language: Variation, Conversation and Culture

Asian Studies

The Asian Studies major can be taken as one of the two core majors for the Bachelor of Arts degree. It is compulsory for students enrolled in the Bachelor of Arts (Asian Studies)/Bachelor of Business (International Trade) and Bachelor of Business (Tourism Management)/Bachelor of Arts (Asian Studies) degree to complete this major. In addition there is a choice of language programs in Vietnamese, Chinese and Japanese which can be taken in conjunction with the Asian Studies major, or with another major in the Faculty of Arts, or from another Faculty. It is highly recommended that students take an Asian language major with their Asian studies major.

The subjects in the Asian Studies major are:

First Year
AAP1011 Australia in Asia
AAA1007 Asia: Anthropological Issues

Second and Third Years

Any four of:
AAP2000 The City in Asia
AAA2003 Asian Cultures and Literatures
AAA2005 Colonialism, Nationalism and Revolution in South East Asia
AAA2007 Gender and Sexuality: Asian Perspectives
AAA2008 Business Cultures in Asia
AAA2010 Culture and Politics in Indonesia
AAA2011 Cultural History of Tibet
AAA2013 The Search for Meaning in Asia
AAA2014 Many Vietnams: War, Culture and Memory

AAA3003 Industrial Development in Asia
AAA3004 Research Methods and Techniques in Asian Studies
AAA3006 Asian Communities in Australia
AAP2004 Southeast Asian Politics

Chinese

The Chinese Language Studies program comprises ten subjects, catering for all kinds of students with or without any prior knowledge of the language, i.e. those who have never studied Chinese before, have learned a certain amount, have completed VCE Chinese, who are pure beginners or with a Chinese speaking background. It aims to develop students' language and communication skills and enhance their socio-cultural awareness. Relevant socio-cultural components are integrated in all the language subjects although specific aspects are not given the focus as much as in the higher level subjects. Upon completion of a Chinese major, students should achieve a medium/advanced level of oral and written competence and a fair understanding of Chinese society and culture. They will also be equipped with language learning strategies and practical skills.

All the Chinese subjects on offer, at proficiency levels from elementary to the relatively advanced, can be taken as a three-year major or a two-year minor in Bachelor of Arts degrees, in combined Arts/Business degrees or in other degrees in which the study of a language can be part of the course structure. Besides, students can choose any of these Chinese subjects as electives, which can be credited towards a degree in any disciplinary area, and as single subjects for those who wish to learn Chinese without necessarily enrolling in a degree. These subjects are also available to students who wish to study Chinese for a Graduate Diploma of Modern Languages, or as part of their fourth year Honours programs, and/or as part of their post-graduate studies.

Note:

1. Students with any amount of prior knowledge of the language should consult with the Chinese staff about their proficiency level before enrolling into an appropriate Chinese subject. Students who have completed Chinese at Year 12 level or who are native speakers will not be credited with first year. Students will rather commence their major at the next appropriate level.

2. While ACZ1001 to ACZ3002 are sequential, the four higher level subjects do not have this restriction.

3. A minimum of two of the four higher level subjects will normally be offered in each academic year.

A four-week Study Tour of China is organised in late November each year to provide in-country learning opportunities and first-hand experience for students. It is basically an intensive short course in Chinese language, society and culture, and can be credited towards a degree. The University can also assist individual students who wish to study Chinese overseas. Scholarships are available on a competitive basis.

The subjects in the Chinese Language Studies course are:

ACZ1001 Chinese 1A
ACZ1002 Chinese 1B
ACZ2001 Chinese 2A
ACZ2002 Chinese 2B
ACZ3001 Chinese 3A
ACZ3002 Chinese 3B
ACZ3011 Chinese People and Beliefs
ACZ3012 Chinese Film and Stories
ACZ3021 Chinese Language and Society
ACZ3022 Survey of Chinese Literature
Communication Studies

The Communication Studies major introduces students to a range of approaches to the study of human communication. It concentrates on developing an understanding of the use of spoken and written language and visual images in various contexts whilst concurrently assisting students to develop effective communication techniques and to apply these understandings to socially relevant situations (e.g. in the workplace, in the media, in the community). Through choice of subjects students may focus their major more towards either social communication (for careers in psychology, community/welfare work, training, etc.) or media communication (for careers in the media, public relations, teaching, etc.). Throughout the major there is a strong focus on communication issues of importance in contemporary Australian society, in interpersonal interactions, groups, organisations, and through the broadcast and print media and cinema. A range of communication research skills are integrated within the major.

Understanding of communication processes and skills in communication are highly valued attributes in our modern 'information society' across a broad range of professions.

Graduates with this major may gain employment directly in the public or private sectors or move on to postgraduate studies in courses providing vocational specialisation in a range of areas, including training and development, information and media services, public relations, journalism, community development/social work, marketing, teaching, administration and human resources management.*

The subjects in the Communication Studies major are:

First Year
ACC1047 Culture and Communication
ACC1048 Media, Culture and Society

Second Year
A set of five of:
ACC3041 Language in Society
ACC3043 Interpersonal, Group & Organisational Communication
ACC3045 Video Production
ACC3053 Studies in Cinema
ACC3054 Studies in Television

Third Year
A set of five of:
ACC3055 Communication in the 21st Century
ACC3046 Communicating with Radio
ACC3052 Communication and Cultural Diversity
ACC3047 Communicating in Organisations
ACP3046 Communicating with Radio
ACP3049 Writing and Producing the Documentary
ACW3020 Imagining Genders

Students from other majors or courses wishing to undertake Communication Studies subjects and who lack the normal prerequisites, may be admitted at the discretion of the Communication Studies Co-ordinator.

There are two ways to complete a major in Cultural studies:

1. To finish six of the subjects available in Cultural Studies, beginning in first year with ACC1047 Culture and Communication and ACC1048 Media, Culture and Society.
2. To count your Foundation Units AXF1001 and AXF1002 as the first year of a Cultural Studies major, and then complete four of the second/third year subjects available in Cultural Studies.

The subjects available in Cultural Studies are:

ACU1007 Aboriginal Australia
ACU1008 Equality and Equity
ACU2006 Post-modern Cultures and Contemporary Societies
ACU2007 Love, Sexuality and Subjectivity
ACU2011 The Italian Presence in Australia
ACU2012 Cultural Diversity in Australia and the World
ACU2013 International Media: Industries and Issues(*)
ACU3005 Nation, Culture and Globalisation(*)
ASS2009 Making Modern Identities(*)

Note: Only a selection of these subjects will be offered each year.

In addition, students who are also majoring in a Language Other than English can count ACA3005 Australian Language, as a Cultural Studies Unit.

Also note that some units, marked with an asterisk (*), are 'cross-accredited' with Sociology. That is, they can also count as Sociology units. If you are also doing a Sociology major, make sure that you count any of these units towards either your Cultural Studies or your Sociology major; not both.

Gender Studies

The Gender Studies major focuses on issues of gender, sex and sexuality in multicultural Australia and its region. It includes cross-cultural perspectives from other societies.

The Gender Studies major aims to:

• provide students with skills in identifying and analysing the effects of gender in all aspects of society, but especially, in the workplace, social institutions and organisations, communication and media;
• equip students with the ability to identify and offer non-sexist alternatives to discriminatory practices;
• enable students to recognise and apply their understanding to the ways in which other social markers, such as cultural difference, intersect with gender.

All Gender Studies subjects are informed by current theoretical perspectives from this interdisciplinary field, both national and international.

Non-sexist and anti-discriminatory practices are now officially endorsed in Commonwealth and State organisations: their legal endorsement is also impacting increasingly on the private sector. Gender Studies graduates are well-prepared to work in advisory capacities on gender issues and policies in these workplaces. A strong focus on cross-cultural issues positions Gender Studies graduates to contribute to areas such as international development. Areas of women-centred employment also include women's health centres, refuges, advisory and referral services and policy units.

Gender Studies places a strong emphasis on the development of a range of practical skills which can be transferred by graduates to different work situations. Throughout the course, skills of analysis, information retrieval, empirical research (including interviewing), as well as formal writing and oral skills are integrated into all subjects.

There is also an emphasis on the development of self-directed learning and group work.

The subjects in the Gender Studies major are:
ACW1020 Sex and Gender
ACW1021 Fashioning Gender

48
Students from other majors or courses wishing to take Gender Studies subjects, and who lack the normal prerequisites, may be admitted at the discretion of the Gender Studies discipline leader.

Histories of the Present

This major draws on an emerging area of scholarly inquiry within the fields of sociology, history, political science, philosophy, psychology, anthropology, education and urban studies: fields which may be thought of as the ‘human sciences’.

The major builds on introductory studies provided in first year units in a number of majors, and utilises subjects at second and third year level which share a common conceptual framework in ‘histories of the present’ and related concerns around the arena of governmentality.

The major develops a curiosity around the connections between the production of knowledge in the human sciences and the practice of government. Such work argues that the government of self and others requires an account of the object to be governed, the deployment of objectives, and the production of strategies of transformation. The human sciences, involved in the task of specifying and calculating the characteristics of persons, play a major role in the production of the ‘know-how’ that makes government possible.

The subjects in the Histories of the Present major are:

First Year
ASS1001 Sociology IA (Introduction to Sociology) or AAH1001 World History or
APP1012 Psychology IA
ASS1002 Sociology IB (Managing Normality) or AAH1008 Australians at War or
APP1013 Psychology IB

Second Year
ASS2009 Making Modern Identities
ASS2013 Sociology of the Body

Third Year
ASS3031 Governing Civic Life
ASS3008 Knowledge and Power

History

The History major offers studies in the modern history of Australia, Asia, Europe, South Africa and the United States. It is intended that students will not only develop specialised historical skills, but will come to appreciate the purposes of history and the contributions historians may make to an understanding of contemporary society. The major provides a sound basis for those wishing to teach the subject and contributes to a good general education. All subjects, with the exception of World History, deal with the nineteenth or twentieth centuries.

The subjects in the History major are:

First Year
AAH1001 World History
AAH1008 Australians at War

Second Year
AAH2013 History: The Rise and Fall of Apartheid
AAA2005 Colonialism, Nationalism and Revolution in Southeast Asia
AAH2011 European History 1
AAH2012 European History 2
AAA2011 Cultural History of Tibet

Third Year
AAH3011 American History 1
AAH3012 American History 2

International Communication and Culture Major

First Year
ACC1047 Culture & Communication
ACC1048 Media, Culture & Society or
ACL1001 Reading Contemporary Fiction
ACL1002 Studying Poetry & Poetics or
ACW1020 Sex and Gender
ACW1021 Fashioning Gender

Second Year
ACU3005 Nation, Culture & Globalisation
ACL3007 Re-Presenting Empire
ACL2006 Transnational Indigenous Literature: Aboriginal, Nth American & Maori Writing
ACC3053 Studies in Cinema

Japanese

All students entering Japanese will be assessed by staff to determine the appropriate level in which they should enrol. Students who have completed Japanese at Year 12 level or who are native speakers will not be credited with first year. Students will enrol in the appropriate level after consulting with a lecturer.

Japanese is offered in two streams—the Arts stream (for Arts students) and the Business Stream (for Business and other students, including students enrolled in combined Business/Arts degrees). Both streams are the same. The Japanese major is mainly designed for Arts students and combined degree Arts and Business students as a three year major. Business students may complete a sub-major.

The subjects in the Arts stream are:

Level 1
ACJ1001 Introduction to Japanese
ACJ1002 Japanese 2

Level 2
ACJ2001 Japanese 3
ACJ2002 Japanese 4
ACJ2004 Japanese Conversation

Level 3
ACJ3001 Japanese 5
ACJ3002 Japanese 6
ACJ3003 Advanced Japanese 1
ACJ3004 Advanced Japanese 2
ACJ3005 Advanced Japanese 3
ACJ3006 Reading Japanese Texts

Note: Students are required to complete six sequential subjects to complete a major.

The subjects in the Business stream are:

Level 1
ACJ1001 Introduction to Japanese
ACJ1002 Japanese 2

Level 2
ACJ2001 Japanese 3
ACJ2002 Japanese 4

Level 3
ACJ3001 Japanese 5
ACJ3002 Japanese 6
ACJ3003 Advanced Japanese 1
ACJ3004 Advanced Japanese 2
ACJ3005 Advanced Japanese 3

Literary Studies

The Literary Studies major is available to students on the Footscray Park and St. Albans campuses. After completing the first year at their home campus, students can choose units offered either at Footscray Park or St. Albans. The general objectives of the major are to:

• Provide a major in Literary Studies across the Bachelor of Arts courses offered by the Faculty of Arts and to students in other relevant courses (e.g. Bachelor of Education). The major incorporates both literature and cultural and literary theory and complements existing majors offered by the Faculty in the humanities (e.g. Cultural Studies, Communication Studies, Gender Studies, Professional Writing, Spanish, Italian, Asian Studies);
• Develop skills in the reading, critical analysis and enjoyment of literary texts;
• Introduce a wide variety of traditional Western and non-traditional non-Western literary texts and analyse the cultural concepts circulating in those texts;
• Address issues surrounding the cultural production of literary texts.

The subjects in the Literary Studies major are:

First Year
ACI1001 Reading Contemporary Fiction
ACI1002 Studying Poetry and Poetics

Second/ Third Year
Four of:
ACI2014 Popular Fictions
ACI2050 Children’s Texts
ACI3012 Writing Selves
ACI3016 Working-Class Writing

Multimedia

The Multimedia major is only offered to those students who are enrolled in the Bachelor of Arts (Multimedia) degree or the combined BA Bachelor of Business (Information Systems) degree.

The subjects in the Multimedia major are:

First Year
ACM1001 Multimedia 1A
ACM1002 Multimedia 1B
ACM1003 Animation for Multimedia
ACM1004 Design for Multimedia

Second Year
ACM2001 Multimedia 2A
ACM2002 Multimedia 2B

Third Year
ACM3001 Multimedia 3A
ACM3002 Multimedia 3B

Organisational Studies

The aim of the Organisational Studies major is to provide students with subjects that may be useful in the workplace for entry level positions in areas like planning/strategy, policy development, human resources and training and management consulting. The major aims to develop a high level of knowledge and skills in organisational behaviour, communicating and writing.

The subjects in the Organisational Studies major are:

First Year
ACO1054 Introduction to Media Writing
ACO1053 Introduction to Creative Writing
ACO1054 Introduction to Media Writing or
APP1012 Psychology 1A
APP1013 Psychology 1B

Second/ Third Year

ACO3047 Communicating in Organisations (third year only)
ACP2069 Writing for the Web
ACP3051 Writing for Public Relations and Advertising
APS2030 Qualitative Social Research Methods
APS2040 Quantitative Social Research Methods
ASA2033 Management in non Government Organisations
ASC3095 Conflict Resolution in Groups and Communities

Political Science

The systematic study of Political Science is one of the oldest of the social sciences. It provides students with insights into the policies, personalities, institutions, and possibilities relating to the deployment of political power in society. In addition it enables students to come to grips with global political issues through the study of international politics and foreign policy.

The Political Science major at Victoria University sits especially well alongside majors in History, Asian Studies, and International Trade. It provides a useful background for careers in journalism, public relations, policy research, teaching, the public service (e.g. Foreign Affairs, Austrade, Immigration, Defence, Treasury and Finance), and in politics.

In addition, a Political Science major assists students to develop a critical awareness of the world they live in, of the forces shaping their lives, and helps them to develop good analytical and expression skills for careers in the areas mentioned above.
The subjects in the Political Science major are:

First Year
- AAP1010 Foundations of Political Science
- AAP1011 Australian in Asia

Second/Third Year
Four of:
- AAP2004 Southeast Asian Politics
- AAP2015 International Relations
- AAP3011 Politics of Globalisation
- AAP3012 Global Citizenship
- AAP3015 Terrorism in World Politics
- ASS2025 Transnational Social Movements

Psychology

The Psychology major is designed to prepare students for entry to a fourth year of studies which will enable graduates to receive associate membership with the Australian Psychological Society and which will meet the academic requirements for professional accreditation with the Victorian Psychologist’s Registration Board. Graduates with this major may also move on to postgraduate studies in courses leading to professional accreditation as teachers, social workers or personnel officers, or to staff development work and marketing research. Alternatively, graduates may find employment in welfare and community services.

In order to satisfy requirements for accreditation by the Australian Psychological Society, a Psychology major leading to accreditation will consist of subjects totaling 150 credit points.

The Psychology major has been granted full accreditation by the Australian Psychological Society.

The subjects in the Psychology major are:

First Year
- APP1012 Psychology 1A
- APP1013 Psychology 1B

Second Year
- APP2013 Psychology 2A
- APP2014 Psychology 2B

Third Year
- APP3011 Psychology 3A (2 semesters)
- Four of:
  - APP3015 to APP3024 (Psychology 3 Electives) (2 Semesters)

Psychosocial Studies

This major aims to combine a theoretical and applied approach to understanding human behaviour in a variety of situations. It provides the opportunity, for example, to consider implications of marginalisation, perhaps due to adverse family and social circumstances, old age, sex discrimination, disability and/or ethnocentric attitudes. It also provides the opportunity to pursue some introductory skills that may be of use in dealing with people requiring support.

This major will appeal to students interested in problem solving in human settings, who may wish to study aspects of developmental psychology (without the research methods/statistics component) and subjects that deal with selected issues in psychosocial studies (e.g. human services delivery, aged services, gender, aboriginality, conflict resolution, group dynamics and cross-cultural issues). Students may study this major instead of the Psychology major; or, alternatively, students who wish to continue with a Psychology major accredited by the Australian Psychological Society may wish to supplement this with a Psychosocial Studies major.

Note: This major is not an accredited Psychology major.

The subjects in the Psychosocial Studies major are:

First Year
- ASS1001 Sociology 1A (St Albans)
- ASS1013 Sociology 1B (St Albans)
- ASS1001 Sociology 1A (Footscray Park)
- ASS1002 Sociology 1B (Footscray Park)
- APP1012 Psychology 1A
- APP1013 Psychology 1B
- ACW1020 Sex and Gender
- ACW1021 Fashioning Gender

Second Year
- APT2330 Psychosocial Aspects of Health and Illness
- or Elective plus one elective.

Third Year
- Two Electives
The subjects in the Social Research Methods major are:

First Year
None

Second Year
APS2030 Qualitative Social Research Methods
APS2040 Quantitative Social Research Methods

Third Year
APS3010 Social Research Methods 3
APS3040 Independent Research Project

Sociology

Sociology of the Global South

St Albans Campus
Sociology of the Global South is a major examining the social, political and cultural dimensions of the societies that were formerly known as the ‘Third World’. It will focus on countries of Southeast Asia, the small island states of the South Pacific, and sub-Saharan Africa. It will use sociological perspectives to examine relations of class and gender, issues of globalisation and development and experiences of colonialism, decolonisation and independence. It will also investigate the significance of religion and patterns of belief and policy debates in the environmental, labour and human rights arenas.

The subjects in the Sociology of the Global South major are:

First Year
ASS1012 Sociology 1A – Introduction to Australian Society and Culture

Second Year
ASS1013 Sociology 1B – Introduction to Australian Society and Culture
Second Year
ASS2010 Sociology 2A - Social and Cultural Change in Asia
ASS2011 Sociology 2B - Social and Cultural Change in the South Pacific

Third Year
ASS3012 Sociology 3A - Colonisation, Decolonisation and Development
ASS3013 Sociology 3B - International Social Policy

Electives
Second/Third Years
ASA2033 Management in Non-government Organisations
ASC3095 Conflict Resolution in Groups and Communities
Business Computing
ASS2025 Transnational Social Movements
ASS3035 Environmental Politics and Policy

Sociology on the St Albans Campus offers two major sequences: Sociology of the Global South and Policy Studies. These two majors share a common first year core subject. On completion of this first year subject, students may continue on to either or both of the two major sequences. Successful completion of the core subjects of the two majors, together with two related electives, would give students a double major in Sociology.

Sociology - Policy Studies
St Albans Campus

The Policy Studies major has been designed to provide students with the research and analytical skills necessary to understand past and present social policies. The major examines many issues and policy areas, which are at the forefront of contemporary debates, such as immigration, race, new technology, economic and cultural policy. The major aims to develop awareness of cross cultural issues, capacities applicable to a diverse range of employment fields, and student awareness of how mechanisms of social governance are formulated and enacted. The limitations of traditional and more conventional approaches to social policy are critically assessed and alternative lines of inquiry explored. Innovative and interesting course design plus diverse teaching/assessment strategies have resulted in extremely positive student evaluations of this major.

The subjects in the Sociology - Policy Studies major are:
First Year
ASS1012 Sociology 1A - Introduction to Australian Society and Culture
ASS1013 Sociology 1B - Introduction to Australian Society and Culture

Second Year
ASS2040 Sociology 2C - Sociology of Power and the State 1: Concepts, Critiques and Practices
ASS2050 Sociology 2D - Sociology of Power and the State 2: The Contemporary State and Social Identity in the 21st Century

Third Year
ASS3031 Sociology 3C - Governing Civic Life: Citizen, Nation, Self.
ASS3032 Sociology 3D - Formations of Power: Governing Cultural Identity in a 'Post-Colonial' World.

Electives
Second/Third Year
ACW2021 Gender on the Agenda
ACW2022 Researching Gendered Lives
ASC2001 Social Research 1
ASC2002 Social Research 2
ASS3035 Sociology 2/3E - Environmental Policy and Politics

The following Sociology subjects are also offered to Nursing and Midwifery students only:
ASE1311 Introduction to Sociology
ASE2310 Sociology of Health and Illness
ASE3330 Sociology of Community.

Spanish and Spanish Studies

The Spanish and Spanish Studies major has been designed to enable students with varied backgrounds the opportunity to acquire Spanish language skills which will be useful in a variety of future employments, as well as increasing their understanding and appreciation of Spanish speaking cultures. There are different entry levels, one for absolute beginners, and another level for those who are already familiar with the language, as is the case with native speakers or students who have completed VCE Spanish or equivalent. After acquiring advanced language skills, students may select the options that are most closely related to their planned future employment and interests and then concentrate on acquiring the specialised bilingual skills needed. The major provides students with a solid background in the language and culture of the Spanish-speaking world and is a valuable complement to a range of disciplines in Arts and other University faculties.

Spanish can also be taken as a submajor or as a single or complementary subject. It can also be taken as part of an Honours program or a postgraduate degree. A Graduate Diploma in Modern Languages (Spanish) is also available for graduate students in any field of studies wishing to specialise in the Spanish language and related studies.

To complete a Spanish and Spanish Studies major students who have little or no Spanish on entry would take:
First Year
ACS1071 Spanish A - Basic Spanish 1
ACS1072 Spanish B - Basic Spanish 2

Second Year
ACS2073 Spanish C - Intermediate Spanish
ACS2074 Spanish D - Advanced Spanish

Third Year
Two of:
ACS3077 Spanish E - Literature and Society
ACS3076 Spanish F - Spanish for Human Services
ACS3073 Spanish G - Spanish Business
ACS3078 Contemporary Reflections - Film and Media in Spain and Latin America
ACS3075 Spanish J - Introduction to Interpreting and Translating

Students who are native speakers and those who have completed VCE Spanish or have equivalent qualifications will start at second year level and take four third year subjects to complete a major. Only two third year subjects from the above list are offered in any given year.

Vietnamese

The Vietnamese language program consists of two streams: (1) a Beginners’ stream for those who have no (or little) prior knowledge of Vietnamese; and (2) a Post-VCE stream for those who have completed four semesters in the Beginners’ stream or VCE Vietnamese or its equivalent.

The Vietnamese for Beginners’ stream is designed to provide students with four practical language skills: listening, speaking, reading and writing. It also aims to acquaint students with a solid background in the language and culture of the Vietnamese-speaking world and is a valuable complement to a range of disciplines in Arts and other University faculties.

The Post-VCE Vietnamese stream is designed to consolidate and extend students’ skills in comprehending and writing Vietnamese, to familiarize them with aspects of Vietnamese society, and to enhance their understanding of cultural values underpinning ways of thinking and social interaction.

Both Vietnamese for Beginners and Post-VCE Vietnamese can be taken as a major, a submajor, an elective or a single subject. They can be also taken as part of an Honours program or a postgraduate degree.
The subjects in the Vietnamese major are:

BEGINNERS STREAM

First Year
- ACV1001 Basic Vietnamese A
- ACV1002 Basic Vietnamese B

Second Year
- ACV2001 Intermediate Vietnamese A
- ACV2002 Intermediate Vietnamese B

Third Year
- ACV3011 Vietnamese for Business
- ACV3012 Vietnamese Folklore and Society

Notes:
1. Students who wish to major in Vietnamese should complete six semester-length subjects, starting from any level as appropriate.
2. Students who choose Vietnamese as a submajor can take any four of the above subjects after consulting with the lecturer.
3. Students who want to take Vietnamese as an elective subject or a single subject can enrol in any of the above subjects after consulting with the lecturer.
4. Only students completing the post-VCE stream are eligible for entry to teach Vietnamese at secondary school level.

While the Beginners’ subjects are sequential, it will not be necessary for students to take the Post-VCE subjects in order.
Cross-institutional Language Subjects

The Victorian Universities’ Languages Consortium was established in 1996 with membership including all universities in Victoria. One central aim of the Consortium is to facilitate and encourage cross-institutional enrolments in languages.

The guidelines governing Cross-institutional enrolment as specified in the Consortium’s Memorandum of Understanding (Section 7) are as follows:

7.1 A student who is enrolled in an award course program at a home university may apply to enrol in a language program at another university and expect to be admitted, provided that:

7.1.1 where courses in the relevant language are offered by the home university, a student shall normally undertake them there;

7.1.2 the enrolment is approved by the relevant faculty/school department at the home university; and

7.1.3 the enrolment is also approved by the relevant faculty/school/department of the host university;

7.1.4 the language studies are part of an award course at the home university.

7.2 the home university shall create its own codes for cross-institutional enrolments and determine the appropriate credit to be given to a course undertaken at another university.

7.3 both home and host universities retain the right to limit the number of students who may enrol in language courses under such arrangements.

7.4 where a student commences a sequence of language units under such arrangements, he/she will normally be permitted to take such further units as the sequence offers, provided progress is deemed satisfactory by the host institution and recognising that such courses may be offered on a different campus.

The following languages, taught at the universities listed, are available to students:

- Ancient Greek
- Arabic
- Cambodian
- Chinese
- French
- German
- Greek (Modern)
- Hebrew (Modern)
- Hindi
- Indonesian/Malay
- Italian
- Japanese
- Korean
- Latin
- Polish
- Russian
- Sanskrit
- Spanish
- Swedish
- Thai
- Turkish
- Ukrainian

Students wishing to undertake complementary studies should first seek approval from their home institution and then contact the host institution for an application form.
AAA1007 ASIA: ANTHROPOLOGICAL ISSUES

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Nil
Content This subject is an introduction to methods and debates within social anthropology, particularly in relation to the understanding of human difference. Issues addressed include settlement patterns, ethnicity, religion, kinship and marriage, production and exchange, hierarchy and power, locality and social space, and modernity and social change. A wide range of cultures within Asia will provide a basis for discussion.
Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.
Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial.
Assessment Short Test, 15%; Group Project (1000 words per person), 20%; Major Essay and class presentation (2000 words), 35%; final examination, 30%.

AAA2000 THE CITY IN ASIA

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) AAP1011 Australia in Asia; AAA1007 Asia: Anthropological Issues or the permission of the Head of School.
Content This subject studies the emergence and development of urban centres in selected Southeast Asian countries, exploring similarities and contrasts in social structures and urban form, indigenous and external forces of economic and cultural change, locational patterns and power structures. In particular, it addresses some of the most pressing issues of urban life in these countries, set within the framework of ‘modernisation’ development, and their implications for Southeast Asian societies.
Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.
Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester, comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial.
Assessment Essay, 30%; tutorial paper and assignments, 30%; examination, 40%.

AAA2005 COLONIALISM, NATIONALISM AND REVOLUTION IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) AAP1011 Australia in Asia; AAA1007 Asia: Anthropological Issues or the permission of the Head of School.
Content This subject takes as its central theme for the study of Southeast Asian history during the 19th and 20th centuries the interaction between the evolving indigenous societies of the region and increasing Western penetration. This subject will examine how Southeast Asian societies accommodated, resisted, and utilised European and North American political and economic intervention. The first weeks of the subject will be devoted to a study of pre-colonial Southeast Asia and the first two centuries of European contact. Particular emphasis will be given to the social and economic transformation experienced by Southeast Asian countries during the last decades of colonial rule together with the emergence of nationalist movements throughout the region. The latter part of the subject will be devoted to an examination of the revolutionary experience leading to the creation of the new nation states of Southeast Asia. The subject will focus on Indonesia, but will draw comparisons with other Southeast Asian countries.
Class Contact Three hours per week, comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial for one semester.
AAA2007 GENDER AND SEXUALITY: ASIAN PERSPECTIVES
Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) AAP1011 Australia in Asia; AAA1007 Asia: Anthropological Issues or the permission of the Head of School.

Content This subject employs recent social theory understandings of gender and identity. Case studies will be drawn from a range selected Asian cultural contexts. Issues to be considered will include the complex notions of gender (e.g. female/male, male/female, androgyny), heterosexuality, homosexuality, prostitution, sex tourism, pederasty, and possibilities for gender equality and empowerment in specific cultural milieux.

AAA2010 CULTURE AND POLITICS IN INDONESIA
Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) AAP1011 Australia in Asia; AAA1007 Asia: Anthropological Issues or the permission of the Head of School.

Content This subject will examine Indonesia’s social structure and diverse cultural patterns and how these are reflected in post-independence politics. Emphasis will be given to the processes of social change. The themes explored in the subject will include the construction of national identity, the search for appropriate political forms and the social and political changes generated by rapid economic development. Islam in its diverse manifestations, the role of the Chinese and other ethnic minorities will be examined in the context of national integration. Particular focus will be given to the issue of regime change as Indonesia approaches the end of the Suharto era.

Assessment Oral presentation, 10%; seminar paper (circa 1000 words), 10%; minor exam (circa 2500 words), 40%; examination, 40%.

AAA2008 BUSINESS CULTURES IN ASIA
Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) AAP1011 Australia in Asia; AAA1007 Asia: Anthropological Issues or the permission of the Head of School.

Content This subject will examine a range of theoretical and empirical approaches to the study of doing business in Asia. The disciplines discussed will include cross-cultural communication, international trade and finance, and business behaviour and management. The empirical studies will tackle such issues as business negotiation, investment procedures, socio-political and economic conditions, and management and labour relations in selected countries in East and Southeast Asia.

Class Contact The equivalent of three hours per week for one semester comprising one two-hour lecture and one one-hour seminar. These classes may be scheduled as intensive weekends workshops depending on students’ demand.

Assessment Seminar paper 30%; essay 40%; examination 30%.

AAA2011 CULTURAL HISTORY OF TIBET
Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content Focusing on the history and culture of Tibet’s vast northeastern province of Amdo this subject provides an introduction to the history of Tibetan culture while encouraging discussion about the future of Tibetan society and its spiritual and cultural traditions. Particular attention will be given to Tibet’s role in Central Asia and its relationship with China and India, including the problem of Tibet’s status as a nation. Discussion will also focus on particular aspects of Tibetan culture and on important individuals from the Amdo region who have had a significant impact in Tibet and beyond, such as Lama Tsongkhapa (religious reformer), Shabkarpa (yogin and mystic), Geden Chöphel (scholar...
AAA2013 THE SEARCH FOR MEANING IN ASIA

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil

Content This subject examines the diverse religious and philosophical traditions of Asia in a comparative perspective. The aim is two-fold: to develop an understanding of traditions of value, thought, devotion, and spirit in Asia; and to develop an ability to appreciate different ways of interpreting self and the world. Emphasis will be given to the dimension of personal experience in the human quest to find meaning in life and to give the world meaning, both past and present. This will involve a consideration of such issues as mind, consciousness, cosmology, deity, power, transformation, vision, and transcendence. The impact of systems of thought on more public issues such as the good life, ecology, personhood, social life, and nationhood will also be discussed.

Two one-hour tutorials

Assessment Three hours per week for one semester comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour seminar.

AAA2014 MANY VIETNAMS: WAR, CULTURE AND MEMORY

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil

Content This subject examines the process of industrialisation in Asia in relation to changes in the global economy, to provide ways of understanding this process through applying development theories, and to explore issues and outcomes resulting from industrialisation using different perspectives through case studies which include countries in East, South-East and South Asia. The subject includes three parts: the first part presents an analysis of global economy and regional industrialisation of Asia since the Second World War; the second part of the subject discusses the geopolitical frameworks and the main critiques of these; and the third part uses them to interpret the Asian industrial development experiences.

Assessment Three hours per week for one semester, comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial.

AAA3003 INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT IN ASIA

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) AAP1011 Australia in Asia; AAA1007 Asia: Anthropological Issues or the permission of the Head of School

Content This subject examines the process of industrialisation in Asia in relation to changes in the global economy, to provide ways of understanding this process through applying development theories, and to explore issues and outcomes resulting from industrialisation using different perspectives through case studies which include countries in East, South-East and South Asia. The subject includes three parts: the first part presents an analysis of global economy and regional industrialisation of Asia since the Second World War; the second part of the subject discusses the geopolitical frameworks and the main critiques of these; and the third part uses them to interpret the Asian industrial development experiences.

Assessment Three hours per week for one semester, comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial.

AAA3004 RESEARCH METHODS AND TECHNIQUES IN ASIAN STUDIES

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) AAP1011 Australia in Asia; AAA1007 Asia: Anthropological Issues or the permission of the Head of School

Content This subject will build on first and second year subjects in the Asian Studies major. It aims to develop students' abilities to conduct qualitative and quantitative research in Asian Studies. The subject covers specific skills intended to prepare students for research tasks in later working life. On completion of this subject students should be able to: understand the potential uses of qualitative and quantitative methods; know the major sources of appropriate data; manipulate, present and critically interpret data; apply these skills to interpret research papers which have used sophisticated research designs and advanced statistical procedures; and use computer packages to analyse relevant information.

AAA2006 ASIAN COMMUNITIES IN AUSTRALIA

Campus: Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s)

AAP1011 Australia in Asia; AAA1007 Asia: Anthropological Issues or the permission of the Head of School.

Content

This subject—which normally can only be taken at third year level and in conjunction with AAA3004—is a community studies based approach to Asian ethnic groups in Australia. Particular attention will be focused on Chinese Australians and Indo-Chinese Australians, although other Asian Australians may also be considered in the subject. Problems associated with cultural clashes and racism, access to English language services, education, employment, crime, housing, cross-cultural relationships, family life, and leisure activities will be analysed within the framework of Australian multiculturalism. As part of this subject, students will be expected to write up an observational study of an Asian community group or organisation, or association in the Melbourne metropolitan area. Particular attention will be paid to gathering oral histories, accessing primary source materials (eg., letters, diaries, records), and conducting in-depth interviews. Normally this subject will only be available to students who intend to proceed to Honours.

AAH1001 WORLD HISTORY

Campus: Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s)

Nil.

Content

This subject takes a broad, synoptic view of world history, structured to emphasise the distinctive contributions and remaining legacies of previous civilisations and historical movements. While reference is made wherever possible to events in Asia, Africa, and the Americas, Europe is its centre, for in the phase of world history ending now, Europe has been the prime initiator for the past 500 years. The subject examines then the legacy of Greece and Rome, and notes multicultural elements in the classical world; moves on to the Middle Ages, comparing European feudalism with Japanese, and examines the collective principle at work in medieval institutions. The idea of Christendom is next considered, with its break-up in the Reformation: the tensions between the new individualism which then emerged and the abiding impulse towards collectivism becomes a major theme in the subject. Despotism is next reviewed, in Europe and Asia, setting the stage for an examination of European expansion across the seas. A brief reference to the American revolution is followed by a tracing of the growth of individualism from the Renaissance to the French Revolution, the socialist ideal is examined as a response. The twentieth century comprises the final segment of the subject, discussing the exhaustion of Europe; imperialism, its decline, and the rise of the Third World; and finally, Communism and its collapse.

AAH 1008 AUSTRALIANS AT WAR

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Normally AAH1008 Australians at War

Content This subject sets out to show how apartheid arose from South African conditions, and to examine how it was eventually overcome and renounced. The antecedents of the policy are traced in the former British colonies and the Boer republics, as is the impact of urbanisation and industrialisation on race relations. While repressive laws from earlier in the twentieth century are noted, the main focus is on the rise of Afrikaner nationalism and the implementation of grand and petty apartheid after the Nationalist victory in 1948. Next the subject turns to African resistance, from the foundation of the African National Congress but particularly from the Soweto riots of 1976. South Africa’s changing context, from Cold war ally to international pariah, is also considered. Finally, there is a discussion of the contesting ideas of South Africanism, Pan Africanism, and tribal loyalties.

Class Contact Three hours a week for one semester, comprising one one-hour lecture and one two-hour seminar/discussion group.

Assessment Essays, 50%; end of semester examination, 40%, class participation, 10%;

AAH3001 INTERNATIONAL COMMUNISM AND THE COLD WAR

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil

Content This subject explores the character of international communism by focusing on the ideology and behaviour of three Western parties - the British, American, and Australian. The subject examines broadly their history from birth, in the wake of the Bolshevik Revolution of 1917, to death, associated with the collapse of communist regimes in Europe seventy years later; however, the central focus will be on the Cold War period. Thus, a recurring theme will be the extent to which communism represented a threat to national security during a period of sharply escalating international tension. Issues of loyalty, subversion and espionage will be analysed and evaluated. The subject will provide a comparative analysis of the domestic contribution of the three communist parties to the national political culture against the backdrop of their international links to the Soviet Union. The subject will also include a case study of the impact on international communism of the events of 1956 - Hungary and the repercussions of Krushchev’s secret speech.

AAP303 POLITICAL ECONOMY OF GLOBALISATION

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Nil
Content This subject examines the processes of Globalisation from the perspectives of political economy. Globalisation, under this heading, refers to the development of an economy and forms of governance that span much of the world. Such developments reflect three processes: (a) the integration of financial and currency markets across the entire world; (b) the integration of production, trade and capital formation across national boundaries in global corporations; and (c) the emergence of functions of global governance that partially regulate national economic, social and environmental policies. The fusion of finance, corporations and other organisations also reflects the decisions that permit, promote or execute enhanced global connections. The subject will be divided into three parts: (i) a critical review of recent theories in political economy which are related to the processes of globalisation; (ii) a review of the historical path of the so-called 'globalisation' processes; (iii) an exploration of empirical case studies to critically evaluate 'globalisation' and Australia's engagement with and responses to this process.

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial

Assessment Tutorial oral presentation (10%); Tutorial Paper (1000 words) (20%); Essay (2500 words) (40%); Examination (30%).

AAP305 TERRORISM IN WORLD POLITICS

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Normally AAP2015 International Relations
Content This subject examines the intensification of terrorism in post-Cold War international politics. It commences with definitional approaches to terrorism. The extent to which terrorism is aimed at US superpower dominance and/or at other 'targets' will be explored. The cultural context of terrorism will be examined and its forms will be analysed - e.g., nationalist and ethnic terrorism, religious fundamentalisms, right and left wing extremism, vigilante groups, guerilla forces. Some case studies of contemporary terrorist movements will be examined - e.g., ETA in Spain, Hamas in the Middle East, al Q'aeda and the Islamic Jihad in Afghanistan, the Tamil Tigers in Sri Lanka.

ACA3005 AUSTRALIAN LANGUAGE: VARIATION, CONVERSATION AND CULTURE

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s)
Nil

Content
Language as the fundamental human institution is a powerful instrument for cohesion and division in society, for the maintenance and (usually unintended) subversion of relationships. This subject will examine how language is used to affect these ends in our Australian context. Students will be introduced to ways of describing linguistic features. The place, linguistically and culturally, of Australian English among world Englishes will be investigated, as will social, regional, gender, ethnic and age-related variation within Australian English itself. The varied repertoire of individual speakers and the uses to which this is put within English and across languages will be considered. Academic English as a register will be investigated. Analysis of the mechanics and outcomes of conversation will lead to a deeper understanding of the rules underpinning it and the roles taken by its participants, and the extent to which these vary culturally. Students will explore the relationship between language change, planned and otherwise, to the sociocultural context within which it takes place. Finally, language(s) policy at both the institutional and global level, and its relationship to actual practice, will be investigated.

Required Reading
A book of readings will be available for sale to students.

Campus: St. Albans, Footscray Park

Prerequisites: Nil

Content This subject will introduce students to the study and analysis of recent prose fiction (short stories and novels) written in English. These are chosen to exemplify a number of contemporary thematic concerns, a variety of literary techniques, modes of representation and conceptions of the purposes of fiction, and some of the social and contextual influences upon all of these. Students will need both to immerse themselves closely in the details of the works studied and to reflect more generally upon issues thereby raised that relate to recent theoretical debates within literary studies. They will be introduced to basic skills in critical method and to vocabulary relevant to the study of narrative fiction. Students will be encouraged to consider the complex transactional processes involved in responding to texts and discussing them with others.

Required Reading: Alan Duff, One Woman Warriors; Toni Morrison, Tar Baby; Margaret Atwood, Cat's Eye; Christos Tsiolkas, Loaded.

There will be a subject reader.

ACL1002 STUDYING POETRY AND POETICS

Campus: St. Albans, Footscray Park

Prerequisites: Nil

Content This subject is an introduction to the reading, analysis and performance of poetry. It aims at both immersion in the creativity and playfulness of poetic language and to teach coherent ways of thinking appreciatively and critically about this. Students will be introduced to basic skills in critical method and to vocabulary relevant to the study of poetry in its various forms. There will be an emphasis both upon the formal elements and the varieties of poetry and the social and cultural contextual influences upon these; theoretical questions arising from this will be considered. There will also be some emphasis upon the ways in which a sympathetic understanding of a poem can inform a successful oral presentation of it. Students will be encouraged to consider the complex transactional processes involved in responding to and performing texts and discussing them with others. The poems covered will range from the traditional to the contemporary, with significant reference to the recent resurgence of youth-oriented and 'new wave' poetry writing, reading and performing in Australia; this includes attention to 'spoken word' poetry and the poetry of popular song lyrics.

Required Reading: John Leonard (ed.), Seven Centuries of Poetry in English. Other poems will be distributed from time to time in class.

Recommended Reading (reference only): The New Princeton Encyclopedia of Poetry and Poetics.

Class Contact: Three hours per week for one semester.

Assessment: Two short essays, each 25%; one informal tutorial presentation of a poem, 10%; one formal tutorial presentation of a poem, plus written commentary, 40%.

ACL 3012 WRITING SELVES
Campus St. Albans
Prerequisite(s) Any two first-year Literary Studies or Professional Writing subjects.
Content This subject examines issues of the text as auto-biography. Examples will be drawn not only from work traditionally classified as autobiography, but also from diaries, letters, ‘fictional’ biography, journalism and ephemera. Issues of privacy and publication, and the role of editors, will be discussed. Some contemporary theorising of the writing subject will be examined. Gender, race and ethnicity will be a continuing focus.
Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.
Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising lectures and seminars.
Assessment One essay, 40%; seminar paper, 20%; essay or research paper, 30%; participation, 10%.

ACL 3036 WORKING CLASS WRITING
Campus St Albans, Footscray Park
Prerequisites First-year foundation year subjects in Literary Studies, ACL1001 Reading Contemporary Fiction and ACL1002 Studying Poetry and Poetics.
Content Working class writing describes a vast body of literary and other writings produced around the world over the last 200 years. It is a diverse body which includes writings across a range of forms and genres, represents wide cultural differences, and varies tremendously in terms of political purposes and effects. What these writings have in common, however, is their acceptance and celebration of the working class and class difference as important issues for exploration. Students will be introduced to a range of texts which exemplify both the diverse and singular aspects of working class writing. Verse, prose fiction, criticism and journalism from Australia and around the world will be studied. Students will engage with two underlying theoretical issues: the definition of the working class and the question of whether working class writing is written by, about or for the working class. The subject also pays attention to questions of critical perspectives and forms of critical responsibility towards working class people, culture and politics.
Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.
Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising a one-hour lecture, a one-hour seminar (large group) and one-hour tutorial (small group).
Assessment Seminar paper 20%; minor essay 30%; major essay 50%.

ACM1004 DESIGN FOR MULTIMEDIA
Campus: St Albans, Footscray Park and Sunway (Malaysia)
Prerequisite(s): Nil
Content: This subject will introduce students to the specific requirements and principles of electronic design for Multimedia. Students will learn about the concepts involved in the multidimensional aspects of multimedia production and develop an understanding of the role of design in various aspects of production.
Class Contact: Three hours per week for one semester comprising a one-hour lecture and a two-hour workshop.
Assessment: Four class exercises each concentrating on practising a specific skill, graded in difficulty, 40%; major project, 40%; critical evaluation of appropriate productions 20%.

ACM2001 MULTIMEDIA 2A
Prerequisite(s): Normally ACM1002 Multimedia 1B
Content: This subject introduces students to the issues and processes necessary for the successful construction of a completed interactive multimedia project. The subject builds on existing skills in Director software, introducing students to Lingo programming and further utilisation of video and sound editing software. Students learn to manage the quality of media resources in multimedia production with respect to file formats, compression, sound, video, and graphic quality and gain experience in cross platform production. They explore the ways in which technical issues impact on production. The subject also focuses on elements of concept development and screen and navigational design.
Required Reading: To be advised by lecturer.
Class Contact: Four hours per week for one semester comprising a one-hour lecture and a three-hour workshop.
Assessment: Two in-class exercises, 10%; Storyboard / Plan of final project, 20%; Director project, 70%.

ACM2002 MULTIMEDIA 2B
Prerequisite(s): Normally ACM2001 Multimedia 2A
Content: This subject focuses on the use of multimedia on the Web. Students learn how to optimise media assets included in student productions for web delivery. The curriculum builds on existing computational design and technical skills students have acquired in previous multimedia subjects. It focuses on advanced use of Flash software and introduces students to action scripting.

ACM3001 MULTIMEDIA 3A
Prerequisite(s): ACM2002 Multimedia 2B
Content: The 3A multimedia subject is designed to assist each student to follow their personal interest through developing a script and project proposal for a major project to be completed in 3B. During the semester, several modules are taught to provide students with additional technical and aesthetic skills in sound production and special effects for video or DVD production. A review of other software taught in previous years is also provided. A 15-day industry placement will be part of the required activities of this subject.
Required Reading: To be advised by lecturer.
Recommended Reading: Media International Australia; Internet AU; Real Time; ANAT News; Digital Media Funding agencies guidelines.

Prerequisites Normally ACP2070 Editing Principles and Practice. Content This subject examines the principles and processes of contemporary publishing in their cultural, political and economic contexts, and will include a special focus on their practical application. Students will learn advanced desktop publishing skills using a range of software programs. The subject will also involve a number of face-to-face meetings with industry professionals either in lectures or via excursions to their workplaces. It includes further consideration of communications law in relation to publishing, such as copyright and libel law. Required Reading Euan Mitchell, Self-Publishing Made Simple (2000). Class Contact One one-hour lecture and one two-hour workshop each week for one semester. Assessment Group project publication, 50%; publishing proposal, 20%; essay, 30%.

ACP3049 WRITING AND PRODUCING THE DOCUMENTARY

Campus St Albans
Prerequisites Completion of 2nd year Professional Writing subjects (including ACP2070 Editing Principles and Practice) and/ or completion of ACC 3045 Video Production. Content This subject introduces students to the knowledge and skills involved in writing and producing video documentaries for different markets. Students will view a wide range of Australian and international documentaries about different subjects, which use a variety of storytelling techniques. Current theories about documentary-making will be discussed. By the end of semester students will produce a short, 25-minute documentary of broadcast standard. There will be a focus on working as part of a diversely-skilled production team. Topics covered will include: documentary analysis; research and pre-production techniques; scripting techniques, including narration and dramatisation; stages of production; video direction techniques; digital editing; the marketplace. The subject and its assessment is structured in a way that will enable students to choose which they would prefer to specialise in - scripting or producing/directing. Students will shoot their films on miniDV digital cameras and edit using Mac-based digital technology. Some use of WebCT may be required. Required Reading A book of readings. Recommended Reading Michael Renov, Theorising Documentary (1993); Alan Rosenthal, Writing, Directing and Producing Documentary Films (1990).

Assessment Critique of a documentary OR (for Professional Writing students) critique of a first draft script for a 25-minute documentary, 20%; final script OR final production, 60% (For production students, 40% of the 60% will be a group mark for each production unit, with 20% as a mark for individual contribution to the project); proposal and treatment for individual documentary, 20%.

ACP3051 WRITING FOR PUBLIC RELATIONS AND ADVERTISING

Campus St Albans
Prerequisite(s) Normally ACP1053 Introduction to Creative Writing. ACP1054 Introduction to Media Writing; ACP2070 Editing Principles and Practice. Content What does it mean to be a citizen in Australian society? What are a citizen’s rights to express an opinion and participate in a democratic society? Public relations is often confused with men in grey suits and a great deal of hand shaking-advertising with gimmickry and the corporate product. Yet ‘relating’ to the public is not a specialist activity. We all have the right to be involved in the 'public sphere', promote different forms of information, hold 'public opinions' and persuade others of our point of view. In this subject we look at some theoretical and social contexts for public relations and advertising and the different perspectives involved. We consider beliefs and ideology, the public sphere and public opinion, the media, rhetoric, arguments and audiences. In the section on advertising, we look at the economics, regulation and production of advertising and methods of reading its meanings. Students will have the opportunity to analyse the professional writing skills covered and develop their own writing skills.

Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.

Class Contact Three one-hour seminars per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one two-hour workshop.

Assessment Essay in public relations and advertising, 30%; portfolio, 25%; client task, 30%; tutorial presentation, 15%.

ACP3053 ADVANCED FICTION WRITING

Campus St Albans

Prerequisites ACP 1053 Introduction to Creative Writing and either ACP2067 Gender and Genre in Short Fiction or ACP2064 Writing and Cultural Difference, or demonstrated interest and competence in creative writing. A folio of creative writing may be requested prior to approval of enrolment.

Content This subject focuses primarily on short story writing and further develops the writing techniques and approaches to fiction practised in first and second year creative writing subjects. The subject will revisit conventional realist writing techniques but emphasis will be placed on innovative departures from realism (such as new Gothic, magic realism, metafiction and intertextual fiction) and students will be encouraged to experiment with story length and form. Students will read a range of short fiction by Australian and international writers, several recently published novels and novellas by contemporary writers on writing technique. Students will become familiar with a range of contemporary Australian literary magazines and will be required to submit at least one short story to a literary magazine for publication; they will also be required to read a range of book reviews from newspapers and literary magazines. At least one workshop in the subject will be conducted by a locally-based fiction writer.

Required Reading Jack Hodgins, A Passion for Narrative (1993); Offset literary magazine (2002); a book of readings.

Recommended Reading Daniel Halpern (ed), The Art of the Story (1999); Stephen King, On Writing (2000).

Class Contact Two 90-minute workshops each week for one semester.

Assessment One short short story, 20%; two short stories, 30% each; one book review, 20%.

ACP3055 PROFESSIONAL WRITING PROJECT

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) A minimum of five semester length subjects towards the Professional Writing major including ACP2070 Editing Principles and Practice

Content This subject is designed to enable students to further develop, integrate and apply writing expertise and skills, and to familiarise students with the demands made on professional writers in the professional environment. Two options are available to students. The choice of option will depend partly on each student's particular writing interests and partly on the availability of an appropriate placement.

Option 1 Group Project This involves a group of students participating in a substantial writing and/or publishing project that requires each one to contribute to the project and to undertake a range of writing/publishing/performance tasks to ensure the project's satisfactory completion. Examples of such projects include: editing and publishing of a weekly campus newspaper or magazine-style radio program; development, production and ongoing maintenance of a writing-based website. The contribution of each student to the project should constitute the equivalent of a third of a full-time load of study (i.e. at least 130 study hours across the semester to a maximum of 180 study hours). Each group will be supervised by a writing lecturer and will meet regularly with their designated supervisor.

Option 2 Work Integrated Project / Placement This involves an industry placement in an area of interest to the student in an organization which employs professional writers and is able to provide adequate professional oversight of a student on placement. During the placement the student is expected to engage in a range of writing tasks within the organization and to compile a folio of writing pieces developed and refined/published. The placement is expected to equate to a minimum of 20 days of full-time employment. Students have the option of sourcing their own potential placement which then needs to be approved by the subject coordinator. The coordinator may provide assistance to students in sourcing suitable placements.

Required Reading To be advised by lecturer depending on selected option.

Class Contact Depends on option selected. Option 1 - regular weekly / fortnightly meeting of the group with the academic supervisor; Option 2 - placement orientation seminar + 20 days placement + participation in end-of-semester debriefing seminar.

Assessment Depends on option selected. Option 1 - Folio of individual work contributed to the group project, 60%; Reflective diary, 20% Final Group Achieved Project Outcome, 20%. Option 2 - Reflective diary, 20%; Folio of work produced in the placement, 60%; Employer evaluation, 20%. Note that to pass this subject it is required that the quality of work produced by the student is of a standard acceptable for employment in graduate level positions involving professional writing in the selected area of specialisation.

ACS2073 SPANISH C - INTERMEDIATE SPANISH

Campus St Albans
Prerequisite(s) ACS1072 Spanish B: Basic Spanish 2 or equivalent level of proficiency in Spanish.

Content This subject has two major components: language studies and cultural studies.

Language Studies: In the Language studies component, students' knowledge of Spanish grammar will be revised and consolidated, and opportunities will be provided to develop and practice appropriate usage of the language through awareness of register and style in a variety of contexts. The focus will be on developing students' communicative competence in Spanish across the four major skills areas: listening, speaking, reading and writing. Depending on individual students' entry levels and particular language needs, appropriate exercises and tasks will be set to facilitate each student's further linguistic development.

Cultural Studies: In the Cultural studies component of the subject, students will develop a deeper understanding of the culture of Spain, through examination of its geography and its history, its political and socioeconomic development. We shall look at the origins of early civilisations in the Iberian Peninsula, and at the subsequent unification of the country and the emergence of Spain as the centre of a powerful empire in the 16th century, at its height of territorial expansion. Students will follow Spain’s entry into modernity and loss of its previous colonies, and turmoil of the Civil War and its tyrannical aftermath under Franco, and will finally trace the path to democracy that would lead the country to undergo radical changes, in order to embrace a fully contemporary and dynamic existence as a member of the European Union. The content introduced in this component will be used to extend student’s vocabulary and to assist in their broader language development.

Class Contact Five hours per week for one semester comprising seminars, classes and workshops, with separate classes for native and non-native speakers in the language component.

Assessment Language component: Weekly written & oral tasks assignments, 30%; midterm tests (written and aural), 15%; end-of-semester examinations, 15%.

Culture component: Journal Entries, 10%; Mid-semester test, 15%; End of semester examination, 15%.

ACS2074 SPANISH D - ADVANCED SPANISH

Campus St Albans
Prerequisite(s) ACS2073 Spanish C: Intermediate Spanish or equivalent level of proficiency in Spanish.

Content Language Studies In the Language Studies component students' knowledge of Spanish grammar will be further revised and consolidated, with particular attention being paid to the more advanced aspects of Spanish grammar and usage. Opportunities will be provided to develop and practice appropriate usage of the language through awareness of register and style in a variety of contexts. Depending on individual students’ entry levels and particular language needs, appropriate exercises and tasks will be set to facilitate each student’s further linguistic development, including the planning and completion of a major project.

Cultural Studies In the Cultural Studies component of the subject, students will further extend their knowledge of the culture of Spanish-speaking peoples, through a broad examination of the geographical, historical, political and socio-economic context of the Spanish-speaking societies of Latin America, from pre-columbian to contemporary times. Students will also gain a basic understanding of the particular cultural elements, which have shaped these very different Spanish-speaking nations, and of the various influences contributing to the distinctive character of each. The content introduced in this component will also be used to improve students' ability to scan a range of texts for meaning and to further develop their conceptual and expressive skills in writing and oral production.

Class Contact Five hours per week for one semester comprising seminars, classes and workshops, with separate classes for native and non-native speakers in the language component.

Assessment Language component: Weekly written assignments, 30%; midterm tests (written and aural), 15%; end-of-semester examinations, 15%.

Culture component: Group Project, 10%; mid-semester test, 15%; end-of-semester examinations, 15%.

ACU1008 EQUALITY AND EQUITY

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil

Content

This subject is intended to introduce the students to the study and appreciation of film and other media texts as a reflection of cultural values in Spanish-speaking societies. It will enable the student to develop an understanding of how media and society interact to constitute particular images, which are in turn reflected back to the consuming audience and internalised by some sectors of society. An examination will be made of the creation of national and cultural myths through film and television, and of the development of a more recent critical, but still particularly Spanish, or Latin American, perception of individual and national identity. The demands on the contemporary viewer as an active participant-collaborator in the unfolding, and re-creation of the visual text and sub text will also be examined. A variety of film and media texts drawn from contemporary productions will be explored and analysed, with a view to further developing the students' communicative skills in the language. It is also envisaged that the subject will further enhance the students' ability to critically evaluate a film or a media text, in the context of the society that produces it.

Required Reading

ACW2021 GENDER ON THE AGENDA
Campus St Albans
Prerequisites Normally first year Gender Studies or Sociology subjects
Content This subject explores some of the ways that gender and gender relations have become a focus of public policy and practice in contemporary Australia. The major focus will be upon the institutions of the State including the political and judicial systems, but also the economy, which has become increasingly dominant in public policy decisions. The influence of other major institutions in determining public agendas such as religion and the media will also be considered through examination in the weekly topics, as well as students’ own choice of research topics. The subject specifically examines gendered work experience in the public and private sectors. The focus is upon contemporary feminist theories and analyses of current issues including balancing paid work and family, labour market restructuring, industrial relations, citizenship and globalisation, immigration and race relations, violence, law reform and gender in politics.

ACY3002 PUBLIC RELATIONS PROJECT & PLACEMENT

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) Normally the first two years of the Public Relations major

Content

This subject is normally taken in the last semester of the degree and is intended to complete the preparation of the student for entering public relations practice. The outcomes of this subject should contribute to the student’s resume and folio. There are two components: an independent project and a work placement. The independent project is initiated by the student, or a small group, and may take a variety of forms. It may, for example, involve developing a campaign strategy or organising an event for a client or a discrete task such as producing a publication or web site. The project must be developed in consultation with an academic supervisor who will meet weekly with the student(s) throughout the semester. Students will be expected to present a professional standard oral report, supported by appropriate audiovisual material, at the end of the semester and a written evaluative report which draws upon their three years of public relations studies and work experience. For the professional placement component, students will be expected to spend 15 days working with an organization under the supervision of a public relations professional. Students will be expected to keep a journal during the placement, which will include description and reflection of their experiences. Consideration of issues of ethical practice will be expected in all assessment submissions.

ACY3003 MARKETING AND LAW IN PUBLIC RELATIONS

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) Normally the first two years of Public Relations major

Content

Marketing and Law in Public Relations has been developed as an intensive introduction to these two areas to ensure that all students completing the Bachelor of Communication (Public Relations) and entering the profession have an up-to-date understanding of the fundamental concepts and practices of marketing and law as they relate to the contemporary practice of public relations in Australia and the global environment. The subject prepares students to work in integrated public relations environments, particularly where a marketing background is required as well as a public relations background to develop promotional campaigns. The subject also aims to increase students' awareness and ability to diagnose and work with legal issues that arise in public relations practice. Throughout both the marketing and law modules, issues of ethical practice will be considered.

Through contemporary theoretical discourses and practices, the marketing module will cover basic marketing principles including rules of advertising, integrated marketing, promotion, concept development and pricing, market research and other areas as they apply to managing public relations projects. The law module focuses upon those areas of law particularly pertinent to public relations practice and working in a business environment as a manager or consultant. Areas to be covered include media and communications law, reputation management, defamation, deceptive conduct, false representation, privacy, property (including contract law, the global context and the rights and responsibilities of the ethical practitioner).

Class Contact Three hours per week over one semester comprising a one-hour lecture and a two-hour tutorial.

Assessment Marketing assignment, 2 case studies, 50% Law assignment and Exam, 50%.

ASC3091/ASC3092 SOCIAL POLICY 2/3

Campus St Alabans

Prerequisite(s) ASC2030 Sociology 2C.

Content The aim of this subject is to examine competing theoretical and political perspectives on social policy in the light of current socio-economic changes within Australia. We will discuss the form and nature of modern social democracy and examine the role of public intervention in social and economic processes with particular reference to the welfare state. An important underlying issue in the current political controversy surrounding the welfare state and its purported crisis is precisely the question of how we should think about or theorise about Australian society and the role of the public sector in economic and social activity. In this context, the subject examines the emergence of neo-conservative political thought and its impact on social policy formation in recent years. Here the focus is on the manifold issues surrounding privatisation, deregulation, economic rationalism and public sector reform.

Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.

Class Contact Three hours per week for two semesters comprising one one-hour lecture and one two-hour seminar.

Assessment One two-hour exam, 40%; book review, 20%; tutorial paper, 20%; essay, 50%. Semester two A number of short papers (1500 words) and a research essay (3000 words), to be determined in consultation with students at the beginning of the semester. Final assessment based on satisfactory completion of assignments and satisfactory attendance (80%) at classes.

ASC3095 CONFLICT RESOLUTION IN GROUPS AND COMMUNITIES

Campus St Alabans

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content This subject introduces conflict resolution theory and its application to conflicts at both group and community levels. Through seminar presentations, discussion and analysis, experiential exercises, role plays, and problem-solving tasks, the subject aims to develop students’ skills in understanding and practicing appropriate means of resolving or managing conflicts. The elective commences with defining the nature of conflict in groups and communities, and then presents the theory, principles and practical strategies of conflict resolution. Specific processes and skills for resolving or managing conflict in a range of differing contexts are then considered, including: individual conflicts, multi-party and multi-issue conflicts, intragroup conflicts, cultural and intergroup conflicts, and disputes in neighbourhood and workplace contexts. Particular emphasis will be placed on the awareness of difference and its effect in disputes, and on the students’ own styles in dealing with conflict.

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising one three-hour seminar/workshop.

Assessment Assessed role-play, 40%; 3000 word essay analysing a particular dispute, 60%.

ASL 3002 LAW AND GOVERNANCE

Campus: Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s): ASS1001 and ASS1002 Sociology 1A and 1B

Content: This subject draws on modern social theory to trace the interaction between law and systems of governance. The approach taken through a range of case study and specialist literature is to examine law and policy as attempts to intervene in certain problem areas of social life that need to be regulated and managed. Particular topics include law as governance, risk management and punishment, the medicalisation of crime, law, power and family. ASM2001 MEDIATION

Campus: Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s): Nil

Content: This subject has both a critical and a practical focus. It explores the rise of mediation in a range of settings and considers its limitations and opportunities, particularly where already marginalised complainers are involved. On a practical level, it introduces students to the various phases in the mediation process, including preparation, creating trust, summarisation and isolation of the issues, creating an agenda, exploring options, negotiation of an agreement, and implementation. It further equips students with mediation techniques and skills through practical exercises (including role plays).

Required Reading To be advised by the lecturer.

Class Contact Normally three hours per week, consisting of one 1 hour lecture and a 2 hour workshop.

Assessment 3000 word essay analysing a mediated dispute, 50%; assessed role play, 50%. Students are expected to have 80% attendance at lectures and workshops.

ASS1002 RESTORATIVE JUSTICE

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content The subject looks at the emergence of restorative justice programs as an approach to 'repairing the harm' and considers a range of programs from Australia, New Zealand and Canada that fall under the restorative umbrella. The aim is to investigate claims that these approaches have a range of beneficial outcomes, including crime prevention, community and victim involvement which are not achievable within retributive and rehabilitative models. Given the interest in restorative justice in programs involving young offenders and indigenous peoples, the subject will consider the opportunities and limitations of restorative justice strategies in diverse societies.

Class Contact Normally three hours per week, consisting of one 1 hour lecture and a 2 hour workshop involving group work.

Assessment One short assignment of 1000 words, 20%; one group project, 40%; one major essay of 2500 words, 40%. Students are expected to have 80% attendance at lectures and workshops.

ASS1012 SOCIOLOGY 1A – INTRODUCTION TO AUSTRALIAN SOCIETY AND CULTURES

Campus St Albans.

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content Sociology 1A offers the opportunity to critically examine social issues and explore questions of social and cultural identity. Sociology 1A focuses upon the key sociological skills necessary for informed and intelligent social analysis. We examine the different ways that we represent our social selves. We also look at the way city environments and key social institutions such as schools, Courts, hospitals and families, for instance, play a role in the way we are constituted, the way we see ourselves, and the manner in which we live of our lives. Sociology 1A introduces students to a range of ideas about the social world and provides the conceptual skills necessary to understand our rapidly changing global cultures.

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising one two-hour lecture and a one hour tutorial.

ASS1013 SOCIOLOGY 1B ISSUES IN AUSTRALIAN SOCIETY AND CULTURE

Campus St Albans.

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content This subject examines processes of social change and addresses the issue of how our identities are developing and changing in an increasingly complex world. In particular we examine how social identities are ‘made up’ in historically and culturally specific ways. Some of the questions posed and examined in the subject include: How are new technologies, including gene technology, affecting our social lives and fabricating new forms of identity? What environmental challenges and issues confront us as we near the twenty first century? What issues are of central concern to indigenous people? How have indigenous peoples sought to maintain their cultural identity in the light of current changes? What does globalisation mean for us in terms of cultural life in Australia? How can we explain the rise of Pauline Hanson’s One Nation Party? How might we best analyse issues of racial and national identity? Sociology 1B provides students with the requisite knowledge and skills for making informed social judgments and commentary on these and other important contemporary issues.

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising one two-hour lecture and a one hour tutorial.

Assessment A tutorial presentation 25%, Journal 1, 35%, Journal 2, 40%.
ASS2006 SOCIAL CHANGE: AUSTRALIAN AND GLOBAL DIMENSIONS

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Normally two first year Sociology subjects.
Content The main focus of this subject is on the genesis and consequences of social change in different types of societies. The subject examines current issues in development and underdevelopment in the Third World, identifies their historical and economic backgrounds, and analyses their underlying trends. Australia's domestic issues will be examined in relation to international issues which bear directly or indirectly on Australia. Topics include: theories of social change, evolutionism old and new, Max Weber and rationalisation, Karl Marx and historical materialism, modernisation and change is the Third World, post-World War II economic order and consequences, modernisation theory and development in the Third World, agencies of development, sustainable development and environment, fall of Eastern Block and emerging new order, dependency theory and development in the Third World, agencies of globalisation, capitalist, transnational corporations in advanced countries and the Third World, Australia in Asia Pacific region.

ASS2009 MAKING MODERN IDENTITIES

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Normally two first year sociology subjects or designated first year foundation subjects.
Content This subject draws on recent social and cultural theory addressing questions of identity and difference to explore the historical production of contemporary identities. It seeks to juxtapose the notion that identity is unstable and historically conferred with those discourses that speak of identity as unitary and stable over time. The subject looks to the newly visible categories of 'women', 'migrant', 'gay' and 'black', and to slightly older categories like 'the homosexual', 'the delinquent', 'the Aborigine' to question more familiar narratives of identity formation and to explore the implications of those moves for understanding connections between identity formation and governmental activity.
Required Reading To be advised by the lecturer. Class Contact Three hours per week comprising two hours of lectures and one one-hour tutorial. Assessment Final assessment requires satisfactory completion of all assignments and attendance at 80% of tutorials/seminars.

ASS2010 SOCIOLOGY 2A-SOCIAL AND CULTURAL CHANGE IN ASIA

Campus St Albans
Prerequisite(s) ASS1012 and ASS1013 Sociology 1A and 1B.
Content This subject will develop students' understanding of the tension between globalisation and nationalism in countries of South East Asia and South Asia. Australia's historical, cultural and political representations of 'Asia' will be examined with particular reference to expressions of fear and desire towards 'Asia'. The subject will address issues such as sex tourism, the new international division of labour and 'Asian' women, the rise of a global middle class, the Asian economic crisis, environmental and anti-globalisation activism in the region and current developments in Indonesia and East Timor.
Required Reading To be advised by lecturer. Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising lectures and tutorials. Assessment Research essay; 50%; oral presentation, 25%; review essay / media exercise, 25%.

ASS2011 SOCIOLOGY 2B-SOCIAL AND CULTURAL CHANGE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC

Campus St Albans
Prerequisite(s) ASS1012 and ASS1013 Sociology 1A and 1B.
Content This subject will introduce students to the distinctive social, political and economic features of the Melanesian, Polynesian and Micronesian regions. Through a wide range of source materials, including writings by Pacific islanders, and documentary films, students will study a number of themes in the history and development of society in the Pacific islands. These will include the exercise of power and authority, contact with missionaries and colonial officials, issues of self-determination and independence, gender and class; the role of the mass media, education and military presence, and tourism.

ASS2013 SOCIOLOGY OF THE BODY

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Normally two first year sociology subjects.
Content This subject is concerned to develop students' knowledge of social structure and understanding of social problems in the health area. It examines the relations between the social organisations in which health care is found and the various personnel and their competencies within them. There is provision for case study work and for the development of sociological problems through an examination of social history and the emergence of public institutions such as hospitals.
Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one two-hour seminar. Assessment Final assessment requires satisfactory completion of all assignments and attendance at 80% of tutorials/seminars.

ASS2025 TRANSNATIONAL SOCIAL MOVEMENTS

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Foundations in Political Science (AAP 1010) or Sociology 1A and 1B.
Content This subject will critically examine the increasing significance and reach of non-party political formations such as the global justice movement, civil society organisations and transnational environmental, peace and labour networks. It will introduce students to the most recent literature on social movement theory and explore the relationship between transnational social movements and globalisation. The subject will include specific case study material as well as introducing wider debates on the role of the nation state since September 11, 2001, contemporary critiques of neoliberalism and the problem of political engagement in the post-cold war era.

ASS3008 KNOWLEDGE AND POWER (GENESIS OF THE SOCIAL SPHERE)

- Campus Footscray Park
- Prerequisite(s) Normally completion of first year Sociology subjects.
- Content
  - This subject draws on recent social theory to examine the relations between knowledge and power in the evolution of modern forms of social intervention and public policy. The subject traces the formation of the category of ‘the social’ in the study of population and its technical adaptation in institutions of health, education and social administration more generally. Areas of study include the history of statistical calculations of the population, the methods of producing categories and groupings in the population, the uses of categories of ‘the social’ in modern forms of social administration, and the elaboration of these knowledges in social administration in Australia. These concerns will be approached through an examination of recent social theory and a review of particular instances of the knowledge/ power complex.

ASS3031 SOCIOLOGY 3C - GOVERNING CIVIC LIFE: CITIZEN, NATION, SELF

Campus St Albans.

Prerequisite(s) Completion of second year sociology at either Footscray or St Albans.

Content This second semester subject focuses on questions of culture and indigenous identity. The subject examines the cultural politics of race and the manner in which racial identities are constituted within a field of cultural difference and power. We analyse the relationship between Western knowledge forms in the elaboration of racial and sexual identities, and consider how the human sciences have developed accounts of indigenous people, how they have constituted indigenous people as a focus of government, and the types of policy regimes which have resulted.

Particular conceptions of identity tied to notions of 'the nation' and self are integral components of government and racialist political movements both in Australia and overseas. They are, for example, central to the current 'Asian' immigration 'debate', and underpin attitudes and responses to the reconciliation process. The subject examines the emergence of the One Nation Party and right wing populism within Australian culture and surveys attempts by indigenous persons to preserve cultural heritage and forge a post-colonial identity in the wake of the Mabo and Wik decisions. The Howard Government's 1998 amendments to the Native Title Act are also examined in the light of past and present attempts at governing indigeneity.

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising one two-hour lecture and a one hour tutorial.

Assessment Study proposal 15%; Literary/ Social Reflection 30%; Major Project 55%.

ASS3035 SOCIOLOGY 2/3E-ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY AND POLITICS

Campus St Albans.

Prerequisite(s) ASS1012/ASS1013 Sociology 1A and 1B; or by negotiation with the subject co-ordinator.

Content Recognition that existing economic, political and legal structures are demonstrably inadequate for dealing with the scope and depth of the current global ecological crisis has motivated widespread social responses at all levels; local, regional, national and international. The aim of this subject is to examine some of these responses and assess their importance for current and future environmental policy formulation. Analysis of the vexed issue of economic growth and its relation to environmental sustainability, examination of major international policy initiatives in this area such as the Brundtland Report, and Agenda 21, and consideration of some of the alternative visions of ecological sustainability adopted by different nation states e.g. those of the developing countries, newly industrialising countries (NICs), and the major Western economic powers. We also examine the critical role that indigenous people may play within this process. Throughout the subject attention is paid to specific policy contexts and issues within Australia and the Pacific, in particular their relationship with several of these wider concerns.

Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising one two-hour lecture and one two-hour seminar.

Assessment Three minor assignments, 45%; major research paper and presentation, 55%.

ASW205 HUMAN DEVELOPMENT: INDIVIDUAL, GROUP AND FAMILY PROCESSES

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content
The subject consists of two complementary parts. The first will be largely experiential, beginning with a two-day intensive workshop (ten hours) prior to the commencement of formal classes, and continuing with three two and a half hour seminars. In this component students explore their understanding of their personal values and motives, along with group processes, in order to facilitate effective communication and outcomes. Part two will follow for seven weeks, consisting of lectures, class presentations and seminars. Part Two: A general introduction to the topic of human development-maturational, from a variety of perspectives such as behavioural, ecological and information processing models; physical development-an outline of the course of physical growth and maturation throughout the lifespan; cognitive development-an introduction to the major theories, with an examination of the interrelatedness of cognitive, social and physical development, socialisation-a survey of theories of socialisation in a variety of contexts; impact of sociological factors on developmental processes. The lecture content will be complemented by seminars which will focus on social work applications of human development understandings, exploring themes such as independence, sexuality, transition and choice through the lifespan. Guest speakers, videotapes and case examples will be used to bridge theory and practice.

ASW201 INTRODUCTION TO SOCIAL WELFARE

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content
This subject presents the historical development of organised attempts to deal with human and social need. An examination is made of the first piece of social legislation in the British Empire (the 1349 Statute of Labourers Act) to deal with poverty and destitution along with subsequent legislation and policies such as the Elizabethan Poor Laws and the Beveridge Report. The transfer of these ideas and practices to colonial Australia is explored. The historical, philosophical, social, economic, religious, and political factors that influenced and shaped the development and provision of social welfare will be examined, along with current issues and problems confronting the Australian welfare state.

Required Reading

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising one 1.5 hour lecture and one 1.5 hour tutorial.

Assessment There will be two pieces of assessment: (1) a group seminar presentation, 40 % (2) a 2,500 word essay on a social welfare topic to be selected by each student from a list prepared by the subject coordinator, 60%.

ASW2092 INTRODUCTION TO SOCIAL WORK

Campus St Albans
Prerequisite(s) Nil

Content This subject introduces students to Social Work practice, including its development and location within the social and community services sector. It also introduces students to working with indigenous cultures and people. Lectures and recommended literature introduce students to key themes and debates in the development of social work in Australia and elsewhere. Students are expected to expand their understanding of social work as an activity shaped and constrained by social policy, legislation and organisations, as well as by a dynamic body of knowledge and skills, and a strong and explicit value and ethical base. Students will be introduced to a generic process framework that can be used to conceptualise practice across different social work roles, activities and settings. The subject includes an introduction to radical, critical and anti-oppressive social work theory and practice. As part of this focus, the subject includes a substantial module on working with indigenous communities and families.

Class Contact Weekly three-hour class with a one-hour lecture and a two-hour tutorial.

Assessment There are two pieces of assessment for this subject. The first is an annotated bibliography worth 30% of the total mark. The second is a 3,000 word written assignment examining an example of contemporary social work practice. Students will be required to go out in groups of three or four to interview practising social workers. The assignment will integrate this interview material with material covered in lectures and with individual research in the literature conducted by students. This assignment is worth 70% of the total mark.

ASW2093 SOCIAL WORK RESEARCH 1

Campus St Albans
Prerequisite(s) Nil

Content Social research is a key activity in all fields of human and community services, including social work and community work. It is not a ‘stand-alone’ activity, but informs analysis of social issues and contributes to high quality practice. This subject introduces students to basic frameworks, skills and issues both in using and in undertaking research. It is intended to provide students with research skills for other subjects as well as providing an introduction to the final year BSW subject of Social Work Research 2.

On completion of the subject students will be expected to:

- have a beginning understanding of different philosophical approaches and frameworks of social research
- be able to critically examine the purposes, limitations and strengths of research reported in the media, in practice and in literature
- have an awareness of the key steps in planning, designing and implementing a research/evaluation study
- identify ethical issues and guidelines for social research
- have a basic understanding of the use of descriptive statistics.

Class Contact weekly three-hour lecture/ tutorials.

Assessment Two assignments are required, each of 50% value in the final grading:

- a critique of selected social work literature - a brief tutorial presentation by students in small groups (two or three people) in which they present at least one chapter/article each and together critique the material.
- a take-home test covering simple descriptive statistics.

ASW2095 SOCIAL WORK THEORY

Campus St Albans
Prerequisite(s) Either ASW2091 Introduction to Social Welfare or ASW2092 Introduction to Social Work

Content Various worldviews or paradigms (neo-conservatism, liberalism, social democracy, and Marxism) will be examined in accordance with their respective ideologies. In turn, each ideology will be examined in terms of how each leads to a different explanation for social problems, a different welfare system to deal with social problems, and a different practice of social work. As part of this examination the value base of the profession of social work will be deconstructed in order to identify its social care and social control functions. The following components of structural social work will be covered: its collectivist value base, its radical social work parentage, its conflict perspective, its critical social theory base, its dialectical approach, and its inclusive anti oppressive framework. The critical social theories that inform structural social work will also be examined, namely: Marxism, the Frankfurt School, Habermas, feminism, Black liberation philosophy, Freire’s pedagogy, postmodemism/ poststructuralism, and post colonialism.

ASW2096 SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE 1

Prerequisite(s) Either ASW2092 Introduction to Social Work OR ASW2091 Introduction to Social Welfare

Content This subject aims to develop students' understanding of and competence in basic interpersonal and communication skills for social work practice within a framework identified in the literature as structural or anti-oppressive. The emphasis will be on the application of these skills to a range of social work situations and a range of methods of practice taking into account such characteristics as class, gender, race, age, and sexuality. This subject will cover the theory and practice of relevant interpersonal and communication skills, and will explicitly cover skills used in anti-oppressive social work practice. Students will have the opportunity, through group discussion, experiential workshops and simulation activities, to develop their own skills. On successful completion of this subject, students will be able to understand the place of interpersonal and communication skills within a range of intervention methods in social work practice and demonstrate a beginning competence in basic interpersonal and communication skills for social work practice.

Class Contact A weekly one-hour lecture followed by a two-hour workshop.

Assessment There are two assignments for this subject, each worth 50% of the total mark.

Assignment 1: In weeks 1-5, students will be required to make a five-minute videotape of themselves role-playing a social worker within a prescribed social work situation. They will be required to submit the videotape along with a 2000 word written critique of their skills as demonstrated in the video, identifying the skills as studied in Weeks 1-5 of the course utilised, discussing what worked well for them and what worked not so well, and presenting alternatives that might have worked better in the situation.

Assignment 2: In weeks 8-12, students will be required to make a five-minute videotape of themselves role-playing a social worker within a prescribed social work situation. They will be required to submit the videotape along with a 2000 word written critique of their skills as demonstrated in the video, identifying the processes and skills as studied in Weeks 8-12 of the course utilised, discussing what worked well for them and what worked not so well, and presenting alternatives that might have worked better in the situation.

ASW2097 SOCIAL WORK AND SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) Either ASW2092 Introduction to Social Work or ASW2091 Introduction to Social Welfare

Content In addition to learning about the general concept of a social problem, students will focus on specific social problems or life challenges. The actual social problem topics studied from year to year will vary depending on the expertise of staff, but may include the following: • Ability and Disability • Wealth and Poverty • Care, Abuse, and Neglect of Children • Gender Power Relations, Violence and Safety • Housing and Homelessness • Paid Work, Unpaid Work and Unemployment • Suicide • Depression • Anxiety • Mental Health, Mental Illness and Psychiatric Disability • Torture and Trauma • Terminal Illness • Motor Vehicle Accident Trauma

After introductory sessions on anti-oppressive social work practice, the first session on each topic will include an interdisciplinary overview of understandings about the topic, drawing on literature from the humanities and social sciences. The second session on each topic will examine the impacts on the people actually involved, drawing on autobiographical and self-help/mutual support literature. The third session on each topic will present students with a hypothetical example of a situation and will assist students to: work through the impacts at a personal, primary group, social group, community and societal level; to imagine and discuss what would constitute a better situation for the people involved; and to design interventions at all levels that would contribute to the desired change.

In addition, readings will be selected depending on the topics chosen from the above list.

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising one one and a half hour lecture and one one and a half hour tutorial.

Assessment There will be two pieces of assessment for this subject: (1) an individually facilitated tutorial, 40% (2) a 2,500 word essay based on one of the scenarios introduced in class, 60%.

ASW3019 LAW AND SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content This second year subject examines the law from a range of perspectives, as an instrument of social control, which regulates our activities, resolves disputes and assists in maintaining the position of those in power, to an instrument which can be used to encourage and sustain social change. It is from these perspectives that the legal context of social work practice is explored. Through lectures, workshop activities and tutorials, consideration is given to the major areas of substantive law which may affect social work practice and to understanding society's legal institutions and processes. Importantly, the subject develops a framework of operation which assists in gaining access to information that may be required in the legal sphere.

ASW3051 SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE 2A

Campus St. Albans
Prerequisite(s) Nil
Content The subject forms a base from which human service workers can contribute positively to processes of organisational change. It recognises that the dynamics of organisations operate as more than background context for social work practice, they are critical determinants of the nature of that practice, whether in public welfare, community practice or in voluntary agencies. Students are introduced to a range of frameworks for understanding the operation and dynamics of organisations. In particular the subject considers organisational activities from the perspective of workers and service users including conflict, roles of organisational players, decision-making and power, interactions between organisations and their environments, the impact of diverse goals, players, decision-making and power, interactions between organisations and their environments, the impact of diverse goals, players, decision-making and power, interactions between organisations and their environments, the impact of diverse goals, players, decision-making and power, interactions between organisations and their environments.

ASW3052 ANTI-OPRESSIVE SOCIAL WORK

Campus St. Albans
Prerequisite(s) ASW2092 Introduction to Social Work and ASW2096 Social Work Practice 1.
Corequisite(s) ASW2092 Introduction to Social Work 3rd Year Entry students.
Content This subject aims to provide students with an appreciation of direct social work practice as part of a continuum of social work approaches that helps to empower people and contributes to social transformation. It will provide students with the necessary knowledge, processes and skills for beginning direct social work practice under supervision. Within an overall anti-oppressive approach, students will be presented with opportunities and experiences to assist in developing and utilising appropriate skills and interventions in working directly with individuals, families and small groups in ways that meet immediate needs while simultaneously contributing to structural changes. Theory and practice are viewed as complementary halves where the academic is combined with the practical. We will draw upon practice examples, and students’ own experience to focus upon and understand this link. This subject has a strong practice workshop component to enable students to develop their skills as direct practice workers in the field.

ASW3053 SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE 3A

Campus St. Albans
Prerequisite(s) ASW2092 Introduction to Social Work and ASW2096 Social Work Practice 1.
Corequisite(s) ASW2092 Introduction to Social Work 3rd Year Entry students.

ASW3053 SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE 2B

Prerequisite(s) ASW3051 Social Work Practice 2A

Content This subject builds on Social Work Practice 2A, and focuses mainly on working with families and groups. Students will be given the opportunity to further develop and refine their core practice skills. Attention will also be given to their application with a range of oppressed groups of people. Students will be expected to draw extensively on the material studied in the subject ‘Anti-Oppressive Social Work’. Workshops will provide opportunities for skill development, presentation and discussion of examples of students’ direct practice. Students will present examples of their work, making explicit links with their classroom learning from Semesters 1 and 2 and with the literature.

Class Contact Students will undertake individual placements for four days a week, for one semester. Concurrent Social Work Practice 2B classes will be structured to provide students with an opportunity to reflect on their placement experience, and to integrate class-based and field-based learning. University staff will make three contacts with students on placement, two at least of which will be visits to the placement agency.

Assessment This subject will be graded as Satisfactory or Unsatisfactory. At the final liaison visit, University staff will complete a taped assessment with the student and their supervisor. The Field Education Coordinator will take supervisors’ recommendations to the BSW Exam Board, which will take responsibility for assessment.

ASW3054 SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE 2A

Co-requisite ASW3044 Social Work Practice 2B

Recommended Reading Brooks/Cole, Pacific Grove, CA.

ASW4044 COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

Prerequisite(s) ASW3051 Social Work Practice 2A and ASW3053 Social Work Practice 2B

Content Community development practice focuses on communities of interest, be they locality or geographically oriented, or issue based at local, regional or national levels. It acknowledges the diversity which exist within any ‘community’, but also recognises the potential for collaborative alliances, which may bring about change for those who experience disadvantage as a result of their class, gender, age or ethnic background. This subject seeks to explore the nature and dimensions of community development in social work practice. It attempts to define both the theories and processes of community development and to critically examine the impact of this practice on social change. It encourages students to develop their understanding of the context of community work practice including issues of participation, community organisation and the dynamics of power and influence. It also focuses on practical skill development to enable students to become effective community work practitioners.

Class Contact Three hours per week comprising one 1.5 hour lecture and one 1.5 hour workshop/tutorial.

Assessment Practice presentation, 50%; community development case study/ essay, 50%.

ASW4077 SOCIAL PLANNING AND PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) ASW4044 Community Development.

Content This final year subject builds on students' understanding of the welfare state and focuses on the process of policy change and development. It aims to provide students with the tools to effectively engage in social policy development.

Required Reading

Class Contact Three hours per week comprising one two-hour lecture and one one-hour tutorial.

Assessment There are 2 pieces of assessment for this subject. First, there is a 3,000 word formal analysis of a particular social policy chosen by the student in consultation with the lecturer and presented to the class in the form of a seminar presentation, 60%. Second, there is a class presentation on a current social policy issue, 40%.

ASW4091 FIELD EDUCATION 2

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) Social Work Field Education 1

Co-requisite(s) Community Development (unless previously completed).

Content Students will be placed in human services agencies and will be expected to undertake projects which are firmly embedded in the work of the agency and to contribute to that work. Students may undertake a small amount of direct practice work, but this must not take up any more than 20% of their time. Students will be on placement for a total of 70 days, at the rate of three days per week starting in the third week of Semester 1 going through to mid semester 2. (ie mid March to end of September with possibility of a 2 week break at mid semester). Students may be placed singly or in pairs, depending on the particular project. Placements will focus on either community development or policy analysis/development.

Recommended Reading

Class Contact Three hours per week (lecture / workshop), for one semester.

Assessment One individual written assignment, 60%; one group tutorial presentation, 40%.

ASW4090 SOCIAL POLICY ANALYSIS: CURRENT ISSUES

Prerequisite(s) ASW2091 Introduction to Social Welfare, ASW2013 Introduction to Social Policy, ASW2095 Social Work Theory

Content This subject has two components. The first will examine some of the substantive areas of Australian social policy such as social security, housing, unemployment, Aboriginal issues, health, immigration, corrections, the family, and the personal social services (e.g., child protection, domestic violence). These areas will be examined from the perspectives of political economy, feminism, anti-racism, and postmodernism. The second component will focus on the process and tools of social policy analysis from a critical and/or anti-oppressive framework.

Required Reading

Class Contact Three hours per week comprising one two-hour lecture and one one-hour tutorial.

Assessment There are 2 pieces of assessment for this subject. ---

ASW4092 SOCIAL WORK RESEARCH 2

Prerequisite(s) ASW2093 Social Work Research 1

Content This subject introduces students to the importance of developing a critical reflective practice when using different approaches to social work research. It focuses on what anti-oppressive practice might look like in a research context with many of the concepts having been introduced in Research 1. Undertaking research and evaluation and using research findings is an integral part of any social worker's practice. If social work strives for human well being, justice and equality, then research is fundamental in... revealing the structures and mechanisms that generate and maintain inequality and oppression.

Lectures will include developing a research model for anti-oppressive social work practice using approaches such as feminist research, participatory research and empowering evaluation. It will also explore anti oppressive approaches to research in direct practice, community development and policy advocacy. Workshops will be also be held to teach Excel research skills.

Required Reading

Recommended Reading

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester.

Assessment Two pieces of assessment will be required:
- Presentation of a detailed critique of a piece of social work research from an anti oppressive perspective. 60%
- The second piece of assessment will be a choice based on a computer-based exercise in advanced descriptive statistics involving the construction of graphs, tables and charts. 40%

ASWS001 SOCIAL WORK HONOURS

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) Minimum of distinction grades in 50% or more of completed Bachelor of Social Work subjects.

Content The Bachelor of Social Work Honours program provides students who have high level results in Years 2 and 3 of the Bachelor of Social Work Course with an opportunity to extend their practice knowledge and research skills. Students admitted to the Bachelor of Social Work with Honours will undertake all final year subjects and, in addition, enrol in the subject ASWS 5001 'Social Work Honours', which runs over two semesters. In this subject, students will attend fortnightly research seminars and prepare a minor thesis of 10,000 – 12,000 words in length. Students will receive individual supervision of their research projects. To qualify for admission to the course an applicant will normally have:
- completed the third year of the Bachelor of Social Work degree
- obtained a minimum of distinction grades in 50% or more of completed Bachelor of Social Work subjects.

Required Reading Sarantakos, Sotirios 1998, Social Research, 2nd Edn, Macmillan Education Australia, South Yarra.

Recommended Reading

Class Contact This subject runs over two semesters. Students will attend fortnightly research seminars, and be provided with individual research supervision.

Assessment Minor thesis of 10,000-12,000 words in length.
AXH1003 HONOURS THESIS (FULL-TIME)
Campus Footscray Park, St Albans.
Prerequisite(s) Completion of two Honours coursework units at an Honours level.
Required Reading The student’s selection and preparation of a detailed literature review of books/articles is an integral component of the Honours Year.

AXH1004 HONOURS THESIS (PART-TIME)
Campus Footscray Park, St Albans.
Prerequisite(s) As for AXH1003 Honours Thesis.

AXH1012 KEY DEBATES IN THE HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES
Campus Footscray Park, St Albans.
Prerequisite(s) Completion of three years of an approved BA course.
Content A review of some of the contemporary theoretical debates informing humanities and social sciences. Students are encouraged to reflect on the discourses and conventions of their disciplinary areas; to critique different epistemological and methodological approaches; to evaluate the application of these debates to their research area.
Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.
Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester.
Assessment Review essay, 25%; seminar paper, 25%; essay, 50%.

AXS1013 KOORI KNOWLEDGE AND CULTURE 1
Campus Echuca.
Prerequisite(s) Nil.
Content In the first year, the focus will be upon the theme ‘Making Our Own Histories’. Where do Koori people go to learn of their own history? How do we reinterpret the official colonial histories to make sense of our own past? A social history approach will be used. Important in this is the validating of the importance of the experiences of ordinary (as well as extraordinary) people and events in the making of our histories and contemporary lives. Therefore, in the first semester module, ‘Researching People’s Lives’, students will interview an elder person (or people) from one of the local clans (Wembawemba, Yototya, Banababara, Jabula-Jabula). A major emphasis in this activity is developing knowledge and skills in the method of Oral History. This activity will enable students to explore issues in people’s lives and develop valuable interviewing and other transferable research skills.
Class Contact Two hours per week for one semester.
Assessment Oral History project: interview, 30%; presentation of findings in oral, visual and written forms, 40%; class exercises, 30%.

AXS1014 KOORI KNOWLEDGE AND CULTURE 2
Campus Echuca.
Prerequisite(s) Normally AXS1013 Koori Knowledge and Culture 1.
Content In second semester, students will continue to explore sources of their local Koori knowledge and culture. A negotiated choice will be made of which of the following modules to undertake. Stories We Have Heard: with the guidance of community elders, students will investigate and assemble stories and songs from the Wembawemba, the Yototya, Banababara and Jabula-Jabula; country and western music, Lake Boga stories, and other narratives. Meanings and histories of these narratives will be explored. Art on Physical Locations and on the Human Body: Again with the guidance of the elders, this module will attempt to document and analyse some of the variety of representations found in rock art, in human bodies and elsewhere. Students will explore different ways of recording representational art. Meanings and interpretations will be explored, as well as beginning to consider concepts and issues around sacred and secret knowledges. The Other Side of the Frontier: Students will be encouraged to explore documentary and oral accounts of the histories of Aboriginal individuals and communities, focusing at first on the Echuca/Moama region. Genealogies could be constructed and timelines drawn up (as has been done amongst other communities in Australia). The impact of Europeans (such as G. A. Robinson in Victoria) and European institutions (Cummeragunga) will be examined. The ways that the local Koori communities considered and contested European ways in the Echuca area will be explored and documented.
Class Contact Two hours per week for one semester.
Assessment Research project including work in progress and written report, 50%; reflective journal, 25%; class exercises, 25%.
AXS2014 KOORI KNOWLEDGE AND CULTURE 4

Campus Echuca.
Prerequisite(s) Normally AXS2013 Koori Knowledge and Culture
3.
Content The second year, the knowledge, concepts and skills initiated in first year are further developed, with greater attention to the situation of Indigenous people elsewhere in Australia. In each semester two of the four themes of the major will be pursued.
1. Defending Our Culture: As students come to understand how much they do already know and act upon their Koori identities, greater interest is likely to develop in traditional society and cultures and how that can and does inform contemporary lived realities. From first learning from their own traditions through community elders, students will be better positioned to now consciously and specifically examine some non-Aboriginal accounts and explanations. The conflict between and Aboriginal and Western ways of knowing that emerge in cases of land use, education and lifestyle can begin to be explored drawing upon what frames of reference are made 'legitimate' and otherwise. This investigation will be framed by contemporary social and cultural theory around the constructions of subjectivities and identities. 2. Living Our Land: How did our people live in this place? What can we ourselves do to live here in a style appropriate to today? A focus on land use patterns will link the creation stories of the region (Bunjii) and naming strategies with known ecological history of the region (e.g. plant use, hunting, cooking). Community knowledges will be explored through traditional ceremonies of initiation as well as particular skills (such as rain making, canoe construction, burial methods, kopi stones) associated with the traditional communities. Local business ideas can be explored through looking at the business opportunities in our region? What has been the history of successes (and failures) among Indigenous entrepreneurs?
Class Contact Two hours per week for one semester.
Assessment Research project comprising documentation, 30% and analysis, 20%; class exercises, 20%; essay, 30%.

AXS301 KOORI KNOWLEDGE AND CULTURE 5

Campus Echuca.
Prerequisite(s) Normally AXS2014 Koori Knowledge and Culture 4.
Content The ground covered in first and second year is further developed with greater attention to the situation of Indigenous people elsewhere in Australia and the Pacific region. In each semester two of the four themes of the major will be pursued.
1. Making Our Own Histories: At third year level, this module will work towards the development of a professional product using all the 'history' and skills worked on over the past two years. This could be a CD ROM, film, book or other activity. The intent would be to market this product utilising skills learned in other subjects as well. 2. Recovering Our Language: An introduction to central questions about the nature and functioning of the communication process in a variety of cultural contexts, especially involving Indigenous people and others. Topics include: language and communication; non-verbal and interpersonal communication; communication in groups and organisations; the construction of self through communication; communication, culture and the unconscious; communication and story telling, communication and national identity.
Class Contact Two hours per week for one semester.
Assessment Major project involving research and production of multimedia product, 80%; assignment on language, 20%.

Campus Echuca.
Prerequisite(s) Normally AXS2013 Koori Knowledge and Culture
Content The ground covered in first and second year is further developed with greater attention to the situation of Indigenous people elsewhere in Australia and the Pacific region. In each semester two of the four themes of the major will be pursued.
3. Defending Our Own Culture: This theme introduces students to the practice and theory of community development. It draws on case studies and examples of community development as practised by indigenous (and some reference to non-indigenous) communities both from the Asia/Australia Pacific region and within Australia. The module discusses concepts of community and examines the nature of community development work. It also aims to familiarise students with linkages between community development and social action at local, regional, national and global levels. Students are encouraged to explore, analyse and develop models and case studies of community development which they consider to be of relevance to their own experience. 4. Living Our Land: This theme would be pursued largely practicum based in a community development or enterprise education setting and model. The aim would be to practically apply learning in Koori Culture and Knowledge in a community and/ or business setting.
Class Contact Two hours per week for one semester.
Assessment Practicum: including report of performance of responsibilities, 40%; documentation of a community development project, 30%; reflective journal, 30%.

HFC1001 INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER MEDIATED ART

Campus St Albans
Prerequisite(s) Nil.
Content This subject is designed to provide beginning artists with an understanding of the ways that computers can and do affect their lives. Practical experience in applications which directly and indirectly concern artists will be examined. Students will explore
Macintosh Operating Systems and PC Operating Systems and related hardware, basic word processing and desktop publishing software, and basic graphic software packages. Database software packages and Zip drive software and hardware will be examined in order for students to manage their beginning image collection. Graphic file formats such as TIFF, PICT, EPS, and JPEG will be dealt with and format conversion software. Lectures will address hit-mapped and object-orientated graphics. CD ROM technology will be explored as well as data compression and storage systems. Students will be encouraged to use the computer as a tool for other subjects and as a tool for personal use. Dabbler will be the main art software package used.

Class Contact: Four hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one three-hour workshop.

Assessment: Folio, 50%; Class presentation, 25%; Electronic journal, 25%.

HFC1002 INTRODUCTION TO DRAWING AND PAINTING

Campus: St Albans

Prerequisite(s): Nil.

Content: This subject consists of the two most basic analogue arts – painting and drawing – and examines the relationships between the two disciplines. The subject will examine elements common to both areas such as types of supports used to draw and paint upon, the different types of media which can be employed, and mark making. Students will use basic and common elements in the visual arts and explore them in making visual art works. In addition to exploring commonalities, this subject will also explore differences unique to each discipline. Drawing will introduce students to traditional approaches to line, mark making, shape, modelling and perspective while painting will focus upon colour, types of paint and methods of application. Lectures will draw upon historical and contemporary examples of drawing and painting, the relationships between art and gender and beginning issues in two dimensional design. Gallery visits will be included in the program as well as lectures by visual artists.

Recommended Reading: Stephenson, J. 1993. The Materials and Techniques of Painting. Thames and Hudson. NY.

Class Contact: Four hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one three-hour workshop.

Assessment: Folio and support work, 80%; Visual arts journal, 20%.

HFC1003 COMPUTING FOR ARTISTS

Campus: St Albans

Prerequisite(s): HFC1001 Introduction to Computer Mediated Art or equivalent.

Content: This subject builds upon the variety of computing uses available to students but in particular the art making process. Content will focus on distinctions between computer mediated art, image processing, and computer art and will contextualise a variety of software packages within a theoretical framework. Students will continue to employ word processing, basic graphic, spreadsheet, database and desktop publishing software packages, but will begin to engage with a variety of electronic drawing and painting packages in conjunction with hardware such as pressure sensitive digitising tablets. Students will also begin working with digital scanning devices and simple two-dimensional animation will be introduced. This subject addresses the needs of persons who make art using the computer as the primary agent, but does so within an emerging theoretical framework. Painter will be the main software package used.

Class Contact: Four hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and three-hour workshop.

Assessment: Folio, 50%; Class presentation, 25%; Electronic journal, 25%.
HFC2004 EXPERIMENTAL ART

Campus St Albans
Pre requisite(s) HFC1003 Computing for Artists
Content This course is a studio experience introducing students to the production of experimental animation and video. Through the creation of digital presentations this studio emphasises visual structure and artistic conceptualisation while examining emerging artistic media and technology. Students will investigate the interrelationships between traditional static forms and the new technologies of animation and video art.
Class Contact Four one-hour lectures and one three-hour workshop per week.

HFC2005 INTRODUCTION TO VIDEO ART

Campus St Albans
Pre requisite(s) HFC2002 Still Life Drawing and Painting or equivalent.
Content This subject combines the three disciplines of drawing, painting and sculpture in order to focus on non-traditional art making. Students explore two dimensional and three dimensional surface and mark making systems outside traditional wet and dry media. Conceptual aspects of visual arts are explored in conjunction with digitally and photographically generated images which draw upon advanced techniques and interpretation. Students will demonstrate processes of critical analysis to support judgements about their work. Lectures will focus on fundamental principles of three dimensional design and analysis of forms in space as well as basic joining techniques. Students will move from the production of finished work intended primarily for display against a flat surface to the concept of installation. The issue of complex compositions which select, combine and manipulate numerous images will be addressed and their relationship to computer mediated art highlighted.
Class Contact Four hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one three-hour workshop.

HFC2006 VIDEO ART

Pre requisite(s) HFC2005 Introduction to Video Art
Content Through advanced projects involving digital time based media and a variety of visual technologies students will produced refined artistic statements involving elements of video, digital media, animation and audio. Lectures will focus on advanced conceptual and experimental approaches to video and digital media related to current developments in contemporary art.
Recommended Reading Current web sites on video art which will be made available by the lecturer.

HFC3001 THE DIGITAL IMAGE

Campus St Albans
Pre requisite(s) HFC2003 Multimedia for Artists or equivalent.
Content This subject will draw upon all the major art software packages in order for students to develop, implement and complete several projects and related support work for the semester. The projects will also draw upon completed analogue projects students have completed elsewhere with a view to producing a cohesive portfolio of finished work. The finished work will include both static and video displays. Students will be introduced to post production techniques for their computer mediated art when opportunities are provided for students to transfer their finished work to video to produce a CD Rom. Students will begin developing their own WWW site for their art work. Content will deal with editing styles, computer mediated art aesthetics and cyber culture. Dream weaver will be used.
Class Contact Four hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one three-hour workshop.
Assessment Folio, 50%; Presentation, 25%; Electronic journal, 25%.

HFC3005 INSTALLATION ART

Pre requisite(s) HFC2006 Video Art & HFC2004 Experimental Art or equivalent.
Content This subject locates the students own installation practice within historical and contemporary forms of practice. In particular, it extends the sorts of issues raised in Experimental Art and Video Art in Year Two and seeks to integrate these forms of studio practice. Installation Art will employ virtual immateriality in order to simulate an exhibition of digital art presented in a public space. This will result in an exhibition presented in ‘real time’ via video or computer, or net-based site-specific work.
Class Contact Four hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one three-hour tutorial. In addition to this, it is expected that students devote at least three self-directed hours per week.
Assessment Folio of 3 minor installation works (50%); one major ephemeral installation situated in the university grounds (50%).

HFC4001 HONOURS INDIVIDUAL CREATIVE PROJECT A

Campus St Albans
Pre requisite(s) Admission into honours stream.
Content The content of the student’s creative output will be outlined in the research proposal submitted by the student prior to admission into the honours course. Individual projects will be further refined through consultation between student and supervisor throughout the semester. In general it is expected that a student's work will be developing toward a professional standard suitable for public exhibition.

Required Reading Reading is dependent on the nature of individual student projects. The student's supervisor will supply appropriate reading at the beginning of the semester.

Class Contact Formal contact with the supervisor will be one hour per week. In addition it is expected that the student devote at least 8 self-directed hours per week to the project.

Assessment A progress review at the end of the semester. The review panel will be composed of at least two academic members of staff including the student's supervisor. The review panel must be satisfied that the student is making satisfactory progress in his or her practical creative work. Creative work will be submitted as a folio comprising a CD ROM and/or analogue product, depending on the student's particular project. A written progress report will be given to the student and a copy placed on file.
Postgraduate Studies

Higher Degrees by Research
The Faculty of Arts offers supervision for both Masters by Research and Doctorate programs in any of the following areas:

- Applied Linguistics and Sociolinguistics;
- Asian Studies;
- Australian Literature and Literary Theory;
- Clinical/Counselling Research;
- Communication Studies;
- Community Development;
- Community Psychology;
- Computer Mediated Art;
- Creative and Professional Writing;
- Cultural Studies;
- Developmental Neuropsychology;
- History;
- Literary Studies;
- Media and Cultural Studies;
- Multimedia;
- Multicultural Studies;
- Pacific Islands Studies;
- Political Science;
- Postcolonial Studies;
- Psychology of Health and Social Development;
- Sleep and Sleep Problems;
- Social Policy and Social Planning;
- Social Work;
- Sociology;
- Spanish and Latin American Studies;
- Women's Studies.

Master of Arts by Research
The course requires the equivalent of two years full-time study. In the case where an honours degree (or equivalent) is held, or equivalent experience is demonstrated, the duration of the course may be reduced as appropriate.

Master of Social Work by Research
The School of Social Sciences offers candidates the opportunity to study for a Master of Social Work degree by research. The Master of Social Work degree by research is designed for students who wish to undertake research into a specific field of social work practice at the postgraduate level. To be eligible to enrol, students will hold either a Bachelor of Social Work with Honours degree, or hold a Bachelor of Social Work degree (or equivalent) and have at least three years social work practice experience. Research supervision will be provided by a social work qualified member of the School.

The course requires the equivalent of two years full-time study.

Doctor of Philosophy
The Faculty offers supervision for research leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in any of the areas offered for Master of Arts studies. Candidates for this degree may be enrolled in the first place in the Master of Arts program, and given the opportunity to convert when they have completed sufficient work to demonstrate their own ability in research and to satisfy the Faculty that the topic is suitable in scope and level for a doctoral study. Students are normally required to spend the equivalent of three years full-time study on doctoral research.

Eligibility to Apply

Master of Arts (Research)
Applicants should normally have completed a four year undergraduate degree with Honours, or have attained results at Distinction level or higher in a three year undergraduate degree and have other relevant experience.

Doctor of Philosophy
Applicants should normally have completed either a Master of Arts by Research degree or a four year undergraduate degree with Honours. If you have not completed a Master of Arts by Research degree, you will normally be enrolled in the first place in a Masters program and will be given the opportunity to convert to a Doctoral program when you have completed sufficient work to satisfy the Faculty that your topic is suitable in scope and level for doctoral study.

Admission Requirements
Initial contact should be made with either the relevant School Postgraduate Studies Co-ordinator or the Faculty Postgraduate Studies Co-ordinator to clarify your proposed area of research. You will need to discuss the availability of suitable supervision for your program and any facilities or support you will require.

Enrolling
Following discussion with the appropriate School, you are required to complete an Application for Enrolment for a Higher Degree which is available from the Faculty of Arts office. The application should be accompanied with a copy of your certified academic results together with a brief one to two page description of your proposed research including the project's title; aims; and methodology; an outline of the timescale of the program, facilities and equipment required, and a statement of the significance of the project. Applications should be lodged with the relevant School.

The Postgraduate Studies Administrator will then contact you to arrange a suitable time for you to enrol. Students are expected to pay any fees at the time of enrolment or shortly thereafter.

Choosing a Supervisor
Choosing a supervisor is a critical stage of the initial admissions process. Not only do you need to choose a supervisor who has the appropriate professional experience and interest in your chosen topic, but also a supervisor you will feel comfortable with and who has the time to commit to your project.

The Faculty of Arts has produced a Guide to Academic Staff for Research Supervision which is a register of all permanent full-time academic staff members within the Faculty. The booklet briefly notes each staff member's qualifications and area of expertise, which should give you a broad idea of who might be suitable as a possible supervisor. You may contact any person listed in the booklet, or alternatively the relevant school or faculty postgraduate co-ordinator listed on this page should be able to match you up with an appropriate member of the Faculty.

Applying for Candidature
Full-time students are required to complete an Application for Candidature within 6 months of the date of their initial enrolment, whilst part-time students are required to complete the process within 12 months from the date of their enrolment.

All Schools in the Faculty of Arts accept individual candidates for research leading to the degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy.
School of Communication, Culture and Languages

Academic staff and postgraduate students in the School of Communication, Culture and Languages are active in undertaking research.

Staff within the School are able to offer research supervision to students wishing to pursue higher degree research studies for a Master of Arts or Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) in the following areas:

Media and Cultural Studies including popular journalism, media in education, broadcast policy, public radio and the media, popular film, television, audiences, cultural production, Australian cinema and feminist issues in cinema studies, cultural policy, commercialisation of culture and sub-cultures.

Literary Studies including postcolonial and indigenous literatures, women's writing, contemporary Australian fiction, popular fiction, reception of literary theory in Australia.

Applied Linguistics and Sociolinguistics including language maintenance and use, second language acquisition, cross-cultural communication, English in Australia, ethnicity and identity and language policy.

Communication Studies including organisational communication, public communication, international communication processes and issues, new communication technologies, interpersonal and group communication, communication industries, communication for community development, impact of new technologies.

Gender and Women's Studies including feminist theory and policy, women and the environment, labour and unionism, feminist pedagogy and epistemology, gender issues in international development.

Multimedia - creative projects

Public Relations contemporary theory and practice.

Writing including literary and creative work in (auto)biography, poetry, fiction, creative non-fiction, textual analysis of non literary texts, sociology of textual production, action research using writing, technical and scientific writing, media writing, feminist writing.

Chinese Language and Culture interpreting and translating, cross-cultural communication, modern Chinese literature and cinema, society and cultures, media and popular culture.

Japanese Language and Culture interpreting and translating, cross-cultural communication, modern Japanese literature and cinema, society and cultures, media and popular culture.

Spanish and Latin American Language and Culture including the Spanish language in Australia, Spain and Latin America, interpreting and translating, cross-cultural communication with Latin America, modern Latin American literature, society and cultures, media and popular culture.

Vietnamese Language and Culture interpreting and translating, cross-cultural communication, modern Vietnamese literature and cinema, society and cultures, media and popular culture.
School of Psychology

The School of Psychology offers well-qualified students the opportunity to undertake Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy degrees by research. The School has a diversity of staff who are available to supervise research students. A selection of some of the areas of interest are: Aboriginal issues in psychology, child and adolescent development, chronic illness, clinical psychotherapy, cognitive performance, community mental health, counselling, cross-cultural issues and service delivery, developmental psychology, diabetes and health behaviour, eating disorders, environmental/conservation issues, evaluation research, family process and attachment, feminism and psychology, gambling behaviour, group dynamics, head injury, hypnosis, independent living skills, learning disability, migrant adjustment, neuropsychological treatments, personality development, psychometrics, psychotherapy, reading comprehension, rehabilitation, sleep and sleep disorders, stroke and dementia and women's health. The School has research facilities, including a sleep laboratory and a clinic, plus office space and computing access to support its research students.

Applicants for the Master of Arts by Research or Doctor of Philosophy in the School of Psychology should normally have an Australian Psychological Society accredited 4th year (Honours or Graduate Diploma) in Psychology, with results at the 2A honours level or better. Students with 4th years or Master's degrees in other, related disciplines may be considered if appropriate supervision is available.

Students are invited in the first instance, to discuss their potential research topic with the School Research Professor. If a suitable supervisor can be arranged, the student is expected to spend several sessions with that supervisor refining an Application for Admission, which will then be considered by the School's Committee for Postgraduate Studies. Successful applicants may then enrol. It is expected that students will then spend 6 months (or part-time equivalent) developing an Application for Candidature, which involves a detailed, specific research proposal accompanied by a literature review. Application for ethical approval of the project must also occur about this time. Once students are accepted for candidature, data collection can proceed. Standard completion times are 18 months for a Masters degree and 36 months for a PhD, or part-time equivalent.

Postgraduate research students are encouraged to become involved in the life of the School of Psychology, attending colloquia, conferences, and other special events. The Victoria University of Technology offers, on a competitive basis, APA and University scholarships for research higher degree students. Faculty HECS exemption awards are made available to all full-time students.

The School of Psychology also offers a PhD program that includes the coursework and practical placement components of a professional masters program. Students may specialise in the Master of Applied Psychology coursework programs (Community Psychology or Sport Psychology) or in the Master of Psychology coursework program (Clinical Psychology or Clinical Neuropsychology). The entire program involves four years of full-time study with the Masters requirements spread over two years. At the successful completion of the program students would graduate with a PhD (externally examined) and receive an academic transcript from the University that they have successfully completed the coursework and practical placement components of the selected Masters course. A Doctor of Applied Psychology will be offered in 2004. This will make students eligible to apply for registration/membership with the Victorian Psychologists' Registration Board and the Australian Psychological Society (APS) (subject to further supervised experience).

School of Social Sciences

Academic staff are involved in a wide range of theoretical and applied research related to social policy and social planning; social work; environmental management; public administration; education and health policy; and human services planning, management and evaluation.

Current research projects being undertaken by academic staff include: community services in new communities; law and the human sciences; women and work; urban history in Southeast and East Asia and Indo-China; Labor history, cold war culture, post-war Catholic intellectuals, the military in Australian culture, South African history; economic development in Vietnam, comparative sociology of masculinity in Asia, the Multifunction Polis, Indonesian history and politics, Japanese business practices, Australia's role in contemporary Asia, Chinese influences on the Vietnamese language, and comparative studies of Chinese family structures.

Supervision can also be provided in the following:

- Sociology including social and political theory, sociology of beliefs, immigration and multicultural issues, education and social change, the future of work, the changing role of the public sector, international organisations, history and philosophy of science, cultural studies in particular Italian and Maltese links with Australia.
- Pacific Studies in particular history, education, gender relations, environment, regional organisations and international relations in the Pacific Islands region. Media, communications and other relations between Australia and Pacific Islands, in particular Papua New Guinea, Vanuatu, New Caledonia, Fiji, the Solomon Islands and Micronesia. Community development and Australian aid relations with the Pacific region.
- Studies on East and Southeast Asia and Australia's role in Asia. Particular attention is placed on cultural, political, historical and economic aspects of modern East and Southeast Asian states.

The School offers candidates the opportunity to study for a Master of Arts degree by research and a Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) in any of the disciplines of Sociology, Politics, Social Policy, Social Work, Pacific Studies, Legal Studies or relating to East and South East Asia. Candidates may also undertake research in the area of Political Science. Students are encouraged to examine issues relating to Australian-Asian or Australian-Pacific relations, Australian public policy and constitutional reforms in Australia.

Campus: St Albans

Course Description (General Stream)
The program is designed for those students who wish to continue their focus on Asian and/or Pacific Studies from an undergraduate level or who have completed an undergraduate degree or equivalent in another discipline and wish to complement their knowledge with studies of Asia and the Pacific. Students normally enrol in the Graduate Certificate program and then proceed to the Graduate Diploma program. Students may then enter the Masters program, depending on the results they have achieved.

Course Description (Community Development Stream)
The program provides community development skills, knowledge, and expertise for intending, or already employed, community development and development project workers in the Asia Pacific region. The key focus areas of the program include: theoretical and practical community development approaches; project planning and management; research skills (including participatory rapid appraisal); an understanding of the social, political and economic contexts and issues in Asia and the Pacific; and an opportunity to put theory into practice through a professional project. Students normally enrol in the Graduate Certificate program and then proceed to the Graduate Diploma program. Students may then enter the Masters program, depending on the results they have achieved.

Course Objectives
The aims of the programs are to provide graduates with:

- a comprehensive overview of the critical issues which influence the development of contemporary Asian and Pacific society and culture;
- skills sufficient to analyse data and texts relating to the above.
- to provide community development skills, knowledge, and expertise for intending, or already employed, community development and development project workers in the Asia Pacific region (Community Development stream only)

Course Duration
The duration of the Graduate Certificate is one semester full-time (or equivalent) and the Graduate Diploma is one year full-time (or equivalent). The duration of the Masters Degree is two years full-time (or its equivalent). Students may exit the program after:

- one semester full-time equivalent with a Graduate Certificate
- one year full-time equivalent with a Graduate Diploma
- two years full-time equivalent with a Masters Degree.

Course Requirements

- To qualify for the Graduate Certificate in Asian and Pacific Studies (either stream), students must complete a total of 60 credit points;
- To qualify for the Graduate Diploma in Asian and Pacific Studies (either stream), students must complete a total of 120 credit points; and
- To qualify for the Master of Arts in Asian and Pacific Studies (either stream), students must complete a total of 240 credit points.

Note: The above text provides a detailed breakdown of course structures for various postgraduate programs in Asian & Pacific Studies, including options for both full-time and part-time study. The courses cover a range of topics from interpretive studies to research methods, with electives available from a diverse list of subjects. The text highlights the flexibility in choosing electives across different streams and the importance of managing credit points to complete the required course load.
Postgraduate Program in Communication and Professional Writing

Graduate Certificate in Communication and Professional Writing
Course Code: ATCC
Campus: City Flinders

Graduate Diploma in Communication and Professional Writing
Course Code: AGCD
Campus: City Flinders

Master of Arts in Communication and Professional Writing
Course Code: AMCM
Campus: City Flinders

Course Description
This fully articulated program is the first of its type in Victoria and has been developed to provide a comprehensive postgraduate education in Communication for communication practitioners, educators, trainers and others wishing to pursue postgraduate level study and research in Communication. An important feature of the program is its flexible structure, allowing exit from the program at different levels, and, if desired, later re-admission to undertake further study with full recognition for earlier study.

The program provides a comprehensive foundation of communication theory and research methodology and enables students to explore their application to a range of interrelated vocational areas.

Depending on a student's particular orientation to communication they have the opportunity to combine a range of elective subjects to make up the coursework component of the program. Some of these subjects focus more on communication in organisational contexts and the management of communication, whereas others deal with the media's representation of issues and audience response and changing contexts and means of communication with the introduction of new communication technologies.

Note that only a selection of the subjects are offered each year.

Course Objectives
With the rapid changes currently taking place in society as a result of the information and communication revolution, effective communication interpersonally, in groups and organisations and through the media are recognised as essential for a just and productive society. The postgraduate program in Communication has been designed to provide the appropriate education for a broad range of graduates who are seeking to further their knowledge and analysis of communication, so that they are well equipped for positions with greater responsibility for research, policy development and management.
Course Requirements

To qualify for the award of Graduate Certificate in Communication students must complete a total of 60 credit points.

To qualify for the award of Graduate Diploma in Communication students must complete a total of 120 credit points.

To qualify for the award of Master of Arts in Communication students must complete a total of 180 credit points.

Course Structure

Note that only a selection of these subjects is offered each year.

ACG 5096 Technical and Business Writing (W) and/or 20 up to two subjects to the value of at least 40 credit points from communication subjects or other courses in the University, by negotiation.

MA Thesis

To complete the requirements for the Masters program all students must submit a thesis proposal and a minor thesis. To assist with the development of their proposal and with the conduct of their research students will be required to attend first a thesis seminar and later a research seminar. The requirements for these seminars and for the proposal and thesis are outlined below.

The thesis proposal and minor thesis can be completed in one of the following two ways:

• Accelerated mode Thesis proposal is developed during Semester two and research and writing of the thesis undertaken in the period of November-February:
• Normal mode Thesis proposal is developed in the period of November-February and research and writing of the thesis undertaken in the period of March-June.

Part-time students normally undertake half the load required for full-time students in a given semester. The accelerated mode for undertaking the minor thesis would not normally be available to part-time students unless a student chose to convert to full-time for the summer semester. The normal completion time for an MA in Communication for part-time students would thus remain three years.

Career Prospects

The Graduate Program in Communication and Professional Writing has been designed to meet the needs of a broad range of students for graduate level study in the field of communication. It emphasises communication research and theory development and the application of these to specific areas of communication practice. The program provides opportunities for students to focus on particular aspects of the field of communication depending on their professional background and developing interests.

The main groups for whom the course has been designed are:
• Communication professionals working in the media, organisational communication, management communication, technical communication and/or public communication. The program is particularly suited to those professionals who are seeking to further their knowledge in order to move from lower level professional positions to those with greater responsibility for policy development, management and research;
• Communication educators and trainers wishing to update their knowledge of theory research and practice in communication; and
• Other graduates who wish to undertake graduate level studies because of developing career and/or research interests.

The International Communication stream offered within the program is likely to be of particular interest to graduates whose current or future employment will involve them in communication media in the rapidly developing Asia-Pacific region and/or countries dealing with communication media and other communication policy in the context of economic and social development.

Admission Requirements
The admission requirement for the program is normally a four-year first degree or its equivalent. At the discretion of the selection officer, if selected, students who satisfy this requirement may be immediately offered a place in the Master of Arts in Communication. Such students are still required to reach the required standard to progress from Stage 1 to Stage 2 of the program.

Applicants who do not meet the normal requirement may be considered for entry to the program, but would normally be offered places initially in the Graduate Diploma or Graduate Certificate.

In recognition of the importance of relevant experience to students in being able to benefit from the program’s emphasis on the relationship of theory to practice relevant work experience will be an advantage to applicants.

Selection to the program is competitive and the Faculty needs to be satisfied of an applicant’s ability to complete the course before a place can be offered.

Applicants may be interviewed or requested to provide academic and/or professional letters of recommendation to assess their suitability for the course. Special consideration for admission will be given to students with disabilities.

Master of Arts in Communication
To qualify to be considered for immediate enrolment within the Master of Arts in Communication (Stage 2) an applicant must hold one of the following:
• an undergraduate honours degree; or
• a four-year undergraduate degree or its equivalent; or
• a three-year undergraduate degree and a one-year graduate qualification (e.g. postgraduate diploma of Education, Graduate Diploma)

Graduate Certificate in Communication and Graduate Diploma in Communication
To be considered for entrance to these levels of the program an applicant must meet one of the following requirements:
• an undergraduate honours degree; or
• a four-year undergraduate degree or its equivalent; or
• a three-year undergraduate degree and a one-year graduate qualification (e.g. postgraduate Diploma of Education, Graduate Diploma); or
• a three-year first degree and a minimum of two years relevant work experience; or
• have completed a three-year degree with average grades of 70% (mid-credit level) in their final year; or
• a relevant TAFE Associate Diploma course together with a minimum of five years relevant work experience; or
• be able to demonstrate on the basis of achievement in a relevant field, their capacity to contribute to Communication Studies at the University, whilst demonstrating the potential to meet the academic requirements of the program.

Progression to MA Program
All students on the program must qualify to progress from Stage 1 to Stage 2 by:
• achieving an average of at least H2A (>70%) at least 50% of subjects in stage 1. At the discretion of the program co-ordinator, where this standard has not quite been met but where the student is considered to have demonstrated potential to meet this standard and continue into the research component of the program, additional assignment work may be required of the student to bring their results to the required standard. Such discretion would usually only apply where the student had demonstrated potential by achieving an average of at least 70% in a minimum of three subjects.

Course Fees
Students undertaking this program will be charged through the Higher Contribution Scheme (HECS). Students will also be required to pay the University's annual General Service Fee.

Postgraduate Programs in Arts (History)

Graduate Certificate in Arts (History)
Course Code: ATAH
Campus: Footscray Park

Graduate Diploma in Arts (History)
Course Code: AGAH
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description
This program is designed to make a major in History available for graduates who either don't have such a major in their academic profile, or who wish to refresh or otherwise up-grade their academic credentials in this area. The Graduate Certificate and Graduate Diploma in Arts (History) are not available to students who have completed or are completing an undergraduate History sequence within the Faculty of Arts at Victoria University.

Course Objectives
The course aims to make students aware of major historical events and processes that shape their lives (in C. Wright Mills' terms, helping to nurture a 'sociological imagination' by linking personal circumstances to public issues) and to raise the levels of public debate about Australia and the world.

Course Duration
The duration of the Graduate Certificate is one semester full-time or two semesters part-time and the Graduate Diploma is two semesters full-time or four semesters part time. Students may exit from the program after:
• One semester full time with a Graduate Certificate;
• One year full time with a Graduate Diploma.
Course Requirements
To qualify for the Graduate Certificate in Arts (History) students must complete a total of 60 credit points.
To qualify for the Graduate Diploma in Arts (History) students must complete a total of 120 credit points.

Course Structure
Note that only a selection of these subjects is offered each year.

Graduate Diploma in Modern Languages

Course Code: AGXL
Campus: Asian Languages: Footscray Park
Spanish: St Albans

Course Description
The Graduate Diploma in Modern Languages is a fee-paying program comprising Spanish, Japanese, Chinese (Mandarin) and Vietnamese languages and is managed by the School of Communication, Culture and Languages within the Faculty of Arts. Students undertaking the course are required to complete 6 sequential subjects over three years, in their chosen language.

The course provides in-depth knowledge and skills in the study of the theoretical and practical aspects of language learning. It will also develop in the student increased cultural awareness and further insights for cross-cultural understanding and improved communication. Furthermore, students undertaking the course will benefit from an enhancement of their cognitive abilities, which will take place as their bilingual skills are developed.

Course Objectives
At the conclusion of the course students should:

- have enhanced bilingual skills and cognitive abilities, and be able to derive both personal satisfaction and improved employment opportunities;
- have an improved understanding of the culture and society of the language chosen for particular study, enabling students to find work within, or related to, the community represented by the particular language they have studied;
- be able to undertake further study in specialised areas connected with their chosen language, such as interpreting and translating, editing, subtitling, and associated activities;
- be able to undertake specific research in a broad range of subjects connected with the language area studied, as it relates to other disciplines of vocational relevance, such as psychology, community development and social work, education, business, the arts, interpreting and translating, marketing and tourism; and
- have developed further insights into issues involving an awareness of cross-cultural communication and put these into practice in a personal, employment or voluntary capacity within the broader community.

Course Duration
Three years part-time.

Course Requirements
Students undertaking the Graduate Diploma are required to complete 6 sequential subjects over three years, in their chosen language major. Students must complete a total of 120 credit points.

Course Structure
Asian Languages

A range of Asian languages is offered at varying levels. All students entering one of these language programs will be assessed by staff to determine the appropriate level in which they should enrol. Students who have completed an Asian language at Year 12 level or who are a native speaker will commence their program at the next appropriate level.

Chinese (Mandarin)
The subjects in the Chinese Language Studies course are:

First Year
ACZ1001 Chinese 1A 20
ACZ1002 Chinese 1B 20

Second Year
ACZ2001 Chinese 2A 20
ACZ2002 Chinese 2B 20

ACZ3011 Chinese People and Beliefs 20
ACZ3012 Chinese Film and Stories 20

Total 120

Japanese

First Year
ACJ1001 Introduction to Japanese 20
ACJ1002 Japanese 2 20
Vietnamese

The Vietnamese language program consists of two streams: (1) a Beginners’ stream for those who have no (or little) prior knowledge of Vietnamese; and (2) a Post-VCE stream for those who have completed four semesters in the Beginners’ stream or VCE Vietnamese or its equivalent.

The Vietnamese for Beginners’ stream is designed to provide students with four practical language skills: listening, speaking, reading and writing. It also aims to acquaint students with contemporary culture and society.

The Post-VCE Vietnamese stream is designed to consolidate and extend students’ skills in comprehending and writing Vietnamese, to familiarize them with aspects of Vietnamese society, and to enhance their understanding of cultural values underpinning ways of thinking and social interaction.

BEGINNERS STREAM

First Year
ACV1001 Basic Vietnamese A
ACV1002 Basic Vietnamese B

Second Year
ACV2001 Intermediate Vietnamese A
ACV2002 Intermediate Vietnamese B

Third Year
Same subjects as the first year of the Post-VCE stream, below

POST-VCE STREAM

First Year
ACV3011 Vietnamese for Business
ACV3012 Vietnamese Folklore and Society

Second/Third Year
ACV3021 Vietnamese Language and Culture
ACV3022 Vietnamese Film and Media
ACV3031 Survey of Vietnamese Literature
ACV3032 Special Topics in Vietnamese Literature

While the Beginners’ subjects are sequential, it will not be necessary for students to take the Post-VCE subjects in order.

Spanish

Spanish candidates with no previous knowledge of Spanish will undertake two of the subjects below each year, totalling six single semester units over the three years of the course.

First Year
ACS1071 Spanish A-Basic Spanish 1
ACS1072 Spanish B-Basic Spanish 2

Second Year
ACS2073 Spanish C-Intermediate Spanish
ACS2074 Spanish D-Advanced Spanish

Third Year
Any two of the following subjects on offer that year:
ACS3077 Spanish E-Literature and Society
ACS3076 Spanish F-Spanish for the Human Services
ACS3073 Spanish G-Spanish for Business
ACS3078 Spanish H-Contemporary Reflections (Film and Media in Spain and Latin America)
ACS3075 Spanish J-Introduction to Interpreting and Translation

Total 120

Students may commence at a higher level (normally Spanish C) if they have completed VCE Spanish or equivalent, and take additional subjects from the list of subjects offered at third year level above. The candidate’s initial level of linguistic competence will be assessed by the Course Co-ordinator before enrolment

Career Prospects

It is increasingly common for employers to seek graduates who are skilled in more than one direction. In a work environment where multi-skilling is increasingly a requirement for many positions, a postgraduate qualification in a modern language is a positive advantage. For those who have already completed undergraduate studies, this Graduate Diploma can enhance their first degree and make it more marketable by opening up new career paths and employment opportunities.

Admission Requirements

Normally applicants will have completed an undergraduate degree. However, applicants who do not possess an undergraduate degree, but who demonstrate ability and motivation to take up study at this level, may be considered.

Professional Recognition

Students who complete six post-VCE level language subjects will be recognised as having sufficient language competence to undertake teacher training for LOTE teaching.

Course Fee

Fee-paying course. Contact Faculty office for details.

Postgraduate Programs in Psychology and Counselling

Graduate Diploma in Counselling
Course Code: AGPD
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
The course is a two year part-time qualification that is designed to provide a professional foundation in counselling theory and practice. The course is therefore appropriate for both individuals working within professional contexts that require the application of counselling skills or those wishing to move towards employment in these human service fields. Course participants have included social workers, nurses, teachers, community workers and students with an undergraduate psychology major.

The course provides students with the opportunity to develop their theoretical view of counselling, to practice skills acquired in the field placement and to integrate theory and practice of counselling.

Please note this course is not designed for students wanting an Australian Psychological Society (APS) accredited course. Professional accreditation of counsellors is currently being considered by several Australian organisations and the course is monitoring the requirements of these organisations as they develop.

Admission Requirements
Completion of a Bachelors degree or equivalent. The Graduate Certificate/Diploma in Arts (Politics and International Studies) is not available to students who have completed or are completing an undergraduate Political Science sequence within the Faculty of Arts at Victoria University.

Postgraduate Programs in Psychology and Counselling

Graduate Diploma in Counselling
Course Code: AGPD
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
The course is a two year part-time qualification that is designed to provide a professional foundation in counselling theory and practice. The course is therefore appropriate for both individuals working within professional contexts that require the application of counselling skills or those wishing to move towards employment in these human service fields. Course participants have included social workers, nurses, teachers, community workers and students with an undergraduate psychology major.

The course provides students with the opportunity to develop their theoretical view of counselling, to practice skills acquired in the field placement and to integrate theory and practice of counselling.

Please note this course is not designed for students wanting an Australian Psychological Society (APS) accredited course. Professional accreditation of counsellors is currently being considered by several Australian organisations and the course is monitoring the requirements of these organisations as they develop.
Course Objectives
The objectives of the course are to:

- Develop an awareness of a range of theoretical orientations in counselling;
- Develop practical skills in the application of specified counselling paradigms;
- Identify the impact of social structures upon the counsellor/client relationship and the community to which the client belongs;
- Explore aspects of cultural difference relevant to counselling practice;
- Develop an awareness of ethical issues relevant to professional practice;
- Explore the interface of counselling theory and practice;
- Develop and implement the skills acquired during field placement within a community organisation.

Course Duration
The Graduate Diploma in Counselling is designed as a two-year part-time course. Students would normally be expected to complete eight subjects over two years.

Day and evening classes are usually available. The practica require daytime placement in a community or counselling agency.

Course Requirements
To qualify for the award of Graduate Diploma in Counselling students must complete a total of 120 credit points.

Course Structure
Students must successfully complete six core subjects and two elective subjects. Where students are eligible for exemption from Theories and Techniques of Counselling they will be required to complete an extra elective subject.

The course will be structured as follows:

Note: A pass in the practicum subjects is required to pass the course. Students must pass the placement on their first attempt.

Electives from other disciplines may also be chosen for credit with the permission of the course co-ordinator.

Career Prospects
The course is designed to assist individuals already working in fields that require the development of counselling skills and for people seeking to develop skills appropriate for employment in human service areas.

Admission Requirements
The entry requirements are an undergraduate degree and demonstration of a commitment to professional development in the field of counselling. An interview may be required for all applicants.

Course Fees
Both HECS funded and full-fee paying places are available within the course.

Master of Counselling

Course Code: AMPE
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
The Masters in Counselling provides an opportunity for professionals to extend their expertise in counselling theory and practice following the completion of a Graduate Diploma. This is not an APS accredited psychology course.

Course Objectives
The specific objectives of the course are to:

- further develop knowledge of counselling theory and its application;
- expand the students’ knowledge and awareness of psychological theory relevant to their workplace and interests;
- develop a deeper understanding of the range of counselling interventions and psychological therapies offered by helping professions; develop understanding of counselling research methods and a corresponding ability to read critically within the counselling literature; and
- further develop an applied knowledge of professional practice.

At the conclusion of the course students should be:

- conversant with theoretical underpinnings of counselling intervention;
- able to engage with the counselling literature relevant to their area of work and interest;
- aware of the variety of professions in the field and their contributions;
- able to place counselling aspects of their own work within a theoretical framework; and
- able to put their own counselling work in context both within the professional field and within their own agency, and able to work more effectively as a counsellor in the health field.

Course Duration
The course may be taken on a full-time basis over two years following a bachelors degree, or part-time over two years following a fourth year in counselling.

Career Prospects
The course serves as a solid conceptual basis for clinical practitioners who wish to apply psychoanalysis in their work (psychologists, psychiatrists and other medical practitioners, psychotherapists, social workers, psychiatric nurses and other mental health workers.

In the case of workers and scholars of disciplines other than clinical, the course offers specialised knowledge and research methodology in an academic and scientific field which is constantly expanding.

Admission Requirements
To qualify for admission to the course an applicant must have successfully completed a degree in a relevant discipline from an approved tertiary institution, or equivalent.

Fees
The course is offered on a full-fee paying basis. Contact the School of Psychology for further details.

Graduate Diploma in Psychological Studies
Course Code: AGPP
Campus: St Albans

Course Description
The Graduate Diploma in Psychological Studies is a three-year part-time course for graduates wishing to gain an introduction to psychology as a discipline. It comprises a professionally accredited major sequence in undergraduate psychology. This fee-paying program is designed for those who already have a first degree (without psychology qualifications) and wish to supplement this with a psychology major, for interest or for satisfaction of preliminary entry requirements into the profession of psychology.

Important note: The Graduate Diploma in Psychological Studies prepares graduates for an APS accredited fourth year in Psychology; it does not comprise such a fourth year.

Course Duration
The course may be studied part-time only over a minimum duration of three years. The three year minimum is required because subjects taken in earlier years provide the basis for studies in later years, that is, there is sequential development of knowledge and skills throughout the course. This sequence is important pedagogically and is also necessary for professional accreditation. Students may elect to complete the third year of the course, which consists of Psychology 3A and four Psychology 3 electives, over two years, extending the course to 4 years of part-time study.

Course Requirements
To qualify for the Graduate Diploma in Psychological Studies, students must complete a total of 120 credit points.

Students must complete subjects in this order to satisfy Australian Psychological Studies (APS) requirements.

Subject descriptions are listed in the undergraduate psychology subject section in this handbook.

Exemptions may be available for those who have already completed some psychology subjects which are professionally accredited. Exemptions are decided on a case-by-case basis.

Career Prospects
See Professional Recognition. For qualified teachers this course provides a strong foundation for teaching psychology in secondary schools.

Admission Requirements
To qualify for the course, applicants must have successfully completed an undergraduate degree from a recognised Australian university (or equivalent).

Professional Recognition
The Graduate Diploma in Psychological Studies is recognised by the Australian Psychological Society (APS) as appropriate preparation for an APS accredited fourth year in Psychology. Intending students should ensure that the undergraduate degree they already hold is approved by the APS as one that a Graduate Diploma in Psychological Studies can be added to for accreditation purposes.

Graduate Diploma in Applied Psychology
Course Code: AGPA
Campus: Footscray Park

Course Description
The Graduate Diploma in Applied Psychology provides an integrated and comprehensive education within the discipline of Psychology. It provides a fourth year that is recognised by the Australian Psychological Society. In addition students who complete this course are eligible to become Probationary Psychologists with the Victorian Psychologists Registration Board.

In this Graduate Diploma students can pursue an advanced level of theoretical study and applied aspects within Psychology and receive advanced research training.
Master of Applied Psychology in Community Psychology

Course Code: AMPC
Campus: Footscray Park
Note: Next intake in 2005

Course Description
The Victoria University Master of Applied Psychology course has streams in Community Psychology and Sport Psychology. They share a number of generalist psychology core subjects, but each represents a separate specialist psychological training. Core subjects include sequences in quantitative and qualitative research methods and in psychological practice.

The Master of Applied Psychology course is founded upon the scientist-practitioner model of professional training, combining knowledge and skills acquisition with reality-based psychological understandings, and facilitating a clear stance of enquiry in relation to all aspects of theory, research and practice.

Each stream consists of three components: coursework, practicum placement and research thesis. Graduating students will have completed 125 days of placement. (Practicum requirements are outlined in a separate Practicum Manual).

Course Objectives
The Community Psychology stream draws on the educational and training components of the core subjects, but provides students with an opportunity to learn and develop broader options for the application of psychological skills and knowledge.

Community psychology developed Australia in the 1970s in response to the realisation that the psychological well-being of individuals could not be understood in isolation from broader social contexts. The discipline has its roots in such fields as community mental health, organisational, applied social and, more recently, environmental, ecological and health psychology. Its unique identity is defined through its focus on communities as the primary unit for understanding and action.

The Community Psychology stream therefore aims to:

- Develop students' skills in the analysis of social and psychological problems from multiple perspectives and at multiple levels. This will entail developing sensitivity to the cultural and experiential forces that have impacts on such problems;
- Develop students' skills in intervention strategies which are appropriate to multiple levels of analysis of problems, from the individual level to broader community contexts;
- Develop students' skills in interventions in a variety of areas, such as program and policy design, implementation and evaluation, the organisation and facilitation of groups, and the development of social support networks;
- Implement the skills learnt via a research project which they will design, plan, conduct and report;
- Highlight the various ethical and professional conduct issues that will be faced as practising psychologists;
- Prepare students for specialist APS College membership in Community Psychology. The stream is fully accredited by the Australian Psychological Society.

Course Duration
The normal duration of the course will be two years full-time or four years part-time.

Course Requirements
Students are required to complete a total of 240 credit points.

Areas of Specialisation
The Wellness Promotion Unit

The Wellness Promotion Unit is located at St Albans Campus (3N33). The unit offers services in research, evaluation and consultation. Interests include cross cultural wellness, community building, program evaluation, needs and resources assessment, qualitative, quantitative and action research methods, health and medical areas of research, consultancy and practice. Its mission statement is: Wellness is achieved by the simultaneous and balanced satisfaction of personal, interpersonal and collective needs. The unit aims to promote wellness in individuals, organisations, and communities in Victoria in general and in Western and Rural regions in particular. We believe in collaborating with community stakeholders in defining their needs and devising appropriate research methods and interventions. The wellness model of personal, relational and community wellness is particularly pertinent to health and medical areas of research, consultancy and practice. The unit is currently undertaking a range of major projects, and is able to offer specialist placements, research projects and at times contract work, particularly to students in Community and Health Psychology. Further information is available on the website.

Admission Requirements
An honours degree with an Australian Psychological Society accredited four year sequence in psychology, or a pass degree with an APS accredited three year sequence in psychology together with an APS accredited fourth year psychology course, will be the minimum entrance requirement. However, relevant professional experience will be a substantial factor in selection. Applicants will be interviewed to assess suitability for the course.

There is normally an intake of students every second year. The next intake is 2005.

Course Fees
Students undertaking the course will be charged under the Higher Education Contribution Scheme (HECS). Students will also be required to pay the University's annual General Service Fee. Some full fee paying places may also be available.

Master of Applied Psychology in Sport Psychology
Course Codes: AMPS
Campus: Footscray Park
Note: Next intake in 2005.

Course Description
The Victoria University Master of Applied Psychology course has streams in Community Psychology, and Sport Psychology. The Master of Applied Psychology course is founded upon the scientist-practitioner model of professional training, combining knowledge and skills acquisition with reality-based psychological understandings, and facilitating a clear stance of enquiry in relation to all aspects of theory, research and practice.

Course Objectives
The Sport Psychology stream builds on the general skills and knowledge presented in the core subjects and prepares students for professional practice in the field of sport psychology. It is offered in conjunction with the Department of Human Movement and Recreation in order to provide students with a properly rounded education in sport and sport science. Its aims are to:

• Develop students' skills and knowledge of sport psychology in order to inform practice and to engender a broad perspective of professional work;
• Develop students' knowledge and use of applied skills, methods, and techniques in sport psychology, so they may offer the highest levels of professional service;
• Develop students' appreciation of professional and ethical issues in the practice of sport psychology so that they may operate according to the highest standards of professional practice;
• Provide students with supervised experience of professional practice in sport psychology and the opportunity to learn from this experience in discussion with peers and professionals;
• Develop students' independent use of applied research skills for problem resolution, under the supervision of a researcher in applied sport psychology. This includes the identification of a problem in practice which needs to be resolved by research, the design, execution, analysis and interpretation of a study to address that issue, and the presentation of implications of the study and future directions for research on the issue;
• Prepares students for specialist APS College membership in Sport Psychology. The stream is fully accredited by the Australian Psychological Society.

Course Duration
The normal duration of the course will be two years full-time or four years part-time.

Course Requirements
Students are required to complete a total of 240 credit points.

CRESS
One of seven designated University Research Centres at Victoria University, CRESS is the largest of the University Research Centres and through research and consultancy, aims to promote the health and well-being of the entire community via the medium of physical activity. It does this by pure and applied work in the areas of rehabilitation, exercise and sport science.

CRESS carries out research and consultancy in four research units:

• Biomechanics – applies mechanical principles to human movement analysis;
• Exercise Metabolism – looks at cells to see how the body adapts to exercise conditions;
• Exercise Physiology – investigates the biological science of movement;
• Sport and Exercise Psychology – is the science of human behaviour for enhancing performance and raising well-being.

CRESS aims to develop and extend partnerships with government, industry and other institutions in order to conduct mutually beneficial research and consultancy. In carrying out its mission of promoting the health and well-being of the entire community through the application of science to rehabilitation, exercise and sport, CRESS generates programs, services and opportunities for collaborative research with industry and community groups. Most Sport Psychology specialist placements and research projects are conducted under the auspice of CRESS.

Master of Psychology in Clinical Psychology

Course Code: AMPD Clinical Psychology
AMPN Clinical Neuropsychology

Campus: St Albans

Course Description and Objectives
The Master of Psychology program provides appropriate postgraduate training in functioning as a specialist professional psychologist in the area of Clinical Psychology or Clinical Neuropsychology capable of working in a variety of clinical settings.

Adopting a life span framework, the course prepares graduates in a wide range of assessment, therapeutic and rehabilitation techniques with children and adolescents, as well as with adults. The Clinical Psychology stream encompasses a strong emphasis on psychodynamic perspective. The Clinical Neuropsychology stream presents a special focus upon childhood and adolescence.
Course Duration

The duration of the course is the equivalent of two years full-time study.

Course Structure

This coursework program is conducted on an intensive full-time basis over two years. The parallel streams of Clinical Psychology and Clinical Neuropsychology share in common several basic subjects. Each stream comprises the three interlocking strands of theoretical/knowledge base subjects, research subjects (including an independent project and minor thesis) and a clinical practice strand, the latter comprising the last time commitment of Psychology.

Master of Public Advocacy and Action
Course Code AMSA
Campus: St Albans/ Online and distance mode

Course Objectives
This innovative postgraduate course has been specifically designed to enhance the knowledge of professionals working in international and local advocacy, community, human rights and environment areas. Given the significant increases in both the number of civil society initiatives and organizations, and the global scope of their activities over the past twenty years this masters program will be at the forefront of intellectual developments in this area. Just as global communications networks have enhanced the advocacy role of organisations, so these technologies will be employed in teaching and research to provide a global forum where civil society initiatives, skills and strategies can be discussed.

Course Description
To provide an opportunity for experienced advocates and activists for social change to undertake structured studies to both build upon their skills and facilitate critical reflection and practice.

To enable students to theorise and understand contemporary forms of global civic engagement

To provide a forum in which to critique and debate different models of civil society

To introduce and develop students’ skills in the application of contemporary social and management theory to forms of advocacy for social transformation in the global environment.

Through a variety of teaching and learning strategies, develop professional skills in advocacy project management, financing, campaigning, evaluation, conflict resolution and negotiation.

To develop advanced skills of analysis and critique relevant to both professional practice and research.

Course Requirements
To qualify for the Graduate Certificate in Public Advocacy and Action students must complete a total of 60 credit points.

To qualify for the Graduate Diploma in Public Advocacy and Action students must complete a total of 120 credit points.

To progress from the Graduate Diploma to the Masters program students must achieve a H2A or above in at least two subjects and those choosing the minor thesis option must have undertaken an approved research methods subject.

To qualify for the Master of Public Advocacy and Action students must complete a total of 180 credit points.

Course Structure
Core subjects will offer a combination of advocacy, capacity building and globalisation subjects which can be taken in combination with management, financial management, environmental, gender and communications electives.

Postgraduate Program in Women’s Studies
(No intake in 2004)

Graduate Certificate in Women’s Studies
Course Code: ATSC
Campus: City Flinders

Graduate Diploma in Women’s Studies
Course Code: AGSD
Campus: City Flinders

Master of Arts in Women’s Studies
Course Code: AMSM
Campus: City Flinders

Course Description and Objectives
Issues of gender are increasingly being addressed in policy formation, workplace practices, and education. The postgraduate program in Women’s Studies is designed to provide advanced studies in contemporary gender-conscious analysis while retaining a focus on women’s lives and experiences. It combines a review of current theoretical debates within an Australian and international context with empirical studies and research in contemporary society. Specialist elective units reflect the research strengths in International Development, literary and contemporary cultural theory, and industrial relations.

An important feature of the program is its flexible structure both in terms of exit points and in the inclusion of negotiated curriculum elements within each elective. This means that students from different work environments and with different interests may give their research individual relevance. The range of electives is expanded by drawing on relevant units offered in other Schools: this reflects the transdisciplinary nature of Women’s Studies as an area of study.

At each stage of the program students will have acquired a range of feminist research methods and discussed a range of different feminist perspectives.

The flexibility of the program is designed to suit the requirements of those already in the paid workforce, those wishing to take up specialist gender studies after completing undergraduate studies of any kind, and women who have had interrupted studies.

It is anticipated that most students will study on a part-time basis and the program will be scheduled accordingly. However, provision can be made for full time study.
Course Duration
Course durations are as follows:

- Stage 1: Graduate Certificate in Women's Studies (four subjects).
- Stage 2: Graduate Diploma in Women's Studies (eight subjects).
- Stage 3: Master of Arts in Women Studies (eight subjects plus thesis or professional project and one further subject).

The course is offered on a full-time basis or part-time evening basis of two subjects per semester.

Course Requirements
To qualify for the award of Graduate Certificate in Women's Studies students must complete a total of 60 credit points.

To qualify for the award of Graduate Diploma in Women's Studies students must complete a total of 120 credit points.

To qualify for the award of Master of Arts in Women's Studies students must complete a total of 180 credit points.

MASTER OF ARTS IN WOMEN’S STUDIES
Requirements of the Graduate Diploma in Women’s Studies:

- 120 Credit points plus either:
  - ACF6020 Minor Thesis (full-time) or 60
  - ACF6010 Minor Thesis (part-time) or 60
  - ACG6025 Professional Project (f/t) or 60
  - ACG6030 Professional Project (part time) and one additional subject 60
  - Total 180

Progression
To progress from the Graduate Diploma to the MA all students must achieve H2A or above in at least 2 electives and have undertaken ACF5049 Approaches to Research.

Research Requirements (Masters)
The first option is completion of a 15,000 to 20,000 word minor thesis.

The second option is the completion of a Professional Project of 10,000 words and one postgraduate elective unit.

A Professional Project is envisaged as smaller-scale than a thesis and an investigation which has less emphasis on the theorisation of the research. The Professional Project works more in terms of description and reportage.

Career Prospects
Students graduating from the postgraduate women’s studies program are able to apply gender-conscious analysis to a wide range of fields in the public and private sectors. Such fields include counselling, human relations, welfare and community work, teaching, development and interactional relations. Graduates have developed excellent communication analysis and research skills.

Admission Requirements
Entry requirement is normally a three-year first degree or equivalent. Students enrol initially in the Graduate Certificate which is the common first stage of the program. Special consideration is given to women whose studies/employment paths have been interrupted. Each application is individually considered and applicants may request an interview. Work experience will be taken into consideration.

Course Fees
Students undertaking this course will be charged under the Higher Education Contribution Scheme (HECS). Students will also be required to pay the University’s annual General Service Fee.
Postgraduate Subject Details

AAA5002 RESEARCH METHODS

Campus: Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s): Nil

Content: This subject covers a variety of research methods relevant to research in Asia and on Asian-related topics. The ontological and epistemological foundations to various approaches to research (e.g. positivism, critical rationalism, interpretivism, critical theory, realism, structuration theory and feminism) will be critically reviewed. Students would be broadly familiar with the issues of logic and methodology. Quantitative and qualitative research methods, and be able to select a research topic(s), design research proposal(s) and adopt optimum research methods.

Class Contact: The equivalent of three hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one two-hour seminar. These classes may be scheduled as intensive weekend workshops depending on student demand.

Assessment: One piece of literature review with 3000 words and one research proposal with 2000 words.

AAA5003 ISSUES IN CONTEMPORARY SOCIAL CHANGE IN ASIA

Campus: Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s): Nil

Content: This subject will involve a study of some key issues surrounding the process of social change in selected Asian societies over the last two decades, with emphasis on two key themes: Culture and Identity; and The State and Development. Within these themes a number of topics will be explored. They will cover such questions as the redefinition of tradition among government-sponsored agencies, intellectuals as well as grass roots movements, the impact of state-generated development on localities, conflicts over resources, the determinants of development policy formulation, and key ideas which underlie current discussions about development and local culture, both in global and regional forums.

Class Contact: The equivalent of three hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one two-hour seminar. These classes may be scheduled as intensive weekend workshops depending on student demand.

Assessment: One 5000 word assignment.

AAA5004 STATE AND SOCIETY IN ASIA

Campus: Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s): Nil

Content: The subject examines the relationship between states and societies in selected Asian contexts. It will include a comparative study of political regimes in the region.

The subject includes three parts: the first part presents an analysis of global economy and regional industrialisation of Asia since the Second World War; the second part of the subject discusses the theoretical frameworks and the main criticisms of these; and the third part uses them to interpret the Asian industrial development experience.

Class Contact The equivalent of three hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one two-hour seminar. These classes may be scheduled as intensive weekend workshops depending on student demand.

Assessment Oral presentation of country profile, 10%; practical report, 30%; essay, 30%; examination 30%. For Masters and Graduate Diploma students, one 5000 word assignment.

AAA5011 INTERPRETING ‘ASIA’ AND THE ‘PACIFIC’

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Nil

Content This course will examine a range of theoretical and disciplinary approaches to the study of contemporary ‘Asia’ and the ‘Pacific’. The disciplines discussed will include history, philology and literature studies, political-economy and comparative politics, customary law, anthropology and sociology. It will analyse how disciplinary approaches, initially developed during the period of European expansion, have evolved since the re-emergence of independent states. The contribution of Asian scholars in the post-colonial development of these disciplines will receive particular attention. The course will explore how these disciplines have been applied to the study of ‘Asia’ through a number of case studies of particular countries or regions. The case studies will highlight cultural, religious, ethnic, political and economic variation with contemporary ‘Asia’. The course will be taught by a combination of lecture and seminar. Students will be expected to present a number of seminar papers during the semester.

Class Contact The equivalent of three hours per week for one semester comprising one one-hour lecture and one two-hour seminar. These classes may be scheduled as intensive weekend workshops depending on student demand.

Assessment Two 2500 word assignments
AAA5012 ASIAN CULTURES AND LITERATURES
Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific concurrently with AAA5012 Asian Cultures and Literatures.
Content This subject introduces students to a comparative understanding of an Asian cultures through an study of several texts (including novels, poetry, films, drama, music) in English translations. Special attention will be paid to Vietnamese, Chinese and Japanese texts, though texts from other Asian cultures may also be examined.
Class Contact Three hours per week comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial.
Assessment 5000 word essay; 100%.

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific concurrently with AAA5013 Colonialism, Nationalism and Revolution in Southeast Asia.
Content This subject will take as its central theme for the study of Southeast Asian history during the 19th and 20th centuries the interaction between the evolving indigenous societies of the region and increasing Western penetration. This subject will examine how Southeast Asian societies accommodated, resisted, and utilised European and North American political and economic intervention. The first weeks of the subject will be devoted to a study of pre-colonial Southeast Asia and the first two centuries of European contact. Particular emphasis will be given to the social and economic transformation experienced by Southeast Asian countries during the last decades of colonial rule together with the emergence of nationalistic movements throughout the region. The latter part of the subject will be devoted to an examination of the revolutionary experience leading to the creation of the new nation states of Southeast Asia. The subject will focus on Indonesia, but will draw comparisons with other Southeast Asian countries.
Class Contact Three hours per week comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial for one semester.
Assessment Critical review (2500 words), 30%; research essay (5000 words), 70%.

AAA5014 THE SEARCH FOR MEANING IN ASIA
Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific concurrently with AAA5014 The Search for Meaning in Asia.
Content This subject examines the diverse religious and philosophical traditions of Asia in a comparative perspective. The aim is two-fold: to develop an understanding of traditions of value, thought, devotion, and spirit in Asia; and to develop an ability to appreciate different ways of interpreting self and the world. Emphasis will be given to the dimension of personal experience in the human quest to find meaning in life and to give the world meaning, both past and present. This will involve a consideration of such issues as mind, consciousness, cosmology, deity, power, transformation, vision, and transcendence. The impact of systems of thought on more public issues such as the good life, ecology, personhood, social life, and nationhood will also be discussed.
Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.
Class Contact Three hours per week comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial.
Assessment One essay of 2500 words, 30%; one 5000 word research essay 70%.

AAA5015 GENRE AND SEXUALITY: ASIAN PERSPECTIVES
Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific concurrently with AAA5015 Gender and Sexuality: Asian Perspectives.
Content This subject employs recent social theory understandings of gender and identity. Case studies will be drawn from a range selected Asian cultural contexts. Issues to be considered will include the complex notions of engenderment (eg., femaleness, maleness, androgyny), heterosexuality, homosexuality, prostitution, sex tourism, pederasty, and possibilities for gender equality and empowerment in specific cultural milieux.
AAA5016 ASIAN COMMUNITIES IN AUSTRALIA

Campus: Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s): Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5016 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific concurrently with AAA5016 Asian Communities in Australia.

Content: This subject is a community studies based approach to Asian ethnic groups in Australia. Particular attention will be focused on Chinese Australians and Indo-Chinese Australians, although other Asian Australians may also be considered in the subject. Problems associated with cultural clashes and racism, access to English language services, education, employment, crime, housing, cross-cultural relationships, family life, and leisure activities will be analysed within the framework of Australian multiculturalism. As part of this subject, students will be expected to write up an observational study of an Asian community group, or organisation, or association in the Melbourne metropolitan area. Particular attention will be paid to gathering oral histories, accessing primary source materials (eg., letters, diaries, records), and conducting in-depth interviews. Normally this subject will only be available to students who intend to proceed to Honours.

Class Contact: Three hours per week comprising normally one one-hour lecture and one two-hour seminar.

Assessment: Seminar paper (2,500 words), 30%; research essay (5,000 words), 70%.

AAA5017 BUSINESS CULTURES IN ASIA

Campus: Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s): Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5017 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific concurrently with AAA5017 Business Cultures in Asia.

Content: This subject will examine a range of theoretical and empirical approaches to the study of doing business in Asia. The disciplines discussed will include cross-cultural communication, international trade and finance, and business behaviour and management. The empirical studies will tackle such issues as business negotiation, investment procedures, socio-political and economic conditions, and management and labour relations in selected countries in East and South East Asia.

Class Contact: The equivalent of three hours per week for one semester comprising one two-hour lecture and one one-hour seminar. These classes may be scheduled as intensive workshops depending on students' demand.

Assessment: Oral presentation, 10%; minor essay (2,000 words), 30%; research essay (5,000 words), 60%.

AAA5018 CULTURE AND POLITICS IN INDONESIA

Campus: Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s): Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5018 Culture and Politics in Indonesia.

Content: The subject will examine Indonesia's social structure and diverse cultural patterns and how these are reflected in post-independence politics. Emphasis will be given to the processes of social change. The themes explored in the subject will include the construction of national identity, the theory and appropriate political forms and the social and political changes generated by rapid economic development, Islam in its diverse manifestations, the role of law in the citizen's mind, economic conditions, and management and labour relations in selected countries in East and South East Asia.

AAA5020 SOUTHEAST ASIAN POLITICS

Campus Footscray Park
Pre-requisite(s) Nil.
Content This subject will examine key recent events as well as political change and conflict in the Southeast Asian region since World War II. The subject aims to analyse and interpret political systems, ideologies and traditions in Southeast Asian countries by focussing on the question of legitimacy and claims to power, authority and sovereignty. By means of individual country and comparative studies, lectures and tutorials will explore the following topics: the role of the military in government, politics and power maintenance; elections and democracy; national integration and regional/ethnic religious separation; 'political cultures', civil society and the role of the middle class in contemporary Southeast Asian politics. The course should provide a useful basis for understanding and explaining the political systems of the region and their trajectories of change.

Class Contact Three hours per week comprising one two-hour lecture and one one-hour tutorial for one semester.
Assessment Seminar paper, (2,500 words), 30%; research essay (5000 words), 70%.

AAA5021 FOREIGN RELATIONS: INDONESIA, VIETNAM AND AUSTRALIA

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific concurrently with AAA5021 Foreign Relations: Australia and its Neighbours.
Content This subject will examine the foreign policies of Australia, Indonesia and other Southeast Asian countries. It will explore themes such as decolonisation, the Cold War, globalisation, and regional co-operation from a number of national perspectives with the objective of giving students insight into the multi-layered network of interactive relationships in which foreign policies are developed and implemented. The study of Australian policy will constitute the principal focus. The subject will examine both the key strategic relationships with ‘great and powerful friends’ and the development of more autonomous relations with the nations of Northeast and Southeast Asia. Extensive use will be made of Australian official documents as source material.

Required Reading Evans, G. and Grant B. 1995, Australia’s Foreign Relations in the World of the 1990s, Melbourne University Press, Melbourne.

Class Contact Three hours per week comprising one one-hour lecture and one two-hour seminar.
Assessment Seminar paper, (2,500 words), 30%; research essay (5000 words), 70%.

AAA5022 POLITICS OF GLOBALISATION

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisites Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific concurrently.
Content This subject critically reviews recent theories of the processes labelled as ‘Globalisation’ – broadly understood as the decline of sovereign states in international politics and the rise of transnational and supra-state institutions and influences. Special attention is paid to Richard Falk’s distinction between ‘globalisation from above’ (e.g., multinational corporations, big power or superpower strategies, international media conglomerates) and ‘Globalisation from below’ (e.g., immigration, tourism, cultural exchanges, NGO activities).

Australia’s vulnerabilities and opportunities in the face of Globalisation will be of central concern throughout the subject.

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising one two-hour lecture and one two-hour tutorial.
Assessment Seminar paper, (2,500 words), 30%; research essay (5000 words), 70%.

AAA5023 GLOBAL CITIZENSHIP

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisites Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific concurrently.
Content This subject commences with an exploration of the philosophical roots of the idea of multiculturalism, demonstrating its indissoluble links with democratic theory (or ‘sustainable democracy’), the ‘politics of identity’, and the ideals of global citizenship. Issues such as human rights, ethnic cleansing, the international politics of gender, the role of the international community through institutions like the United Nations, and the role of the military in peace-keeping operations will be critically explored. Specific case studies may include human rights in China and Burma (Myanmar), and the conflicts in Bosnia and Rwanda.

Recommended Reading Bonevoc, D. et al. (eds.) (1992), Beyond the Westem Tradition. Readings in Moral and Political Philosophy, Toronto:

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial per week.

Assessment Seminar paper, (2,500 words), 30%; research essay (5000 words), 70%.

AAA5024 POLITICAL ECONOMY OF GLOBALISATION

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisites Students must have either completed AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific or be undertaking AAA5011 Interpreting Asia and the Pacific concurrently

Content This subject examines the processes of Globalisation from the perspectives of political economy. Globalisation, under this heading, refers to the development of an economy and forms of governance that span much of the world. Such developments reflect three processes: (a) the integration of financial and currency markets across the entire world; (b) the integration of production, trade and capital formation across national boundaries in global corporations; and (c) the emergence of functions of global governance that partially regulate national economic, social and environmental policies. The fusion of finance, corporations and other organisations also reflects the decisions that permit, promote or constrain these developments. The subject will be divided into three parts: (i) a critical review of recent theories in political economy which are related to the processes of Globalisation; (ii) a review of the historical path of the so-called ‘Globalisation’ processes; (iii) an exploration of empirical case studies to critically evaluate ‘Globalisation’ and Australia’s engagement with and responses to this process.

Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising two one-hour lectures and one one-hour tutorial.

Assessment Seminar paper, (2,500 words), 30%; research essay (5000 words), 70%.

AAA5030 TEACHING ASIA 1

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisites Normally at least a Bachelor’s degree or its equivalent and a recognised professional qualification in education or teaching. Also normally satisfactory completion of AAA5030 Teaching Asia 1.

Content The subject presents an historical sociology of Australian culture as it has affected Australia’s relations with selected East and Southeast Asian societies. It will involve an historical examination of Australia’s relations with the region. Australia’s foreign policy towards selected countries will be critically examined. Students will be introduced to contemporary debates on Australia’s ‘engagement’ with Asia. Particular emphasis will be placed on China, Japan and Indonesia.

Class Contact 18 hours for one semester.

Assessment One literature review exercise (1500 words) (40%); One essay (2500 words) (60%).

AAA5031 TEACHING ASIA 2

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisites Normally at least a Bachelor’s degree or its equivalent and a recognised professional qualification in education or teaching. Also normally satisfactory completion of AAA5030 Teaching Asia 1.

Content The subject presents an historical sociology of selected civilizational traditions in East, Southeast, and South Asian societies. It will introduce students to the processes of accommodation and adaptation of the great religious traditions that have taken place in China, India, Japan, Indonesia and India and examine how this is reflected in literature and art. The subject will explore the processes of social, cultural and religious change of these societies in the post-colonial world. The approach will be comparative and will draw on the disciplines of anthropology, history and political science.

Class Contact 18 hours for one semester.

Assessment One literature review exercise (1500 words) (40%); One long essay (2500 words) (60%).
AAP5004 CONTEMPORARY ISSUES IN SOCIAL AND POLITICAL ANALYSIS

Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Admission to Postgraduate program

Content This subject explores current scholarly debates in social interpretation and historiography, particularly as they relate to Humanities and Social Sciences curricula in schools and to contemporary theorisings of the ‘high-modern’ (Giddens) or ‘post-modern’ (Foucault) human experience. Critiques of issues such as modernity and post-modernity, gender and sexuality, ethnic nationalism and multiculturalism, environmentalism and development, and globalisation will be analysed for the usefulness in reading and teaching recent works in History, International Studies and Politics.

Assessment Normally one two-hour lecture and one one-hour seminar per week.

Class Contact Assessed by a variety of methods. To be advised by lecturer.

Recommended Reading Set student reading from a range of sources. To heighten students’ awareness of the media and its effect. To increase the students’ knowledge of Australian society and culture and of industrial issues. The subject has been developed around the theme of media in Australia. The subject will examine ownership and control of media in Australia; international connections; ‘market forces’ and media freedom versus regulation. The news: where it comes from; social process of news production and presentation; news values. Advertising as an industry underpinning the media and as instantiation of the language of persuasion. Print and electronic media; social and textual characteristics; quantitative and qualitative analysis. The language skills of listening, talking, reading and writing will be extended within the content. English language and learning skills will be further refined and the ability to analyse, synthesise and critically evaluate information will be stressed. Discussion, vocabulary extension and small group presentation will dominate oral work.

Recommended Reading To be advised by lecturer.

Rickard-Bell, Bellinda (ed.) 1994, The Second Largest Island: Modern A ustralian Short Stories, F linders Publishing, Melbourne. Richardson, Paul and Watson, Ken (eds) 1994, Postcards from Planet Earth: A n a Anthology of International Poetry, Ox ford University Press Australia. Other texts will be advised. In keeping with the aims of the subject, texts are chosen from a range of literary styles and genres, whilst being linguistically suitable for students whose first language is not English.
ACF5005 ASPECTS OF LANGUAGE: STRUCTURE & USE

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil

Content Students will be introduced to linguistic description and analysis of oral and written language, with particular emphasis on those aspects most relevant to them as learners (and possible future teachers) of English. Topics to be covered will include: English phonetics and phonology, both native and non-native; descriptions of English grammar in the context of the nature of grammar in general; theories of meaning and understanding, psycholinguistic processes-interlanguage and oral communication strategies; detailed analysis of written texts, their structures, purposes, and audiences.

In this subject students will intensively exercise their oral and written skills while gaining a greater critical insight into the nature of language structure, conventions and processes on which those skills are ultimately based. Building on the textual analysis skills built up in ACA3001 English as a Foreign Language 2A-Media and ACA2002 English as a Foreign Language 2B-Literary English, the subject will at the same time develop an arsenal of concepts underpinning the study of varieties of English in ACA3001.

ACG5045 HYPERTEXT AND ELECTRONIC PUBLISHING

Campus City Flinders

Prerequisite(s) ACG5015 Perspectives in Communication, ACG5020 Writing as Discourse, General computer literacy.

Content This subject will introduce students to the rapidly developing areas of hypertext or non-linear computer writing, electronic publishing and the emergence of ‘cyberspace’ as a new site for public communication and writing practices. Students will focus on the impact of electronic writing as it relates to possibilities and limitations in publishing, gain a basic theoretical understanding of how hypertext and other forms of electronic writing relate to existing forms of textual and literary practice, and explore the practical applications of using the World Wide Web and HTML (Hyper Text Mark-up Language) for writing and publishing projects. Issues relating to copyright, industry ethics and related concerns will be canvassed, and there will be a continuing emphasis throughout on gender, culture and class in relation to accessing and employing these new technologies of writing. Students can expect to become familiar with a range of electronic writing/hypertext examples that demonstrate the breadth of content and product values in the field.

Required Reading To be advised by the lecturer.

Class Contact Equivalent to three hours per week comprising seminar/workshop for one semester.

Assessment Portfolio of electronic writing, 70%; Critical essay, 30% (Subject to change).
ACG5050 COMMUNICATION ACROSS CULTURES

Campus: City Flinders
Prerequisite(s): ACG5015 Perspectives on Communication or ACG5020 Writing as Discourse

Content: This subject provides students with the opportunity to develop a critical understanding of the range of models and approaches adopted in the study of communication across cultures, with a particular focus on the evaluation and analysis of interaction in intercultural contexts. Whilst much of the material will deal with ethnic cultures in contact, the notion of cultural difference will also be explored in relation to gender, class and age. The subject will include a survey of some of the main theoretical approaches adopted in making sense of intercultural communication, including constructs from social anthropology and cultural studies, cross-cultural psychology, intergroup communication and communication accommodation, interactional discourse analysis, relativity, schema theory and frames of knowledge, intercultural education, language use in intercultural contexts. Students will be given the opportunity to explore the impact of cultural difference and diversity on communication processes and outcomes in education, health, business and law.

Required Reading: To be advised by the lecturer.

Class Contact: Equivalent to three hours per week for one semester, normally in the format of a weekly lecture/seminar.

Assessment: Theoretical essay, 35%; major research project, 55%; class paper, 10%.

ACG5055 MEDIA COMMUNICATION

Prerequisite(s): ACG5015 Perspectives on Communication or ACG5020 Writing as Discourse

Content: This subject provides students with the opportunity to explore and critically assess the ways that the mass media of communication engage in the production and circulation of information, knowledge, narratives and pleasure and to examine the ways that audiences use and interpret mass media output. Areas to be examined: theories of the mass media and questions of effects, influence and power; media texts and the production of meaning; gender and media; the relations between 'new' and 'old' media.

Required Reading: To be advised by lecturer.

Class Contact: Equivalent to three hours per week for one semester comprising one lecture/seminar.

Assessment: An analytical essay, 30%; a research based paper 50%; a seminar presentation 20%.

ACG5060 JOURNALISTIC WRITING FOR THE MEDIA

Campus: City Flinders
Prerequisite(s): ACG5015 Perspectives on Communication or ACG5020 Writing as Discourse

Content: This subject will enable students from either a Communication and/or Women's Studies background to engage with some of the gendered and engendering relations of communication by addressing the central question: how do different forms of communication reproduce and/or create different forms of masculinity and femininity? Topics will be informed strongly by contemporary feminist perspectives, and there will also be an ongoing emphasis on the intersections of gender with intercultural differences. There will be some introduction to/revision of some current theories and models of communication within the context of a gender-conscious analysis. Students will also be encouraged to develop their own areas of interest for a sustained research paper and, where appropriate, to apply the theories and concepts to their own workplaces. The structured component of the subject following an introduction to the broad concepts, will be organised around three broad themes: interpersonal and workplace communication; globalisation and technologies of communication; visual-media communication.

Required Reading: To be advised by lecturer.

Class Contact: Equivalent to three hours per week for one semester.

Assessment: Extended essay/report or project 60%; seminar paper or presentation 40%.

__ASA5001 COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT THEORY AND PRACTICE__

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) Nil

Content Community development theory and practice will be considered in the context of major development challenges and trends in the Asia Pacific region. Students will consider contemporary debates and analyses of development and community development issues, and examine these in relation to policy development and practical community development applications. Government and NGO relationships, multilateral and bilateral aid issues, globalisation theory, the role of social and people’s movements, and alternative forms of development are examined. Case studies from the Asia Pacific region will be drawn upon for comparative analysis and to develop understanding and skills in international community development practice.

Class Contact The equivalent of three hours per week for one semester in the form of a seminar/workshop.

Assessment Two essays (4,500 words), 100%.

__ASA5002 COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROJECT PLANNING AND MANAGEMENT__

Campus St Albans

Prerequisite(s) Nil

Content The subject focuses on project planning, design and implementation for community development work in a development setting. The principles of project design will be examined and discussed in relation to its role and application to international community development work. Topics covered include: methodologies and techniques used in project work, logframes, needs assessments, research methods, participatory rapid appraisal (PRA), gender and development strategies, monitoring and evaluation, and project implementation and management.

Class Contact: The equivalent of three hours per week for one semester in the form of a lecture and seminar.

Assessment: Reflective essay, 50%; Project, 40%; Class exercises, 10%.

ASA5020 THE CHALLENGES OF SOCIAL TRANSFORMATION

Campus: Summer Residential in Melbourne and on-line

Prerequisite(s): None

Content: An introduction to the course, via examination of the values and visions for advocacy organizations, including the inter-relationships between sustainability, justice, inclusiveness and peace. An introduction to the variety of paradigms that lie behind the purposes of advocacy. Covers the range of advocacy approaches from government based programs to peoples’ movements, with emphasis towards independent advocacy and empowerment. Examines tension points within advocacy organizations and in advocacy issues, including those between: individual rights and sovereignty; traditional/local culture versus gender and socio-economic equity; economic values versus community, cultural and spiritual values; wilderness versus human influenced ecosystems; issues specific advocacy versus advocacy for social transformation.

Class Contact: Two hours of lectures / tutorials and two hours of workshops per day over two weeks + on line (or equivalent).

Assessment: Journal, Reflective Paper, Bibliographic essay.

ASA5021 NEGOTIATING ADVOCACY: CONTEXTS, STRATEGIES, ACTIONS

Campus: Summer Residential in Melbourne and on-line

Prerequisite(s): ASA5020 The Challenges of Social Transformations

Content: This subject further develops the initial explorations in ‘The Challenges of Transformation’ by exploring the circumstances of working in advocacy, focussing upon the ethical dimensions, dealing with difference, sustainability, operating in local to global contexts and making decisions about these fundamentals. Definitions and dimensions of key terminologies and constructs are considered drawing upon contemporary social theory. These include ideas about civic society, the nation state, governance, rule of law, sustainability, nature and culture, gender, race, leadership. Key elements of successful and unsuccessful campaigns, advocacy and actions are considered, along with notions of measurement and evaluation of campaign outcomes. This subject also seeks to set up frameworks for theorising and understanding personal reactions and motivations.

Class Contact: Two hours of lectures, tutorials and two hours of workshops per day over two weeks + on line (or equivalent).

Assessment: Journal, Ethics paper, Case Study and presentation.

ASA5022 APPROACHES TO GLOBALISATION

Campus: Online (Based at St Albans)

Prerequisite(s): Usually ASA5020 The Challenges of Social Transformation and ASA5021 Negotiating Advocacy: Contexts, Strategies, Actions

Content: An analysis of contemporary theoretical debates on globalisation and their relationship to different forms of advocacy practice. A critical examination of how perspectives on globalisation have changed since the attacks on the World Trade Centre in the United States of America on September 11, 2001. Case studies will be investigated from the global justice movement, specific NGO’s in the South, environmental, feminist, labour and human rights groups.

Class Contact: Three hour per week for twelve weeks or equivalent online.
ASAP2023 BUILDING CAPACITY AND MOBILISING CIVIL SOCIETY

Course Details

Prerequisite(s): Usually ASAP5020 The Challenges of Social Transformation and ASAP5021 Negotiating Advocacy: Contexts, Strategies, Actions.

Content: This subject will complement and build on The Challenges of Social Transformation and Negotiating Advocacy by introducing students to the key debates about civil society and development theory. It will critically examine the view that there was a crisis in development in the 1980s and identify the emergence of the notion of building capacity. The appropriateness and sustainability of capacity building strategies will be evaluated through careful examination of case study material dealing with organisations and communities. The link between neo-liberal policies of small government – reducing the role of the state in public policy – and the so-called rise of civil society organisations will also be explored.

Class Contact: Three hours per week for twelve weeks or equivalent online.

Assessment: Evaluative Report, 40%; Seminar Presentation, 20%; Annotated review, 40%.

ASAP2025 PUBLIC ADVOCACY INTERNSHIP

Course Details

Prerequisite(s): Usually ASAP5020 The Challenges of Social Transformation and ASAP5021 Negotiating Advocacy: Contexts, Strategies, Actions.

Content: The Public Advocacy Internship offers students the opportunity to apply their learning in the course along with their previous learning and experience in a task oriented work-integrated learning environment. Students will undertake one day a week for 12 weeks (or equivalent) in an organisation actively involved in advocacy work. Students may use this opportunity to extend their existing areas of expertise and/or to work and learn in a new area of advocacy and action. Students will keep a reflective journal of their internship activities and will produce an evaluative report considering their experiences and contributions against a variety of measures including the organisational strategic plan and evaluation methodologies.

Recommended Reading: To be advised by subject coordinator

Class Contact: Regular meetings with supervisor.

Assessment: Journal, 30%; Evaluative Report, 70%.

ASAP6025 PROFESSIONAL PROJECT

Course Details

Campus: St Albans
Prerequisite(s): Completion of eight subjects.

Content: Students have the option of undertaking the Professional Project + two further electives, rather than the minor research thesis. The Professional Project provides an opportunity for students to apply their learning in the course to a practical investigation and presentation of the final product as a 10,000 written report or equivalent. Students can choose to present their findings in another format accompanied by an exegesis. The outcomes of the Professional Project will be presented in one or more colloquia, either in person or online, organised in conjunction with supporting NGOs.

Required Reading: Faculty of Arts Postgraduate Professional Project Guidelines, Victoria University, 2003.

Recommended Reading: To be advised by supervisor.

Class Contact: Regular meetings with individual supervisor.

Assessment: 10,000 word (or equivalent*) professionally presented project. *Other forms of final product accompanied by an exegesis can be submitted. The project will be examined in the same mode as the minor thesis.

ASAP6035 MINOR RESEARCH THESIS

Course Details

Campus: St Albans
Prerequisite(s): Completion of 8 subjects and an approved Research Methods subject.

Content: Students will undertake a substantial piece of independent research in public advocacy to be negotiated between the student and supervisor. The outcomes of the research project will be presented in one or more colloquia, either in person or online, organised in conjunction with supporting NGOs. The thesis will be externally examined.

Recommended Reading: To be advised by supervisor.

Assessment: Thesis (20,000 words), 100%.

Course Details

Campus: Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s): Completion of Year I of Master of Arts (Asian and Pacific Studies)

Content: The student will be required to enter into a work-integrated learning and task contract relating to a community development project or program in an agency. The contract will be negotiated between the university supervisor, the agency supervisor and the student, and specifies learning objectives and strategies in three areas: conceptual and policy objectives, practical skill objectives, and personal development objectives. The student will be required to participate in a number of key phases and activities of the program or project, and to report on to the processes and outcomes in a major written report, as well as a separate report on the work-integrated learning objectives identified in the contract.

Recommended Reading Nil

Class Contact: Fortnightly meetings of at least one hour duration with the agency supervisor, and a minimum of 300 hours working on the project as verified in a log of hours confirmed by the agency supervisor.

Assessment: A major report of 10,000 words documenting and evaluating the processes and outcomes of the program or project, and a second report of 2500 words on the learning outcomes of the
HPC5001 CONTEXTUAL ANALYSIS OF LOSS ACROSS THE LIFESPAN
Campus City Flinders
Prerequisite(s) Nil.
Content This subject will introduce a range of theoretical frameworks which explain an individual’s unique reactions to loss and grief. Concepts of loss and death, and associated grief reactions will be examined from the developmental perspective involving early childhood through to old age. Perspectives which might further define the meaning and significance of loss for individuals including general systems theory, life cycle, family life-cycle, family systems, psychosocial resources and aspects of grief theory, will be critically analysed. The aim of the subject is to: provide a theoretical framework, and relevant concepts for examining and understanding an individual’s unique reaction to normative and non-normative loss and grief throughout the lifespan.
Class Contact Three hours per week for one semester comprising one three-hour lecture.
Assessment Essay, 100%.

HPC5003 MANAGEMENT OF DISASTER AND TRAUMATIC INCIDENTS
Campus City Flinders, St Albans.
Prerequisite(s) Nil.
Content This subject is concerned with the impact of traumatic or unexpected disasters or events on the individual, group or community. The subject will be delivered in an experiential basis and include role plays, opportunity to practice and develop skills in grief counselling. The applied basis of relevant counselling practice and intervention strategies. Provide students with the opportunity to practice and develop skills in grief counselling. Classes will be run on an experiential basis and include role plays, group discussion and class presentations.

HPC5010 APPLIED EXERCISE PHYSIOLOGY
Campus Footscray Park
Prerequisite(s) Nil.
Co-requisite(s) HPG5011 Physiology Testing and Evaluation.
Content This subject aims to: provide students with knowledge of the acute and chronic responses to exercise; enable students to understand the factors that limit and enhance exercise performance; provide students with knowledge of the physiological and metabolic consequences of regular activity and inactivity. The subject will include the following topics. Muscle: review of the basic anatomy and physiology of muscle; muscle fibre types and implications for performance; muscle energetics. Exercise metabolism: overview of metabolism in skeletal muscle; effect of exercise on carbohydrate, lipid and protein metabolism; important regulatory factors. Hormones: hormonal responses to exercise, particularly those involved in the regulation of metabolism, circulation/respiration and fluid balance; Oxygen transport system; cardiovascular and respiratory responses to exercise and regulatory factors; physiological determinants of maximal oxygen uptake; concept of ‘anaerobic threshold’ and implications for performance. Fatigue: mechanisms of fatigue during exercise; exercise-induced muscle damage; Recovery: physiological and metabolic events during recovery from exercise; post-exercise oxygen consumption; lactate removal; substrate restoration. Environmental factors: physiological responses to exercise in the heat and at altitude; mechanisms and consequences of heat and altitude acclimatisation; fluid balance during exercise. Training: physiological and metabolic adaptations to endurance, sprint and strength training; responses to inactivity/detraining, reduced training and overtraining.
Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.
Class Contact Two hours of lectures per week for one semester.
Assessment Final examination, 60%; written assignment, 35%; oral presentation, 5%.

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content The general aims of the course are to give students an understanding of: the pathophysiology of the typical conditions of patients/clients that they are likely to encounter in their work as rehabilitation therapists; the physiological bases for prescribing exercise in rehabilitation. The following topics will be covered in the course: physiology and pathophysiology of aging, with emphasis on the confused and frail elderly; cardiac pathophysiology and rehabilitation: ischemic, myocardial, pericardial and valvular disease; pulmonary pathophysiology and rehabilitation: asthma, chronic bronchitis and emphysema, pneumonia, bronchiectasis, cystic fibrosis, tuberculosis, respiratory distress syndrome, influenza; hormonal responses and adaptations to stress and exercise: anabolic and catabolic hormones, catecholamines; mechanisms of injury and repair in skeletal muscle; exercise metabolism in health and disease (particularly diabetes and obesity); including interactions of some drugs; environmental considerations for exercise in able and disabled people: osteo-and rheumatoid arthritis. The material will be presented as general principles, followed by case study applications.

Required Reading
- Williams and Wilkins, Baltimore.

Recommended Reading

- Lippincott, Philadelphia.

Class Contact Two hours of practical per week for one semester.

Assessment Laboratory practical reports, 100%.

HPG5080 BIOMECHANICS OF HUMAN MOVEMENT

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Co-requisite(s) HPG5081 Biomechanics Testing and Evaluation.

Content This subject aims to: develop in students an understanding of the biomechanical basis of fitness and sports performance; familiarise students with the use of biomechanical laboratory and field techniques for assessing fitness and sports performance. The subject will include the following topics. Performance assessment in both fitness and sport by means of 2-D and 3-D video techniques, EMG, foot pressure sensing, isokinetic dynamometry and force platforms are an integral part of the subject.

Required Reading To be advised by lecturer.

Class Contact Two hours of lectures per week for one semester.

Assessment Examination, 50%; coursework, 50%.

HPG5120 NUTRITION AND DIET FOR PERFORMANCE

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content This subject aims to: provide students with the theoretical knowledge underlying sound nutritional practices for exercising individuals; enable students to give sound advice and guidance to athletes and exercising individuals regarding diet and their performance. The subject will include the following topics. The basic diet. Energy for performance: substrate and the anaerobic production of energy; substrate and the aerobic production of energy; energy requirements for activities and sports. The training diet: athlete’s requirements; ideal training diet. Fluids: fluid loss during exercise. Competition diets: endurance activities and sports; short duration events; intermittent exercise; ‘loading’. Ergogenic aids. Alternative diet approaches: vegetarian; fat diets. Special groups and special needs: children and adolescents; women; veterans; injured athletes; heart disease; diabetes. Special problems: food psychology; anorexia; bulimia; other eating disorders; nutritional ‘fables’.

Required Reading

Class Contact Two hours of lectures per week for one semester.

Assessment Major assignment, 60%; minor assignment, 20%; examination, 20%.

HPG5140 EXERCISE PRESCRIPTION

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content This subject aims to: provide students with an understanding of the theoretical knowledge and practical skills necessary to the task of prescribing exercise; the opportunity to develop the capacity to prescribe theoretically sound exercise programs for a variety of sporting populations and exercising individuals. The subject will include the following topics. Theory of exercise prescription. Review of laboratory based assessment procedures. Adherence to exercise: myths and realities. Fundamentals of prescription. Review of field oriented assessment procedures. The metabolic basis of prescription. Low back care and prescription. Flexibility and prescription. Soft tissue rehabilitation. Weight control. Nutrition and prescription. Resistance training prescription. Prescription in the pre- and post-natal environment. Prescription for the elite athlete, the cardiovascularly impaired, the aged, the disabled, and the child.

Required Reading

Class Contact Two hours of lectures per week for one semester.
Assessment
Oral test review of anatomy/physiology of exercise, 10%; case study: child-20%, sub-elite-20%, elite-20%; final examination, 30%.

HPG5150 SKILL IN SPORT

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content This subject aims to: present a view of knowledge about motor skill development and performance to students through consideration of concepts, theories and research; raise issues of applicability of basic research in practical contexts; show how recent research and theorising has considered aspects of skill development and skilled performance in sport-related settings. The subject will include the following topics. Introduction to the information-processing, life-span development and skill development approaches; the nature of skill; skill acquisition and retention. Attention and perception: selective attention; signal detection theory; visual search. Decision-making: response time, reaction time and movement time; simple, choice and discrimination reaction time; perceptual, receptor and effector anticipation; serial and parallel processing. Motor control: open-loop and closed-loop models; schema theory; action theory, systems theory and ecological psychology. Factors affecting skill acquisition: conditions of practice, massed and spaced, whole and part; variability of practice; feedback, information, reinforcement; error free and errorful learning. Perceptual-motor development: skills and abilities, readiness, prediction of talent; ageing and skill; motor impairment, disability; sport skill development. Sport-specific approaches: speed of ball detection and skill; memory for game structure and ball detection; visual search processes in sport; use of early visual cues, anticipation; decision-making and skill in sport; development and nature of skilled movements in sport, the systems approach; initiation of skilled movements in sport, the ‘tau margin’.

Required Reading

Class Contact Two hours of lectures per week for one semester.

Assessment Paper reviewing literature on selected topic, 30%; report of small scale investigation on topic, 40%; final examination, 30%.

HPG5180 PSYCHOLOGY FOR REHABILITATION

Campus Footscray Park

Prerequisite(s) Nil.

Content This subject aims to develop in students a basic understanding of the psychological aspects of rehabilitation. It is not intended that graduates of the course will be equipped to provide the primary psychological care of rehabilitation clients because in most instances they are part of a team which includes clinical and neuropsychologists. However, they should have an understanding of the psychological aspects of the rehabilitation process. The subject will include the following topics: counselling and interviewing skills-verbal and non-verbal, listening skills, body language, human interaction; human behaviour and development, lifestyle, lifecycle, life crisis, life development; coping with injury; dealing with grief and loss; coping with chronic pain; stress management, anxiety and depression; self-confidence, development and maintenance, particularly in the transitions which occur during rehabilitation; motivation, intrinsic-extrinsic, goal orientations, self-efficacy, goal setting, physical, psychological, technical.

Required Reading

Class Contact Two hours per week for one semester.

Assessment Major assignment, 100%.
Recognition of Learning - Pathways, Credit Transfer and RPL/RCC

Victoria University recognises that valuable learning takes place outside the university through:

- study towards formally recognised qualifications (either fully or partially completed) such as a degree, diploma, or certificate (this is referred to as credentialed study);
- short courses, offered by professional bodies, voluntary associations, workplaces, trade unions, government agencies and/or community groups, that do not lead to formal qualifications (or non-credentialed learning);
- work experience; and
- life experience.

Students are encouraged to think broadly about their experiences. In addition to providing entry into a course, students' prior learning may enable them to be granted Recognition of Prior Learning or credits for subjects within that course.

Victoria University has established the following processes to facilitate the recognition of learning achieved outside the University: Pathways, Credit Transfer Process, and Recognition of Prior Learning. By recognising students' past experiences and achievements, the University ensures that students do not have to repeat the skills and knowledge they have already achieved.

In this way students are able to shorten the length of their course, saving time and money. They study at the appropriate level, are encouraged to continue their education, and achieve their educational goals with maximum efficiency.

Pathways

Standardised pathways are formally approved links between courses in different sectors or within the same sector. They may move from:

- secondary schools to TAFE
- TAFE to TAFE
- TAFE to higher education
- higher education to TAFE
- higher education to higher education
- workplace to TAFE or higher education
- private training organisation to TAFE or higher education.

These pathways may involve:

- Credit/exemptions – for example students who have completed the Advanced Diploma of Business (Accounting) will receive credit for twelve subjects in the Bachelor of Business (Accounting), if they gain entry into that degree course;
- Entry only – for example students who have successfully completed Science for Nurses (Gateway to Nursing and the Health Sciences) automatically gain entry into the Certificate IV in Health (Nursing).

Pathways may also link courses in the same or different disciplines. Students who meet the conditions specified in the pathway will be automatically granted the benefits specified in the pathways (entry or credit).

Articulation describes the links or pathways between courses. Students who take advantage of pathways are sometimes called articulating students.

Victoria University is widely recognised as a national leader in developing credit transfer arrangements for students, particularly between the TAFE and higher education sectors.
Applications
Students should provide details of any prior study when they:
• apply to enter a course;
• are interviewed in the Centre for Commencing Students; or
• enrol.

Students eligible for entry or credit on the basis of a formally approved pathway will be identified at the time of enrolment. Any credit may be granted at the time of enrolment.

Credit Transfer/ Mutual Recognition
Students who have already successfully completed any of the subjects/modules in the course in which they are enrolling may be eligible for credit transfer. Under Mutual Recognition, Victoria University will recognise Qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by any Australian Registered Training Organisation.

Applications
Students applying for Credit Transfer should approach their Faculty or Department Office for further information and an application form. Forms are also available from the Centre for Commencing Students and Student Administration. It is advisable for students to discuss their applications with their teacher/lecturer before submission.

The University will endeavour to process credit transfer applications as soon as possible.

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) or Recognition of Current Competency (RCC)
Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) or Recognition of Current Competency (RCC) is an assessment process whereby the learning that students have achieved through study and life/work experience is matched against the learning that would be covered in specific subjects/modules/competencies.

Applications
Students who believe that they are eligible for RPL/RCC are advised to begin the application as soon as they are enrolled. Students applying for RPL/RCC should approach their Faculty or Department Office for further information and an application form. Forms are also available from the Centre for Commencing Students and Student Administration. Students are encouraged to discuss their application with their teacher/lecturer before it is submitted. Departments will provide information about the evidence that is required for the RPL/RCC application.

The University will endeavour to process RPL/RCC applications as soon as possible. Processing time depends on the complexity of the application but should take no more than four weeks.

Fees
An Assessment Fee may be charged where an external board/ party is involved in the RPL/RCC assessment process.
A fee will apply to fee for service clients. TAFE applicants will be notified of any applicable fees when they collect their application form.

Notification
Applicants will receive in writing the results of their application for credit or RPL/RCC assessment.

Right of Appeal
Applicants who are either denied credit or who wish to challenge the amount of credit granted on the basis of a formal pathway, a credit transfer application, or RCC/RPL assessment may request further consideration. Such appeals must be lodged with the Faculty Office or the Department of Student Affairs within 10 working days of the date the notification letter was issued.

Selection Criteria for Articulating Students - Faculty of Arts
The Faculty of Arts at Victoria University of Technology encourages applications from potential articulating students. When considering articulating students for selection, the Faculty takes the following criteria into account:
• academic merit: in determining academic merit, departments will consider completed or partly completed post-secondary qualifications (students are encouraged to complete these qualifications);
• a combination of a selection test and an interview
Note: Students seeking entry through documented pathways into the Faculty are not subject to this measure of academic merit; regionality; and relevant work and life experiences.

How to Apply for Courses
Prospective articulating students already enrolled at Victoria University of Technology who wish to apply for all undergraduate courses offered by the Faculty of Arts will need to complete a ‘Course Transfer Application’ form through the University’s Centre for Commencing Students by 7TH November of the year before they wish to commence their course.

Prospective articulating students from other post-secondary institutions who wish to apply for all undergraduate courses offered by the Faculty of Arts will need to complete an application through the Victorian Tertiary Admissions Centre (VTAC) by September of the year before they wish to commence their course.

Prospective articulating students for TAFE courses need to submit an application directly to the TAFE Division of the University.
Admission, Enrolment and Procedures and Regulations

Admission and Selection
The University is committed to achieving access, equity and excellence in tertiary education. Accordingly the University has adopted flexible admission and selection policies that take account of the wide range of educational backgrounds and experience of prospective students.

General
The primary objective of the University's admission and selection policies is to ensure that students selected for admission to courses are capable of successfully completing the course in which they are to be offered a place. In considering students for admission there shall be no unlawful discrimination.

The University has, however, developed targeted programs designed to ensure a broader representation of students from currently under-represented groups in tertiary education (e.g. Aborigines and Torres Strait Islanders).

Admission to the University is conducted within a framework of minimum entry requirements coupled with selection criteria that relate to the demands that each course will place upon students. In addition, the University has a policy of giving special consideration to applicants who live in the western metropolitan region of Melbourne for courses that are not unique to the University.

The selection criteria for each course are reviewed each year and are finally determined annually by the Council of the University on the recommendation of the Academic Board or the Board of Technical and Further Education as appropriate. The selection criteria for each course, including specific prerequisites for admission, are included with the detailed descriptions of each course which appear in the relevant Faculty and TAFE Handbooks. Generally, selection is based on academic merit and by the selection authority's assessment of the relative likelihood of applicants to successfully complete the course to which they have applied for admission. The main criterion for selection to Degree and Diploma courses is the applicant's performance in Year 12 studies unless other factors are relevant.

Such other factors may include:
- the results of any interviews, auditions, tests or other assessment procedures determined by the particular course selection authorities;
- any illness, or serious hardship as a result of which, in the opinion of the selection authorities, the studies or performance of an applicant have been adversely affected;
- the presentation and depth of relevant supporting material as determined by the particular course selection authorities;
- the life experiences of the applicant; and
- previous study at tertiary level.

Intending applicants for places in University courses can obtain more detailed information about selection criteria and selection procedures for individual courses by contacting the relevant Faculty, School or Department, or the Centre for Commencing Students.

Course Pathways
Victoria University offers a broad range of courses from bridging and preparatory programs to PhDs. It is committed to establishing multiple entry and exit points enabling students to start in a program that best meets their needs and exit with the qualification that will assist them to realise their vocational and educational aspirations.

Victoria University has created many formally approved (or standardised) course pathways. Course pathways allow you to proceed from one course to another. In some cases course pathways may offer the student guaranteed entry or credit toward their preferred exit qualification.

Alternative Entry at Victoria University
The University offers alternative entry programs that will provide for selection on criteria other than the ENTER. The Portfolio Partnership Program will be available in 2003.

Portfolio Partnerships Program
Victoria University is committed to strengthening partnerships with schools and communities in its local region. The Portfolio Partnership Program is an alternative entry scheme available to students in participating secondary schools in the Western Metropolitan, Sunbury and Macedon regions and mature age applicants who live in this region. Selected courses are included in the program and provide opportunities for students with strong vocational commitment and the potential to succeed at university in their selected course to submit a portfolio of evidence. This gives the applicant an opportunity to provide additional information related to their goals and achievements, previous studies, work experience, skills, personal qualities as well as examples of work and other evidence that indicates a commitment to the proposed area of study.

To enquire about the Portfolio Partnerships Program contact the Centre for Commencing Students on (03) 9688 4110 or by email at ccs@vu.edu.au or visit the web site at www.vu.edu.au/ccs

Student Compact
Existing students of the University may request to have a Student Compact which will identify their learning pathway from their existing course of study to other courses to which they aspire. The Student Compact is a documented agreement between the student and the University that lists all negotiated conditions related to their chosen field of study.

The Student Compact is available to all students of the University, and can be renegotiated at any time by the student or the University, to reflect the changing requirements of the student.

For further information about the Student Compact contact the Centre for Commencing Students telephone: (03) 9688 4110.
Admission Requirements

Undergraduate Courses

Normal Entry
Any persons who have been granted the Victorian Certificate of Education or satisfactorily completed an equivalent Year 12 qualification recognised by the University (plus relevant course prerequisite studies) will be eligible to apply for admission to courses of the University leading to a higher education award or to a TAFE Diploma.

In general, therefore, applicants will be eligible for admission to higher education undergraduate and TAFE Diploma courses if they have:
- passed the VCE including the satisfactory completion of English Units 3 and 4 from 1992 onwards;
- passed four approved VCE (HSC) Group 1 subjects (including English) at one sitting prior to 1992;
- passed four approved Victorian Institute of Education, HSC, Group 1 subjects (including English) at one sitting since 1980;
- satisfied Victorian University Schools Examination Board or Victorian Institute of Education Year 12 requirements prior to 1980; or
- obtained an equivalent interstate or overseas qualification.

Entry requirements for admission to TAFE courses other than courses leading to a Diploma vary. Details of entry requirements are to be found in the TAFE Handbook.

In addition to meeting the entry requirements above, applicants may be required to satisfy other requirements specified by the Faculty/School conducting the course. Further information can be found on www.vu.edu.au/admissions

Special Entry
Applicants meeting the above requirements will be regarded as having satisfied the Normal Entry requirements. However, applicants wishing to undertake a University course who do not meet the Normal Entry requirements may still be eligible for admission under Special Entry (SE). Students admitted to a course under SE may be subject to special terms and conditions determined by the relevant Faculty or School. The three categories of Special Entry are as follows.

Age and Educational Background
A person will be eligible for admission to any course within the University if, at 1 January of the intended year of entry, he or she is 21 years of age or over.

Any person who, at the date of their proposed admission to a TAFE course (other than a course for Diploma), is 18 years or older, will be eligible to apply for admission to any such course. Australian residents who meet these criteria are guaranteed a place in a Government-funded course if they apply via the University's Personalised Access Study scheme.

There is currently a high demand for many award courses, and a number of mature-age applicants may not receive an offer of a place in the course of their choice. Other factors taken into account in selection, in addition to work and life experience, include education level achieved, evidence of aptitude for study, time elapsed since study was attempted, and whether the applicant resides in the western metropolitan region of Melbourne.

Mature-age applicants should be aware of the study difficulties they might face in a tertiary course. The University conducts a number of programs generally of short duration, aimed to help improve communication skills, study skills and confidence. Mature-age applicants may not need to do a preparatory program, but should consider the following:
- It is assumed that students of award courses know how to study. Study involves many skills - taking notes, using a library, organising your time effectively, essay writing, and so on.
- If it has been a long time since you last attended classes, or if your previous study experience was not very successful or enjoyable, it may be helpful to develop some confidence in your abilities before you begin.
- Communication skills are very important for award course students, and this can mean speaking (for example, participation in class discussions) as well as writing. Some practice in this area may be beneficial.
- The real work of any award course usually begins straight away: sometimes on the very first day. You may need some time to ease yourself into being a student.

By undertaking preparation for study, you can pay attention to the factors outlined above in an environment that is designed to minimise the pressure on you. If you move straight into a tertiary course, you might find that you are in fact trying to prepare yourself at the same time as trying to cope with the new material presented to you. This can result in failure to meet the required academic standard.

Courses conducted by the University to help you successfully return to study in an award course may include:
- English for Further Study - This course provides people of non-English-speaking background with the language and research/study skills necessary for study.
- English as a Second Language (ESL) - English as a second language classes are tailored to the needs of students who wish to improve their English for personal development, further study, or to improve their job prospects. Wherever possible, classes are tailored to suit the needs of the participants.
- Basic Education Program - The Basic Education program focuses on the development of students' communication skills, through writing and reading exercises, spelling, basic grammar and punctuation.
- Preparation for Tertiary Study - A preparatory course with two streams designed to improve access to Arts or Science courses.
- Gateway to Nursing - A preparatory course that provides access to nursing courses.
- VCE - The Victorian Certificate of Education is available by full-time and part-time study.

For more information, contact Further Education and Employment Services on (03) 9284 7225.

Continuing Difficulties During Schooling
A person will be eligible to apply for admission to any course within the University if his or her progress through secondary school was adversely affected by:
- economic hardship;
- illness;
- English language learning difficulties;
- family problems;
- geographical isolation; or
- disability.
Applicants whose difficulties occurred only during their last year of secondary studies must use the Victorian Tertiary Admission Centre ‘VTAC Chronic Circumstances Application Form for Current Year 12 Students’. Students who are not current year 12 applicants, but who meet any of the above criteria should complete the VTAC Pi form for Non-Year 12 Applicants. Applicants wishing to apply on the above basis should contact the relevant Faculty, or the Centre for Commencing Students for further information on individual course requirements. Some individual courses have supplementary information forms that can also be completed.

Applicants with a disability or chronic medical condition should also complete the above relevant forms and any individual course supplementary information forms. Persons with a disability or chronic medical condition are encouraged to contact the relevant Faculty, School, Department of the University, or the Centre for Commencing Students to discuss any potential difficulties, hazards and individual course requirements inherent in their proposed course. In these discussions, any special needs of applicants can be discussed and an indication given of the University's capacity to meet those special needs.

Applicants with a disability or chronic medical condition are invited to discuss their specific needs and potential individual support requirements with Disability Services however Disability Services is not involved in selection or application processes. All applicants with a disability are encouraged to declare their disability on enrolment forms and should register with Disability Services as soon as possible after enrolling in their course.

A person of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent is eligible to apply for admission to any course within the University and such applications will be assessed individually to determine the applicant’s suitability and potential for academic success. Further advice may be obtained by contacting the Indigenous Services on (03) 9365 2193 or via email on disability@vu.edu.au.

Aborigines and Torres Strait Islanders
A person of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent is eligible to apply for admission to any course within the University and such applications will be assessed individually to determine the applicant’s suitability and potential for academic success. Further advice may be obtained by contacting the Indigenous Services on (03) 9365 2228 or via email equity@vu.edu.au.

Later Year Entry
Both Normal Entry and Special Entry relate to admission to the University at the commencement of an undergraduate course. Persons who have already completed one or more years’ relevant post-secondary studies may be eligible for Later Year Entry to the second or subsequent years of a course.

Persons applying for Later Year Entry will be required to meet all normal selection criteria for the course as well as demonstrate that their prior studies are relevant to the course for which they have applied. In making selection decisions, applicants’ level of performance in all of their previous tertiary enrolments may be taken into account. Persons selected for Later Year Entry may be admitted on condition they undertake bridging course work, or complete a specially modified course plan, or both.

Deferred Entry (Commencing Students)
Prospective students should contact the relevant Faculty or School to clarify the deferment policy. A person to whom an offer of admission to a course has been made by the University may apply to defer his or her enrolment for a period of up to one year. An application for deferred entry must be made in writing and lodged within seven days of the date upon which the offer of admission was sent. The application must be forwarded to the Dean of the appropriate Faculty or the Head of the appropriate School. A Dean or Head may grant an application for deferred entry with or without conditions. Applications for deferment from a TAFE course are not normally granted.

A person who has been granted deferred entry has a right to enrol in their course for the semester following the end of the period of their approved deferment, providing they attend a scheduled enrolment session.

Postgraduate Courses
Normal Entry (PhD)

Doctor of Philosophy
To be eligible for admission a person must have:

- a masters degree; or
- a four-year bachelor degree with honours or honours degree with a superior performance at 1st Class or 2A honours level; or
- a three-year bachelor degree together with a postgraduate diploma that is an extension of the discipline contained in the undergraduate qualification and at a level considered to be equivalent to 1st Class or 2A honours, as determined by the Head; or
- been enrolled in a masters by research program and shown exceptional ability in the conduct of the first stages in a project and been approved for transfer into a PhD program by the Committee for Postgraduate Studies on the recommendation of the Head.

For admission to a PhD program a student must provide evidence acceptable to the Head of a capacity to undertake research in the discipline.

Masters Degree
To be eligible for admission applicants must have:

- qualified for a first degree of the University (or such other degree as the Department may deem equivalent for this purpose) at a standard considered by the Department to be sufficiently meritorious; or
- qualified for any other award judged by the Department to be of a relevant and appropriate standard; and
- produced evidence of professional experience through which they have developed their applied knowledge of the relevant field of study, and which satisfies the Department that they have the capacity to undertake study for the degree of master; and
- fulfilled any other conditions relating to prerequisite study which the Department may have imposed in respect of their admission to candidature.

Graduate Diplomas/Graduate Certificates
To be eligible for admission applicants must normally have successfully completed a degree or diploma and may be required to attend an interview/selection test.

Application for Admission
Centre for Commencing Students
The Centre for Commencing Students (CCS) provides a central location for TAFE, undergraduate and postgraduate course information. Information sessions are conducted in the evenings and on weekends for prospective students that provide information and advice about return to study or career options, application procedures, alternative entry schemes and an overview of the University environment.
A resource area is provided where prospective students may browse through brochures of the many courses offered by the University. Advisers are always available to assist with enquiries, provide course information, and offer advice to individuals, schools and community groups. Group sessions can be arranged for local and community groups by contacting the Community Partnerships Officer at the Centre.

The Centre is located at Footscray Park Campus in Building C on ground level (level 3) facing Ballarat Road (adjacent to the pedestrian crossing). Contact the Centre for Commencing Students on telephone: (03) 9688 4110, fax: (03) 9688 4813 or email: ccs@vu.edu.au

Student Administration

The Recruitment and Student Success Branch and Enrolment Management Branch both seek to provide an integrated and professional service to students, staff, past students and prospective students of the University.

The Branches maintain constant telephone, email and over-counter contact with students by way of answering enquiries, advising on University requirements, issuing course information and providing services related to enrolment, certification and graduation.

A range of services is provided to staff of the University, including collation and cross checking of results, scheduling and invigilation of examinations and provision of student data and records services.

Staff within these branches work to facilitate the interaction of staff and students in accordance with Higher Education and TAFE administrative requirements, and to provide efficient services to organisational units of the University.

The student administrative services provided by Recruitment and Student Success include:

- Student Administration at Offshore locations
  The Centre for Graduating Students and Education Abroad provides the student administration services for all offshore programs for both sectors. The University has partnerships with several organisations to enable programs to be delivered in offshore teaching sites such as Bangladesh, China, Hong Kong, Korea, Malaysia, New Zealand, Singapore, Thailand, and Vietnam.

- Centre for Graduating Students and Education Abroad
  Telephone: 61 3 9365 2846
  Fax: 61 3 9365 2853
  Email: offshoreadmin@vu.edu.au
  Website: www.vu.edu.au
  Located: Room 4C, 141, St Albans Campus

Enrolment Management provides services in the following areas:

- Admissions and Orientation provides a comprehensive service to prospective students including distribution of course information, collection and processing of applications; and to the University in the coordination of the admissions process, procedures and information.

- Client Services and Information offers assistance with student administration enquiries including enrolment and fees information, cashier functions and switchboard services.

- Enrolment services entail the registration and administration of enrolment amendment for students on all onshore campuses and in both sectors, as well as Higher Education Contribution Scheme administration and TAFE fees.

Undergraduate Courses

Normal Entry

Persons applying for entry to higher education undergraduate courses (other than those listed below under Direct Application) to study either full-time or part-time must apply through the Victorian Tertiary Admissions Centre.

While the VTAC Guide and application form are available from newsagents, a convenient and comprehensive application service is available from their web site at: www.vtac.edu.au.

Persons applying through VTAC should note that the VTAC rules, by which the University is bound, provide that no selection authority shall take into account the preference for that course as indicated by the applicant. This means that even if an applicant has indicated a lower preference for the course concerned than other applicants, there shall be no prejudice and each applicant will be considered equally.

Prerequisites and Extra Requirements

Some higher education undergraduate courses have special prerequisites for enrolment. Where this is the case, these requirements are published two years in advance in the Victorian Tertiary Education Requirements (this is published as a supplement in the press) and for the following year in the VTAC Guide to Undergraduate and TAFE Courses (available from newsagents and the web: www.vtac.edu.au).

For some higher education undergraduate courses, the application process requires applicants to complete a Supplementary Information Form available from the relevant Faculty Office, the Admissions Office or the University web site: wwwvu.edu.au/admissions. These courses are identified in the VTAC Guide.

Special Entry

Persons applying for admission to a University course under Special Entry (except those applying for re-admission) should obtain an application form from the Centre for Commencing Students. However, persons seeking Special Entry must also apply to VTAC unless the course comes under the Direct Applications category.

Readmission to the University

Students who are currently enrolled in an award course may apply directly to the University for admission to another course for the following semester. Students seeking readmission to the University should contact the Faculty or School administering the relevant course or Student Administration.

All other students who were previously enrolled at the University but whose enrolment has lapsed, or who have been excluded from their course because of unsatisfactory progress, may reapply for admission to the same or another course in any subsequent academic year. These students should apply using the standard procedures for that course. Such applicants for readmission to the University will have to meet the selection criteria applying to their intended course.

The selection process will take account of:

- the person’s previous academic performance at the University and their commitment to complete the course; and
- whether the circumstances which led to the person’s previous unsatisfactory progress or to their allowing their previous enrolment to lapse have changed or improved.

If selected for readmission such students will be subject to the course requirements in effect at the time of re-entry and may have special conditions attached to their re-admission.
Part-time Admission

Persons applying for admission on a part-time basis to Higher Education undergraduate courses and TAFE courses should follow the application procedures set out above. Where a form is to be lodged with the University as well as with VTAC, applicants should indicate their intention to study part-time on the form.

Postgraduate Courses
Masters by Coursework, Graduate Certificates and Graduate Diplomas

All persons seeking admission to postgraduate studies in the University (except for the Graduate Diploma of Education) must apply direct to the University.

Application forms for graduate certificates, graduate diplomas and masters by coursework are available from the Student Administration Admissions Office at the St Albans Campus or Faculty offices on the campus where the course is offered.

Doctor of Business Administration

Prospective students should contact the Faculty of Business and Law office at either the Footscray or City campuses for application details.

Doctor of Philosophy and Masters Degrees by Research

Those persons interested in pursuing a research degree are advised to contact the Postgraduate Studies Officer in the Faculty or Department in which they wish to study to discuss research interests and to determine the availability of suitable supervisors and facilities relevant to the proposed research.

Once the Department has confirmed that the applicant is eligible to enrol, an Application for Enrolment Form must be completed and lodged along with the necessary enrolment forms at Student Administration.

Direct Applications

All direct applications for admission to award courses must be on appropriate University application forms, available from the University. Telephone (03)9365 2286 for details or via www.vu.edu.au/admissions.

Closing Dates for Applications

Applicants lodging direct applications should contact the relevant Faculty or School for closing dates. Direct applicants should note that the selection process will be facilitated by lodging application forms at the earliest possible date, with the required accompanying documentation attached.

Applicants who wish to study TAFE courses part-time must apply direct to the University using an application form available from the Admissions Office.

Selection Procedures

Applicants may be required to complete a literacy and/or numeracy exercise as part of the selection procedure and may be given the opportunity to attend an interview as part of the selection procedure.

Documentation

Direct applicants currently attempting Year 11 or Year 12 subjects should lodge their applications by the due date and then send a copy of their results when they become available. Other applicants who have attempted Year 11/12 should attach a certified copy of certificates.

All persons seeking admission to a course leading to one of the above awards who did not complete VCE must support their application with documentary evidence proving they have the educational qualifications referred to in their application. All documents should be in the form of certified copies and if documents are in a language other than English, officially certified translations together with certified copies of original documents are required. The University will retain all such evidence. Original documents should never be sent but must be available on request and may be required at a later stage of the selection process (e.g. during interview).

If a direct applicant has undertaken previous tertiary studies the applicant must attach a certified copy of the full transcript of his or her academic record(s) obtained at the previous institution(s). Please do not send original documents.

Subject Credits and Advanced Standing

Credit for Previous Tertiary Studies

Students who have completed subjects or units at another tertiary institution may be granted credit for equivalent subjects in Victoria University courses. A subject credit will allow a student an exemption from a course subject, while the value of that subject will still be counted towards their award.

Applications for credit for previous tertiary study must be accompanied by certified documentary evidence of the subjects passed, together with details of these subjects for comparison with the Victoria University course. Please note that the University may seek information from the other tertiary institutions about the applicant.

Partial Exemptions

In some cases where a student is ineligible for full credit from a particular subject, partial exemption may be granted whereby the student is allowed to undertake less than the full normal study or assessment requirements to be accredited with a pass.

Where partial credit has been approved, this will be taken into account in calculating the HECS liability which the student incurs for the subject.

Course Variation by Special Approval

In cases where credit for units/subjects of a student's course is not appropriate, the Dean of the Faculty or Head of the School or Department responsible for the student's course may grant a variation to course requirements by special approval. A course variation substitutes alternative subjects of similar content and duration for subjects normally required within a student's course.

The purpose of Course Variation by Special Approval is to avoid repeating curriculum material where it is deemed that a student will not gain substantial educational benefit from one or more of the normal requirements of the course, but where the student does not meet all the criteria for subject exemption.

Application Procedure

Applicants for admission to courses at Victoria University should indicate on their application form if they wish to apply for credit. Applicants applying for credits are also encouraged to complete an Application for Credit Transfer Form. All such applications must be lodged before the end of the second week of the relevant semester.

Processing of applications for subject credit may take several weeks. This process will be facilitated by the applicant providing all relevant information when lodging an application.

The following documents must be included in an application:

- a completed Application for Credit Transfer Form. This form is available from Student Administration or the relevant Faculty;
• a copy of the applicant's academic record from the previous institution(s);
• where available, a description of the subjects as published in the Handbook of the applicant's previous institution, e.g. if applying for an exemption in Economics 1 at Victoria University on the basis of a pass in Economics at Monash University in 1998, the applicant should attach a copy of the subject description of the unit from the 1998 Monash University Handbook; and
• any other material that applicants wish to submit in support of their application.

Time Lapse Between Studies

Normally, credits for studies in a previous course of study will not be considered if studies were undertaken more than 10 years prior to the application. Courses linked to fields in which there is rapid change in technology and/or knowledge may set a maximum time limit of less than ten years. In cases where it can be demonstrated that relevant skills have been maintained and, where appropriate, updated, the above time limit restrictions may be waived by the appropriate Dean or TAFE Deputy Director on the recommendation of the appropriate Head of School or Department.

Enrolment

Enrolment enquiries should be directed to StudentAdmin@vu.edu.au or to any Enrolment Management Branch office on campus. Enrolment enquiries from students studying offshore should be directed to offshoreadmin@vu.edu.au.

Enrolment for Assessment

A candidate becomes eligible for assessment in a subject only when enrolled in that subject. Candidates will be considered as having entered for assessment in all subjects for which they have enrolled.

A student will be deemed to have enrolled for assessment in a subject unless such enrolment has been formally withdrawn by the specified date. Application for timely subject withdrawals must be made on the appropriate University form. Total withdrawal from a course of study must be approved by the Faculty, School or Department responsible for administration of the student's course by the specified date.

All defined fee payments must be completed before any enrolment or assessment is validated and/or confirmed by the University. Students are notified of an enrolment cancellation by mail. A student will only be reinstated to the course where authorisation from the Faculty or TAFE School's Administration office has been obtained, a reinstatement fee and all outstanding fees have been paid.

When students enrol at the commencement of the academic year, a provisional enrolment for Semester Two is registered. It is important to note that the Faculty or TAFE School administering each course of study has the power to amend, restrict or cancel provisional semester enrolments.

Returning Students

Students who have been enrolled for the previous semester should comply with the re-enrolment requirements set down by the relevant Faculty, School or Department. Particular attention should be paid to University re-enrolment schedules.

Late Enrolment

Students must enrol in a course of study or for a subject during official enrolment periods. Where students are unable to attend the designated re-enrolment session, they should arrange for a proxy to enrol on their behalf. Students who do not comply with the enrolment and re-enrolment requirements, including the payment of relevant fees, will be required to pay a late enrolment fee and where appropriate, a reinstatement fee. Enrolment into a course of study or subject after the third week of a semester will only be permitted in exceptional circumstances and only with the approval of the relevant Head of School or Department, or nominee.

TAFE courses have various start week dates throughout the year. Variations should normally still occur within the first three weeks of the program.

Course Transfer

An enrolled student wishing to transfer to a course of study in another Faculty, School or Department must apply for admission to the intended course of study on the appropriate form. Where this course transfer is approved, the student will be withdrawn from the previous course and enrolled into the new course.

Lapsed Enrolment

Past students of the University who are not on approved Leave of Absence (or deferment) from the University and who have not enrolled at the University for the previous semester, automatically forfeit their student place at the University and must re-apply for admission according to the procedure set down for new students.

How to Enrol

Proof of Qualifications

Admission and enrolment are conditional upon proof of stated qualifications. All claims of qualifications that have been obtained outside the University should be supported by appropriate documentary evidence, certified copies of which should accompany the application for admission. These copies will be retained by the University.

Approval of Course of Study

All courses of study (i.e. individual student's subject selection) must be approved by the Faculty, School or Department responsible for administration of the student's course before enrolment registration will be accepted by the University. Students should take particular note of the administrative arrangements for enrolment.

Enrolment Registration and Validation

An enrolment is registered by the University when it is appropriately approved and entered onto the University's database by an authorised officer or by a student of the University in the case of self-enrolment. Registered enrolments are not validated until all requirements relating to verification of qualifications, payment of fees and acceptance of liability under the Higher Education Contribution Scheme are satisfied.

Enrolment Forms

Until student self-enrolment is fully implemented all students commencing or continuing studies at Victoria University must complete the relevant official enrolment and statistics form(s). These forms must be lodged for processing within two University working days from the date the form(s) is approved and signed by an authorised officer of the relevant School or Department. Failure to comply with this time limit may result in non-acceptance of the enrolment.
Victoria University is committed to protecting and maintaining the privacy, accuracy and security of your personal information and complies with the University's published privacy policies, commitments, guidelines and procedures, which conform to and support all privacy obligations that bind the University. The University is compelled by law to supply some statistics - for example, it must supply statistics to the Bureau of Statistics. Statistics supplied to outside bodies will be in the form of aggregate figures only; the outside body concerned will be unable to identify any student by name. Only the Australian Taxation Office is supplied with the names, addresses, birth dates and HECS liability of relevant students of the University.

Confirmation of Enrolment

Confirmation of course and subject enrolment will be issued to higher education students each semester and to TAFE students, upon enrolment. Students should check their enrolment details carefully and notify Enrolment Management without delay of any errors or amendments using an Enrolment Amendment Form.

Enrolment Amendment forms are available from Enrolment Management, Faculty, TAFE School and/or Campus offices. They may be lodged at the Enrolment Management Branch office at any campus.

Student Self-enrolment

The University is implementing a student self-enrolment system whereby students will enrol themselves in their course and subjects via a computer terminal. This self-enrolment system has been developed to determine the subjects into which a student may enrol and takes into account electives, majors, minors, streams and so on. This means that students are enrolled when they have selected their subjects through this method and paid their fees.

Student Identity Card

An identity card (ID) with your student number, photograph and signature will be issued to you at the time of your initial enrolment at the University. This card should be carried with you at all times, as you may be asked to produce it at any time.

Your card is required in the following instances:
• admission to examinations;
• re-enrolment;
• library services;
• computer centre services; and
• travel and other concessions.

Your ID number is a unique number and should be quoted on all correspondence with the University. Proof of identity is required prior to the issuing of your ID card. Cards can only be replaced by paying a fee to the Cashier and taking your receipt together with another form of photo identification to Enrolment Management Branch.

In addition, University ID cards may be used to operate photocopiers and access other services.

Complementary Enrolment

Students of Victoria University

Special arrangements can be negotiated whereby students studying toward a recognised higher education award may be given specific approval to undertake studies outside their awarding institution to count towards completion of course requirements. Such arrangements are termed 'Complementary Enrolment'.

The Director Student Affairs or nominee may approve complementary enrolment, on the recommendation of the nominee of the Dean of the relevant faculty. Approval will not be given for more than one-half of a student's course to be undertaken at another institution.

A student of the University who undertakes an approved complementary course is required on completion of the unit to provide Enrolment Management Branch with a certificate of results from the host institution, whereupon, if appropriate, a J result will be recorded to signify that the complementary studies have been satisfactorily completed.

Where the host institution administers a Higher Education Contribution Scheme liability in respect of a complementary enrolment that is approved by this University to count towards completion of a course, that part of the student's subject enrolment at this University relating to the complementary studies will be exempt from HECS liability.

Students of Other Institutions

Students who have been admitted to higher education award courses at other tertiary institutions will, under certain circumstances, be permitted to undertake studies at the University to count towards completion of those courses. Admission of complementary students is subject to funding, timetabling and class size considerations, and requires the approval of the Head of School or Department responsible for teaching the subject(s) concerned.

Students of other institutions wishing to apply for complementary enrolment should obtain written approval from the Director Student Affairs (or equivalent) at their home institution, verifying their enrolment status, indicating the nature of the studies to be undertaken, and certifying that the studies, if successfully completed, will count towards the award.

Students who have produced documentation required in accordance with the previous paragraph will be exempted from payment of the General Service Fee normally required upon enrolment at the University, on the basis that they have already paid such a fee elsewhere.

Complementary students will normally be required to accept liability under the Higher Education Contribution Scheme in respect of subjects undertaken at this University. However, students should not be required to accept liability more than once in respect of any particular component of enrolment.

Enrolment Amendment and Course Withdrawal

Higher Education Students

Students wishing to reduce their study load should complete an Application for Enrolment Amendment Form. Students should lodge the form at an Enrolment Management Branch Office.

Students who withdraw from subjects before the census date do not incur a HECS liability for those subjects. Students who withdraw from subjects after the census date, but before the late withdrawal date, do incur a HECS liability but not an academic penalty for those subjects. Students who withdraw from subjects after the late amendment date incur a HECS and an 'N2' fail for the subject. Generally, students are not permitted to withdraw after the late withdrawal date.

Students wishing to totally withdraw from studies should complete an Application for Course Leave of Absence, Deferment or Withdrawal Form, obtain approval from the Faculty or Department responsible for administration of the course, and lodge the approved form at Enrolment Management. Withdrawal from subjects or courses will not automatically be permitted after 31 March in Semester 1 and 31 August in Semester 2.

If a student withdraws from enrolment at the University during the year without being granted leave of absence, it will be necessary to re-apply for admission to the course to recommence studies at any later stage. In such circumstances, re-admission is not automatic.

TAFE Students

TAFE students wishing to reduce their load or withdraw from studies should complete the appropriate form within four weeks of the course start date.

A Word of Warning

Do not leave things to the last minute. You may receive little sympathy if you approach staff during the examination period regarding a problem that has affected your enrolment status or hampered your performance throughout the semester.

If circumstances force you to 'drop' a subject, make sure you apply to withdraw from that subject at the earliest possible time and at least before the deadline specified by Enrolment Management. If you do not complete the assessment for a subject for which you are enrolled you will receive a 'Fail' grade in that subject even if you have not attended classes in that subject. You will also incur a HECS liability for the subject.

Conditional Enrolment

A student, whether a commencing or a continuing student, may be permitted to enrol subject to special conditions, provisions or requirements.

Conditional enrolment means that special requirements apply for that student in addition to the normal progression regulations of the course, for a specified period of time (whether that time is measured in terms of course stages or in terms of calendar time).

Where the University attaches conditions, and where these have been formally notified to the student, the continued or subsequent enrolment for a specified period of time (whether that time is measured in terms of course stages or in terms of calendar time).

The Faculty or School will advise students in writing regarding the outcome of their application.

Where leave of absence is approved for Higher Education students after the relevant enrolment census date, students will remain liable for HECS contributions in respect of their enrolment in that semester.

Leave of Absence (Continuing Students)

Leave of Absence, for periods of up to one year initially, may be granted by the Faculty or School responsible for the administration of a student's award course. A student must submit an Application for Course Leave of Absence, Deferment or Withdrawal form available from Enrolment Management or the relevant Faculty, School or Campus offices.

Undergraduate and Postgraduate Courses

A completed Application for Course Leave of Absence, Deferment or Withdrawal form including a recommendation from the appropriate School or Department should be approved by the Faculty or School prior to the enrolment census date for the semester in which the leave is to commence.

Doctor of Philosophy and Masters by Research

Students should approach the Postgraduate Studies Unit, Footscray Park Campus for advice regarding application for leave of absence. Application forms can be obtained from the Unit or the Enrolment Management Branch.

Personal Details

Students who change their name, address or emergency contact details should do this in writing by completing a Personal Data Amendment form available from Enrolment Management offices.

Students requiring a change of name must produce documentary evidence (e.g. marriage certificate, statutory declaration) in addition to completing a Personal Data Amendment form.

Fees and Charges

Fee enquiries may be directed to Student.Fees@vu.edu.au or to any Enrolment Management office.

Students are required to pay all the fees for which they have been assessed including the General Services Fee, Building Levy and TAFE tuition fees or accept HECS liability after lodging an enrolment form. Once payment is completed the University will validate the student's enrolment.

Enrolment for any semester is not valid until all relevant payments have been made.

General Services Fee

In addition to tuition costs, students are required to pay student service and amenities fees. These fees are paid to the University to fund a variety of non-academic and general services, activities and facilities of benefit to all students.

In 2003 the General Services Fee (GSF) for students other than full fee paying students will be:

- For enrolment in higher education subjects: $2.61 per 0.01 equivalent full-time student unit.
- For enrolment in technical and further education subjects: $0.362 per student contact hour (SCH).
Refunds will be processed provided that the relevant enrolment amendment form or withdrawal form has been received and authorised by the census date.

Students should apply for a refund of fees on an Application form where they believe they are entitled to such a refund.

The amount of the refund payable will be determined according to the date of lodgement of the Enrolment Amendment form or withdrawal form, or other authorised office within the University:

- Before 31 March - full refund
- After 31 March but before 31 August - refund of second semester GSF paid only
- After 31 August - no refund is payable unless students can show there are special circumstances in their case.

Higher Education Contribution Scheme (HECS)

HECS Liability - To Whom Does It Apply?
A student enrolled in an accredited, non-exempt higher education course at the census dates of 31 March for Semester 1, 31 August for Semester 2, and 15 January for Semester 3, will incur a HECS liability. The liability is determined according to the study load undertaken expressed as a proportion of the normal full-time load for each student year of course.

HECS Up Front Payment Option
Students can pay all of their HECS liability up front and receive a 25% discount. Students selecting the up front payment option at enrolment for a given semester must pay their full current semester HECS liability less 25% within seven days of the enrolment registration invoice being produced.

Deferred Payment Option
Non-exempt Higher Education students who do not wish to pay HECS up-front upon enrolment must complete and sign a Payment Option Declaration Form selecting the Deferred Payment method.

Under the Deferred Payment Option students must, at enrolment, either:
- provide a valid tax file number; or
- not having a tax file number or not having access to their tax file number, apply to the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) for a Tax File Number and provide it to the University before census date. Where the tax file number is not made available to the student by census date, the ATO will provide a Certificate of Application, which the University will accept in place of a Tax File Number.

Reimbursement of Up Front HECS Payments
Students who made an up front payment and who then withdraw from part or all of their semester subject enrolment before the relevant census date will normally be entitled to a proportional HECS refund.

HECS refunds will not generally be paid by the University until the enrolment confirmation period is ended—that is, before 30 April in Semester 1 or before 30 September in Semester 2.
Payment Options for New Zealand Citizens
New Zealand citizens who commenced their course of study on or after 1 January 1996 must pay their HECS contribution up front without a discount. New Zealand citizens continuing a course of study which began before January 1996 must also pay their HECS contribution up front without a discount, unless they have been a resident in Australia for a continuous period of more than two years.

Differential HECS Contributions for Commencing Students
Differential HECS contributions apply to students commencing a new course of study after 1 January 1997. The HECS liability for each unit depends on which of three bands the unit is classified.

Further Information
The information booklet, HECS Your Questions Answered 2003, published by the Department of Education, Science and Training, contains more detailed information about the scheme. Copies are distributed at enrolment and are available from Student Administration offices. Further information is also available on the following website: www.hecs.gov.au or by calling the HECS enquiry line on 1800 020 108

Communication from the University to Higher Education Students on HECS Liability
The University will issue to each higher education student two documents about their HECS liability each semester, namely:
• An Enrolment Offer showing the student's personal details, the subjects the student is enrolled in for the current semester, the Effective Full Time Student Unit (EFTSU) value for each of the subjects, the aggregate EFTSU, the HECS liability amount and the up front payment amount for the current semester. The form will be sent or given to Higher Education students before 15 March in Semester 1, before 15 August in semester 2, in early January for Summer School and in early July for Winter School.
• A Tax Invoice and Final Statement of HECS Liability will be sent to all Higher Education students in early April (for Semester 1) and mid-September (for Semester 2). This notice will show: the aggregate EFTSU enrolment as at census date; the resulting semester HECS liability; the amount of HECS liability paid for the current semester; the amount of any HECS liability to be reported to the Australian Taxation Office; and where applicable, the amount of any refund due from the University.
• Students will have fourteen days from the date of issue of a ‘Final Statement of HECS Liability’ to lodge a written objection (giving reasons) at Enrolment Management. The only valid grounds for such an application are that the University has made an error in recording the students subject enrolment, in calculating the HECS liability, or in recording a HECS payment. Such applications for amendment will generally be considered before 1 May in Semester 1 and before 1 October in Semester 2. Students will be formally advised of the outcome.

Tax File Numbers
Handling of Tax File Numbers by University Staff
Tax File Numbers submitted by students or received from the Australian Taxation Office will be kept secure and confidential and no unauthorised person will be permitted access to this information.

Collection of Tax File Number Information by the University
If a student provides a Tax File Number that does not conform to the specifications provided by the Australian Taxation Office, the responsible University Officer has the authority not to accept or process the student's enrolment.

Postgraduate Education Loan Scheme (PELS)
The Postgraduate Education Loan Scheme is an interest free loan facility for fee-paying postgraduate students undertaking non-research courses. It is similar to the deferred payment arrangements available under HECS.

Eligibility
You are eligible for a PELS loan if you are:
• Enrolled in a fee-paying postgraduate non-research course and,
• An Australian citizen or holder of an Australian permanent visa (who meets eligibility requirements)

Loan Available
You can borrow up to the limit of your tuition fees being charged for your course each semester. You will begin repaying your loan through the taxation system once your repayment income reaches the minimum threshold for compulsory repayment.

Further Information
The information booklet, PELS Your Questions Answered 2003, published by the Department of Education, Science and Training, contains more detailed information about the scheme. Copies are distributed at enrolment and are available from the Enrolment Management offices.

Bridging For Overseas-Trained Professionals Loan Scheme (BOTPLS)
The Bridging for Overseas-Trained Professionals Loan Scheme (BOTPLS) is an interest-free loan facility for overseas trained professionals who are seeking to work in regulated or self-regulated professions in Australia. It is similar to the deferred payment arrangements available under the Higher Education Contribution Scheme (HECS) and the Postgraduate Education Loans Scheme (PELS)
Further information can be found by reading BOTPLS, Your Questions Answered which is available on the following website: www.hecs.gov.au/botpls.htm or by calling the enquiry lines: 1800 020 106 for student loan issues or 1800 020 086 for recognition issues, or by contacting Enrolment Management.

Assessment

All enrolled students are eligible for assessment in each of the subjects in which they are enrolled. In most subjects offered by the University there will be more than one assessment task or component of assessment during a semester.

The components of assessment for each subject will vary but may include attendance, examinations, tests, exercises, practical tasks, essays, assignments, articles, theses or other work.

More precise details of the assessment for each subject will be provided by the School or Department Examination Board for that subject not later than two weeks after commencement of teaching in the subject. These details will include:

• the nature of each component of assessment;
• the approximate length or extent of each of the components;
• the approximate due date for each component;
• the proportion of total marks assigned to each component; and
• the standard deduction of marks for late submission.

The Examination Board for each subject will consist usually of the Head of the relevant School or Department (as Chairperson) and the examiners for the subject. Usually there will only be one examiner for each subject who will be one of the members of staff teaching the subject. The examiner(s) will be appointed by the end of the second week in each semester. The examiners may be assisted in correcting work by assistant markers appointed by the Chairperson of the Examination Board.

The University has adopted rules in relation to assessment and the supervision of assessment. These rules form Part 1 of the Schedule to a Statute of the University (Statute 6.3.1—Assessment). A copy can be obtained from the Head Legal and Policy Secretariat, Telephone (03) 9688 4022. These rules are normally reproduced by Student Affairs and displayed alongside the final examination timetable.

Assessment is available only to students of the University

Students cannot have results for an examination in a subject in which they have not formally enrolled; check carefully your Enrolment Registration and HECS Liability Statements to ensure that your enrolment is correct in every detail.

Examination Timetable

The final examination timetable is posted on University noticeboards and web site www.vu.edu.au approximately four weeks before the examination period begins. It is your responsibility to check this timetable for any clash, and to refer any clash to the either the Examinations Scheduling Officer of the Assessment & Progression Unit at Footscray Park Campus or to the Enrolment Management office on your campus.

You will not be given special consideration if you misread the examination timetable and miss an examination, nor will you be entitled to another examination.

No information about the examination timetable will be given by telephone.

Conduct of Examinations

Enquiries about examinations may be directed by email to examinations@vu.edu.au to the Enrolment Management office on campus.

Examination sessions will normally commence at:

9.30am  morning examination sessions
2.00pm  afternoon examination sessions
6.00pm  evening examination sessions

unless otherwise indicated on the published timetable.

Students will be admitted to the examination room at those times and given fifteen minutes at the commencement of the session for the purpose of reading the paper. Any variation of this practice will be notified to students in the printed timetable. As a rule, no writing, note making or marking of the paper in any way is permitted in this reading time. A member of the academic or teaching staff will be present at the beginning of each examination session at the examination venues to answer any inquiries about the question paper.

Before entering the examination room, students must ascertain their seat numbers from lists posted on noticeboards at the examination venues and web site www.vu.edu.au. Lists are usually posted on the University website www.vu.edu.au two days prior to the commencement of examinations. Any student who has not been allocated a seat number should report immediately to the Enrolment Management office before the commencement of the examination session.

No student may enter the examination room more than half an hour after the commencement of the session or leave the examination room until half an hour after the commencement of the session or during the last quarter of an hour of the session.

You may bring into the examination room: pens, ink, pencils, rulers, erasers and mathematical instruments (see below for use of calculators and electronic devices).

You may not bring into the examination room any book, paper or other material that has not been specifically authorised for use at that particular examination: if, during an examination, you are found to be in possession of such material, you will be reported as having breached examination rules and may face disciplinary action.

You are strongly advised not to bring to examinations any unnecessary clothing, papers, books, bags, handbags, wallets, folders, valuables or other personal items. You will not be permitted to bring into the examination room any bag, handbag, folder, pencil case, calculator case, paper or similar item. You are warned of the possibility of theft. The University accepts no responsibility for loss of or damage to any item left outside of or brought into an examination room.

You must bring your student identity card or other photographic identification such as driver's license or passport to each of your examinations. Checks will be conducted in examination venues to verify the student's identity and any discrepancies will be dealt with University Statutes.

Further information about the conduct of the examinations is given in the Rules and Regulations published with the examination timetable and on the University's web site: www.vu.edu.au.
Academic Misconduct

Students should note that the University regards academic misconduct as a very serious matter. Students found guilty of academic misconduct could be excluded from the University. The period of exclusion will vary depending on the circumstances of individual cases.

The following are some of the actions which have resulted in students being found guilty of academic misconduct:
• taking unauthorised materials into an examination;
• submitting work for assessment knowing it to be the work of another person;
• improperly obtaining prior knowledge of an examination paper and using that knowledge in the examination;
• disobeying any reasonable instruction of a supervisor;
• directly or indirectly assisting other students or accepting assistance from any person other than a supervisor.

Possible penalties if found guilty of academic misconduct are referred to in Statute 2.7 and include:
• a formal reprimand;
• forfeiture of the whole or part of any assessment in the subject to which the misconduct relates;
• the imposition of a fine of not more than $500;
• suspension or exclusion from the course in which the student is enrolled.

Special Consideration

Students may apply for special consideration if their work during a teaching period or examination or other assessment has been gravely affected by illness or other serious cause.

Application must be made no later than three days after the date of submission of the assessment for which special consideration is sought. Applications seeking an extension of time to complete a component of assessment should be made to the relevant School or Department. All other applications should be made to the Executive Officer of the Faculty concerned or the TAFE Executive Officer.

Where students have been prevented by illness or other cause from making application within the three-day period they can make a late application setting out the reasons why the application could not be made earlier.

A successful application for special consideration may result in the student being allowed to undertake supplementary or further assessment.

Students will not be given special consideration for misreading the examination timetable.

Students with Disabilities - Alternative Assessment Arrangements

Students with an ongoing disability should immediately register with Disability Services in the Equity and Social Justice Branch of the University once enrolled in their course. Students with a temporary disability, which puts them at a disadvantage in written examinations, should advise the Faculty or TAFE Executive Officer and also register with Disability Services at the beginning of the semester of study or immediately after their disability is known to discuss alternative arrangements for examinations.

Alternative assessment arrangements could include extra time, a separate room or use of adaptive equipment in examinations.

Use of Linguistic Dictionaries

Students may apply to use an English language dictionary in an examination during the first two years of enrolment in the University if:
• the student has arrived from a non-English-speaking country within the last five years;
• the student has regularly attended an approved program designed to improve their language skills.

These are general guidelines only and criteria may vary with individual subject assessment requirements. An Application to Use a Dictionary Form is available from Enrolment Management offices and must be presented together with a dictionary registered with Enrolment Management. The concerned lecturer must then approve this form. After the completion of this process, students are required to bring this form along with the dictionary to the examination venue.

Use of Electronic Linguistic Dictionaries

The use of electronic linguistic dictionaries is not permitted.

Use of Computers and Electronic Calculators

Faculties, Schools and teaching Departments are responsible for determining which materials will be allowable for use in examinations. Students should refer to individual subject guides for details about the use of calculators and electronic devices. Generally, students will be allowed to bring into an examination room only pens, pencils and non-electronic mathematical instruments unless otherwise specified in the subject guide.

Further Assessment

Before the results of assessment for any component of assessment are published, the examiners may administer a further component of assessment to resolve any doubts as to whether a student has reached the required standards, or about the grade to be awarded to the student.

This means it is vital that students ensure they can be easily contacted between the time a component of assessment is completed and results are published.

Notification of Results

The final results for any subject will not be officially notified to students before the completion of assessment in that subject and their formal publication.

No information regarding results will be given by telephone.

A further component of assessment – oral, written or practical – may be administered by the examiners in any subject at short notice and before the publication of results. Students should therefore ensure that they can be easily contacted until the publication of results.

Review and Reports

Students may apply to have an assessment of any work re-marked or to be given a report on their assessed work. These applications may be subject to a fee.
Applications must be made to the Chairperson of the relevant Examination Board within seven days of the day upon which the results of assessment were published or become available for collection.

Students will be notified of the results of any review of their work.

Subject Assessment and Grading

Grades for Year 2003 are as follows.

Division 1 - Grades For Assessed Subjects (including theses)

A: Grades for Honours subjects, theses and subjects taken in Postgraduate courses, Honours Years, Honours Degrees, Degrees with Honours and Degrees of Master, assessed as a whole.

Course Assessment and Grading

Special provisions are made on a course-by-course basis for students who encounter difficulties with academic progress. The provisions for Stage Completion and Faculty Passes detailed below should be read in conjunction with the course-specific progress regulations that appear in the Faculty Details of Courses.

Stage Completion

Some courses are formally divided into stages. These are identified in the details of courses.

Following final assessment in all subjects within a course semester, course year or other defined course stage, a student may receive a stage grading as follows:

- stage completed, all subjects passed;
- stage completed by compensation.

Stage completion by compensation will only be granted to a student who, though not passing all individual subjects, has aggregated grades above pass level and at a standard appropriate for progression to the subsequent course stage. Stage completion by compensation is not a pass in the subject and might not be recognised by all appropriate professional bodies.

Procedures for stage gradings in particular courses are as recommended by academic course departments or faculties and approved by the University.

Faculty Pass (Higher Education Courses Only)

Faculty passes are only available to students who were enrolled in the University in 1991 and who have not since then discontinued their studies (other than by taking approved leave) or changed their course.

A Faculty Pass may be awarded to a student who has passed (at P grade or better), all but one of the units (subjects) required to complete their higher education course and qualify for the relevant award.

The mark in the outstanding subject must not be less than N1. The student must have gained sufficient marks in the subjects passed within the award to compensate for the shortfall of marks in the failed subject.

The award of a Faculty Pass shall not be interpreted as a pass in the given subject.

A Faculty Pass will not be awarded in respect of a subject that is a prerequisite for another subject.

Students who have passed all but one of the subjects required to gain an award, and who have been issued an N1 grade in the outstanding subject, may apply for a Faculty Pass by writing to the Faculty responsible for administering the course, clearly stating the basis of their entitlement to such a Pass.
The Pass is awarded at the discretion of the Dean of the Faculty administering the course in which the student is enrolled.

Requirements for Granting of Awards

The policies set out below represent the basic rules relating to the granting of a University award. Additional rules or requirements set by the Faculty are included in the Faculty section of this Handbook.

Partially Completed Courses

Where a student enters a University course by transfer from incomplete studies at another institution, that student must complete at least the final full-time year (or equivalent) of the course to qualify for the University award. This applies to all courses that are longer than one year of equivalent full-time study in duration.

This means, for example, that a student entering a three-year course having previously completed over two years of a comparable award at another institution can receive, at a maximum, two years’ advanced standing in the Victoria University course.

Completed Courses - Maximum Advanced Standing

A student with a completed award must complete, at a minimum, the equivalent of at least one year's full-time study in order to qualify for any subsequent University qualification at a comparable level.

Maximum Time for the Completion of Awards

To be eligible for the award of a Degree, Diploma, Associate Diploma, Advanced Certificate or Certificate, a student is required to complete all course requirements within the course progression regulations within the University. maximum periods of time, unless such provision is specifically waived for that student by the University.

Maximum times for completion of awards are as follows:

- Certificate 5 years
- Advanced Certificate 5 years
- Associate Diploma 8 years
- Undergraduate Diploma 10 years
- Undergraduate Degree of 3-years duration full-time 10 years
- Undergraduate Degree of 4-years duration full-time 10 years
- Graduate Diploma 6 years
- Graduate Certificate 3 years

Including time taken to complete preliminary Advanced Certificate year where applicable.

The time periods are taken from the beginning of the first semester for which the student was enrolled in the course, until the completion of all course requirements, and may include time elapsed due to deferment, suspension or voluntary withdrawal from the course.

Note: The maximum completion times apply in the absence of specific course requirements. For specific courses, shorter maximum time periods can be specified, and where this is the case, the shorter time limit will apply.

Academic Progression

Unsatisfactory Progress

The demand for tertiary study places exceeds the number of places available. Every year a considerable number of applicants fail to gain entry to the University. It is assumed that every person selected into an award course has the capacity to succeed. However, if students do not progress satisfactorily, they will be asked to show cause as to why they should be permitted to continue in the course.

An important aim of the University is to assist its students to succeed. Therefore, students should make use of the free counselling services provided if they are encountering problems or difficulties that are affecting their studies. These difficulties could include problems in organising time, financial difficulties, personal problems or difficulties in writing and presenting assignments and essays.

On the recommendation of the relevant Faculty or School, the University may specify academic progression rules for each individual course. Students should carefully read the progression rules relating to their course of study as detailed in the relevant section of the Handbook or in course regulations.

A student who fails to make satisfactory progress in a course of study is liable for exclusion from that course. This applies where a student does not achieve a satisfactory performance on a component of assessment, fails to attend without good reason for the performance of a component of assessment, or does not perform a component of assessment. In these cases, the relevant Faculty, School or Department, after investigating the circumstances and allowing the student to be heard, either personally or through a representative, may notify the student in writing that he or she has made unsatisfactory progress in a subject.

In addition to notifying the student of unsatisfactory progress, the relevant Faculty or School may also notify the student that it intends to make a recommendation to the Academic Board or the Board of TAFE that the student be excluded or suspended from the course or only be allowed to continue under certain specified conditions. As a general policy, the following will form part of all award course progression regulations within the University.

Students may not:

- enrol in any sequential subject without having passed all prerequisite subjects; or
- enrol in any unit with a co-requisite subject without having either previously passed the co-requisite subject or enrolling simultaneously in the co-requisite subject.

In reaching its decision about what action should be recommended with respect to unsatisfactory progress by a student, the faculty or school may establish one or more committees to consider the circumstances and hear any submission that a student wishes to make.

After receiving a recommendation from a faculty or school, the Academic Board or the Board of TAFE, as appropriate, may exclude or suspend the student from a course. Alternatively, the relevant Board may specify the conditions under which the student may continue in a course.

Special arrangements will apply to doctoral students and students undertaking masters degrees by research who should seek advice on those arrangements from their supervisors.

Any student who is notified of unsatisfactory progress should seek assistance from Student Services staff or the Student Union at the earliest opportunity.
Discipline

The University will act to protect good order and the rights of individuals within its confines. To this end, a formal process will be followed to deal with any alleged breach of discipline or misconduct.

The University operates within the provisions of a Statute dealing with discipline (Statute 4.1—Discipline). The full text of this Statute is printed in the Calendar.

Plagiarism

Paragraph 11(3)(d) of the Schedule to Statute 6.3.1—Assessment states that a student shall not, during or in connection with the performance of any component of assessment, submit, or represent the whole or part of published or unpublished material, written or prepared by some person or persons other than that student, as being the work of that student.

Any student committing a breach of this rule shall be guilty of a disciplinary offence and all further proceedings will be conducted in accordance with Statute 4.1—Discipline, and Statute 2.7—The Discipline Committee.

Procedures Relating to the Graduation of Students from Award Courses

This information relates to graduation from Certificate, Advanced Certificate, Associate Diploma, Diploma, Advanced Diploma, Bachelors, Graduate Certificate, Graduate Diploma, Masters and Doctoral awards of the University.

Upon satisfying all the requirements of an award course a student is regarded as a graduand and is eligible to become a graduate. When you have completed or nearly completed a course you are required to submit an Application for an Award form. You can apply online through myVU at http://myvu.vu.edu.au. Alternatively, forms can be collected from and handed in at the Enrolment Management office at any campus of Victoria University or downloaded from the University website and sent directly to:

Centre for Graduating Students and Education Abroad

A graduation fee and guest ticket charge applies if you decide to attend a graduation ceremony.

Academic Dress

The wearing of academic dress on ceremonial occasions is one of the traditions that is attached to universities. Victoria University has based its academic dress on the basic style of Oxford. It consists of a gown, a cap or bonnet, and a hood which represents the discipline of the degree.

Certificants: A black gown and black cap together with a black stole faced in tangerine.

Diplomates and graduate certificants: A black gown and black cap together with a black stole faced in the discipline colour.

Bachelors: A black gown and black cap with a black hood half lined with the discipline colour. The hood for the honors degree also has a white band on the edge of the hood.

Masters: A black gown and black cap with a black hood fully lined with the discipline colour.

Discipline colours:

- Ruby: Arts
- Ultramarine: Business or Business Administration
- Cherry: Education
- Silver Grey: Engineering
- Old Rose: Health Science
- Parchment: Law
- Pansy: Music
- Buff: Psychology
- Spectrum Green: Science or Applied Science
- Gold: Social Work

Doctorates: A black bonnet with a gold cord and scarlet gown with a facing of the discipline colour and black hood fully lined in the discipline colour as follows:

- Adonis Blue: Doctor of Business
- Cherry: Doctor of Education
- Graphite: Doctor of Engineering
- Pearl White: Doctor of Laws
- Ruby: Doctor of Letters
- Sapphire: Doctor of Philosophy
- Old Gold: Doctor of Psychology
- Spectrum Green: Doctor of Science
- Sky Blue: Doctor of the University

The academic dress for indigenous Australians is the habit of their award together with a calf length black and red silk stole that has gold tassels, a map of Victoria in gold silk and 'Victoria University' embroidered in gold on the left end of the stole, and the sun in gold silk and 'Ngapa Jindji Woraback' embroidered in gold on the right end of the stole.

Credit Points

The credit point system provides a uniform basis for establishing subject relativities and values within a course. The objectives of the credit point system are to:

- simplify and standardise the relativities and values within a course in relation to EFTSU and Higher Education Contribution Scheme (HECS) calculations;
- provide a uniform measure of total student workload across all higher education programs; and
- allow students to make informed judgements on their likely workload in subjects across various disciplines
What is a credit point value?
The value of a credit point is determined by the total student effort involved in the completion of a subject and includes private study hours, tutorial or laboratory work, library and research work together with formal class contact hours. The credit point value of a subject reflects its academic weight and the total amount of effort relative to other subjects within a course. There is no link between credit points and contact hours.

What type of credit point system?
The University has introduced a standard course value system of credit points. This means that all courses within the higher education sector of the University will have the same number of credit points for each year of a course.

How many credit points?
The University has adopted a system of 120 credit points for each year of a course. Thus a three-year degree program will equal 360 credit points, a four-year degree 480 credit points and so on.

How can I identify my enrolment load?

0–44 credit points per semester will equal a part-time load
45–60 credit points per semester will equal a full-time load
0–90 credit points per year will equal a part-time load
91–120 credit points per year will equal a full-time load.

EFTSU
All universities are required to calculate individual student enrolment load per year of a course. The Department of Education, Training and Youth Affairs expresses the value of an enrolment load as a percentage of 1, which is considered to be the total value of a standard, full-time course load. This unit of measurement is referred to as an Equivalent Full-Time Student Unit or EFTSU.

For example, a part-time student may record an EFTSU value of 5, indicating that the load for which the student is enrolled carries a value equivalent to half the standard student load for that course.
Services Available to Students

Student Career Development
Student Career Development provides an innovative range of services to students of Victoria University. These services include:
• Careers Counselling
• Careers Education Programs
• Employment Services
• Careers Resource Centres

Children’s Services
Victoria University has Children's Centres located on five campuses – Footscray Nicholson, Footscray Park, Newport, St Albans (Jindi Woraback) and Werribee. In addition, there is a preschool located on the Melton Campus.

Each Centre provides educational programs which respond to the children's social, emotional, physical, cognitive and creative needs. Nutritious meals and snacks are provided for the children throughout the day. All of the University Children's Centres have been assessed as providing the highest level of care by the National Childcare Accreditation Council.

All Centres provide a funded and integrated preschool program with a qualified Early Childhood (Kindergarten) teacher.

Families using the University's Children's Centres are eligible to apply for Child Care Benefit (CCB) through the Family Assistance Office (FAO) - formerly Centrelink. The FAO is responsible for assessing family income and determining the percentage of Child Care Benefit families receive. For further information please contact your local Family Assistance Office.

The Faculty of Human Development operates Health Practice Units at the St Albans and King St Campuses and at CERES in East Brunswick. These Units offer acupuncture, massage and herbal medicines to the university community and general public. Low fee structure. Phone (03) 9365 2625.

Independent Access: Students with Disabilities
Counselling, support and information for students with disabilities is available on all campuses. Assistance is available for day to day issues of personal, academic, housing, career and financial matters which is provided by contacting Students Services on 03) 9365 2399 or any campus Student Service office.

Identification of in class support needs and applications for alternative examination/assessment arrangements is arranged through Disability Services in the Equity & Social Justice Branch. Students requiring extensions to assignments or special consideration who haven't registered with Disability Services need to do so through their Faculty/teaching department. Further information and advice concerning support services for students with a disability can also be obtained by contacting Disability Services in the Equity and Social Justice Branch on (03) 9365 2193 or via email disability@vu.edu.au.

Orientation
Orientation Week (O-Week) is an annual event which is held at the beginning of Semester 1. During this week, a wide range of events are organised by the individual Faculties and Student Union to provide opportunities for students to meet each other and also to gain an awareness of the activities and services provided by the various University departments.

The Student Union distributes Orientation Information. The Survival Guide is published annually and includes information about the Student Union, Clubs and Societies, services available to students and a range of extracurricular activities. Further information can be obtained from the Resource Centre or the Student Union office on the City Flinders, City King, Footscray Nicholson, Footscray Park, Melton, Newport, St Albans, Sunbury, Sunshine and Werribee Campuses. (Refer to Student Union section for Campus phone numbers).

Indigenous Services
Support for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people is available through the Equity and Social Justice Branch. The two main aims of Indigenous Services is to fully support self determination and self management for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, families and community organizations; and to increase the access, participation, success and retention rates for Australian Indigenous people in the University's programs.

Indigenous Services staff can assist students with course advice, Abstudy, academic support, employment and careers advice, social support, housing, counselling and discrimination advice.

Further information can be obtained by contacting Indigenous Services on (03) 9365 2228 or via email equity@vu.edu.au.

Student Services
Student Services provide support to students in a variety of ways. Staff provide academic support, personal and vocational counselling, financial counselling, housing and health services.

Student Services offices are located on most campuses and are open Monday to Friday during normal working hours, or after hours by appointment. For further information contact Footscray Nicholson campus on (03) 9284 8801, Footscray Park campus on (03) 9688 4418, St Albans campus on (03) 9365 2399 or visit our webpage: wwwvu.edu.au/ss.
Accommodation

The University Student Housing Service provides students with a free and confidential service to assist with locating, securing and maintaining suitable accommodation. The Student Housing Database, including current accommodation listings, is on the Internet to improve accessibility. The ‘Housing Web’ can be located at http://www.vu.edu.au/ss/housing/ and holds a current listing of all accommodation offered to the University. The Housing Web also provides a wide range of tenancy rights information and also other information such as Real Estate Agent lists and Student Village information. It provides links to a wide range of appropriate housing-related services including Share Accommodation, Public Transport and Emergency Housing Services. Accommodation offers can be placed directly onto the Housing Web.

The Housing Officer is based at Footscray Park Campus and can provide tenancy advice, referral and case management as well as assistance with general housing information. At other campuses, Student Services staff can assist with accommodation inquiries. For further information, contact the Housing Officer on telephone: (03) 9688 4420 or e-mail housing@vu.edu.au

Chaplaincy

Contact Student Services for information about spiritual support in the community.

Counselling - Personal

Personal counselling is available at many of the campuses. Counselling can help students optimise their emotional, social and academic well being. Students are invited to discuss any personal, family or relationship matter with one of the counsellors. Some examples of issues discussed include loneliness, difficulty adjusting to life at the University, relationships, sexuality, family difficulties, grief and loss, self-confidence and anxiety. Counselling can be contacted by telephoning (03) 9688 4418 or (03) 9365 2399.

Financial Advice

Financial advice is available to students experiencing financial difficulties. As well as helping students to work out ways of budgeting and planning, the financial advisor/counsellor can assist with claims for Centrelink payments and fee extensions.

Other assistance includes emergency relief, rent assistance and various forms of Centrelink benefits.

Youth Allowance/ Austudy/ PES Applications

The Youth Allowance/ Austudy/ Abstudy schemes provide assistance to Australian citizens and permanent residents who are enrolled in approved courses at universities, TAFE institutes and other approved institutions in Australia. (Generally, Youth Allowance is for persons up to age 25, Austudy for students over 25 ). Abstudy is a payment for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students. The Pensioner Education Supplement (PES) is an additional payment available to students on certain Centrelink payments.

Assistance is subject to a means test and to certain conditions, including a minimum study load. Part time students under 21 years of age should note there is a provision for the payment of Youth Allowance for the sum of other approved activities such as job seeking, volunteer work, or training in addition to part time study. Ask the financial advisor/counsellor or seek a Centrelink interview.

A student who is eligible and qualifies for assistance may receive a living allowance and under special circumstances a fares allowance and rental assistance. Students may also apply for a Centrelink Advance Loan - an amount of up to $500.00 advance on future instalments, recovered over 6 months; this can only be done once in a calendar year.

Claim forms for Centrelink student payments are available on Campus, at secondary schools and Centrelink offices. Students are advised to lodge their initial claim with the nearest Centrelink office as soon as they enrol or re-enrol. Payees continuing in their current course will not have to submit another claim, but should return the Review Form sent to them within the stipulated time. Note that there is no provision for back pay if a student is not currently receiving benefits. It is important that an application for Austudy/ Youth Allowance/ Abstudy be lodged as soon as possible.

Loans

Student Services administers a loan scheme for enrolled students of the University who can demonstrate a genuine need. Loans are available for the purchase of books, computers and other course related materials, medical expenses, housing expenses and other purposes in accordance with the Student Loan Fund Policy.

Application forms and information sheets are available on campus from Student Services on most campuses.

Prayer Rooms

Prayer rooms are available on most campuses. Visit our web site for room locations: www.vu.edu.au/ss

International Student Support

Two International Student Advisers provide services and programs such as Orientation and Return Home for international students in Higher Education. They are also available to provide individual assistance and support.

TAFE International services are available at the Footscray Nicholson Street Campus, telephone: (03) 9284 8517.

Services for AusAid sponsored students are available through Footscray Park Campus, telephone: (03) 9688 4780

Further information is available at Footscray Park Campus, telephone: (03) 9688 4777, St Albans Campus, telephone: (03) 9365 2399 or City Flinders Campus, telephone: (03) 9248 1159.

Further information relevant to International students is available from the International Branch at City Flinders Campus, telephone: +61 3 9248 1164.

Health Advice

There are two health advisors (nurses) at the University. Typical issues that people consult the health advisors about include:

- General health and wellbeing
- Lifestyle issues
- Women's health
- Drug use issues
- Men's health
- Nutrition
- Chronic illnesses
- Family planning and sexual health
- Pregnancy testing
- Assistance with injuries and dressings
- Referrals to community agencies
- Vaccinations (at Footscray Park Campus)

The health advisors can also be contacted through Student Services on (03) 9688 4418.
Medical Centre

A Medical Centre is located at Student Services at the Footscray Park Campus in Building M, Level 2. Doctors consult on a sessional basis Monday to Thursday during Higher Education teaching time. All consultations are bulk billed on presentation of a Medicare card. For international students the Medical Centre bills Medibank Private direct. This means international students do not have to pay after their consultation provided they have their current Medibank Private card with them and they fill out a claim form at the Medical Centre. For appointments phone Student Services on (03) 9688 4418 or drop in to Student Services.

Drug Education

Substance use and abuse is an issue of considerable concern in the general community. The University has a drug education officer who can provide information on drug related issues and provide advice on how to find treatment and counselling services in the community. Education sessions on these issues can be organised for groups of students by contacting the drug education officer on (03) 9284 8886.

First Aid

There are first aiders on all campuses of the University. Lists of first aiders can be found on University intranet Homepage: http://intranet.vu.edu.au.

First aiders are only to be contacted in more urgent or emergency situations. Examples of the sorts of things you might contact a first aider for include:
- bleeding cuts
- burns
- joint injuries
- suspected fractures
- sudden illness
- collapse

If a situation is life threatening, contact the Ambulance (0) 000 first. Be careful to state your location and the nature of the emergency. If possible have someone meet the paramedics at an easily accessible point.

Health and emergency centres close to each campus are also listed.

Student Learning Unit

The Student Learning Unit (SLU) forms part of the Centre for Educational Development and Support (CEDS).

The CEDS SLU provides free English language, Maths, Science and academic skills support for students at Degree level and above. Support is provided in the ways described in the following paragraphs.

Subject-Linked Classes

Certain subjects seem to present students with particular difficulties in the area of researching, academic reading and writing, oral presentation and/or other academic skills.

CEDS SLU staff conduct support classes linked to these subjects which focus on the academic skills needed for successful completion of the assessment tasks in that subject. Classes are also offered on a similar basis in some areas of Maths such as Business Statistics, and in certain science subjects.

Further information about these classes is available from subject guides, subject lecturers, the CEDS SLU web site or directly from the SLU main office.

Discrimination and Harassment

The University has a network of Equity Advisers available to assist students who think they may have been discriminated against or harassed. The list is available from the Equity and Social Justice Branch on ph (03) 9365 2193, on the internet at www.vu.edu.au/equity or via email equity@vu.edu.au.

General Classes

CEDS SLU staff also conduct some general classes such as Reading and Writing for Engineering Students, and Summer and Winter Schools which are open to all students.

Individual Appointments

Postgraduate students may make individual or small group appointments to discuss their essay or thesis work. A very limited number of individual or small group appointments is available for undergraduate students who would like assistance with academic skills in some particular subjects where there is no linked CEDS SLU class.

Email Consultations

Students may consult a CEDS SLU lecturer about their work using email. However students should discuss this with the lecturer involved before sending work. Lecturers will comment on work, but not correct it.

Further Information

Contact Kim Borg or Bernadette Trickey CEDS Administrative Officers, on (03) 9688 4744.

Student Organisations

The peak student body for the University is the Victoria University Student Union Inc (VUSU Inc). Under this umbrella there are a number of sections including the International Students Association, the Victoria University Postgraduate Association as well as many clubs and societies.

The VUSU provides a range of services through the Resource Centres and officers on each campus. These services are designed to make students’ time at the University smoother and more enjoyable, and include recreation, sports, activities, advice, representation, advocacy and campaign organising.

Further information can be obtained from the Union Diary and the Survival Guide or by contacting the Student Offices at the following campuses:

Alumni Association

Alumni of the University include staff, graduates, current students, and members of the community who have a connection with Victoria University. Membership of the University’s Alumni Association enhances the opportunities of members to achieve their professional aspirations. Students, graduates and staff maintain contact with one another and organise reunions, networks and business functions.

Staff of the Alumni office provide support in developing member networks and Alumni Chapters. Chapters focus on a particular discipline and draw together graduates to form a network in a related field. There are currently Chapters in Graphic Arts, MBA, Recreation/Leadership, Arts and Traditional Chinese Medicine.

Members of the Alumni Association are sent regular information on social activities, professional seminars, mentoring programs, activities within the University and activities organised by the various Alumni Chapters. Members also receive quarterly a copy of the University newspaper Nexus containing the Alumni supplement bulletin, and receive invitations to specifically targeted events organised by the Alumni Chapter in their field of study.

The Association also offers many complimentary member benefits. These include continuing use of the University’s library facilities after student members graduate, and discounts to a range of services such as car rental, travel, sporting goods, the University bookshop, newspaper subscriptions and hotel accommodation.

There are also several International Chapters of the Alumni Association for those graduates who return home overseas. To date, Chapters and/ or networks have been developed in Hong Kong, India, Malaysia, Singapore, Taiwan and Thailand.

Membership for current students and first-year graduates is $11.00. The Alumni office is at the City Flinders Campus and is situated on the Ground Floor, 301 Flinders Lane, Melbourne.
